

Down New York Harbor

Gloucesters say one hasn't seen New York until one has seen its pile of masonry from the deck of an ocean liner coming up the bay. You can get the same effect without doing the round-trip to Europe by taking a Staten Island ferry and riding backwards.

The chief sight down the bay, this side of the three-mile limit, is the Statue of Liberty. The lady—liberty is feminine, of course—rears her head 305 feet, six inches above sea level.

For 25 cents you can take a boat over to her private island and climb up inside her head. Up there you will find 3,877,454 sets of initials scratched on the walls of her skull.

There is nothing compulsory about this, however. If you are an anti-philanthropist you needn't even look at her. Look over at Ellis Island instead. That's where they take the immigrants off the ships and pack them into detention rooms for the purpose of training them for riding on American subways and street cars during the rush hours.

Down the bay you'll find hundreds of ships and ocean-going tugs. There is no way of telling which ones have honor-conscious about them.

Natives of Manhattan who have never been south of the Battery will be unable to direct you to Staten Island or Brooklyn. Steaming down the bay you will notice Staten Island on the right and Brooklyn on the left. Both look well at a distance.

The last stop before the three-mile limit is Coney Island. Here during the summer time the crowds of people trying to bathe are so dense that the water is heated out at so much a square foot per hour.

Coming back up the bay you can see four bridges spanning the East river. Anybody will point out the one where the last suicide occurred and, if time permits, will take you up on the Bowery and show you the spot where Steve Hradie opened a saloon after jumping off Brooklyn bridge as a press agent stunt.

The best way to cross the Hudson river is to go under it by tube; then you don't have to look at Hoboken.

Clemenceau's Humor Brings Laugh; Mayor's Speech Is Smothered

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Some years ago Georges Clemenceau accompanied the venerable M. Fallieres, then president of the French republic to the Pyrenees district, during the course of which they reached a small village perched high upon a mountain side.

The statesmen attended the inauguration of a new fountain. The mayor, in welcoming the distinguished visitors from Paris, lauded the republican regime, bestowed great compliments upon the virtues, civic and others, of the president and premier, and spoke at great length. Clemenceau listened that the village had been built originally upon a mountain side to protect it against the attacks of the Moors and Saracens.

"You've succeeded remarkably well," Clemenceau cut in, "for since our arrival here we haven't met a single one of them."

The end of the mayor's speech was lost in the storm of laughter that followed.

SUMMONS

Equity 1400

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF OREGON FOR KLAMATH COUNTY.

W. E. Nicholson Plaintiff, vs. William Crowder, Defendant.

To William Crowder, defendant above named:

In the name of the State of Oregon: You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit on or before Tuesday the 12th day of December, 1922, and if you fail so to answer, for want thereof, the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief prayed for in his complaint herein, to-wit: That you be required to furnish and supply a deed to an undivided one-third interest in and to the premises in Klamath County, Oregon, described as follows, to-wit: North half of section 17, township 31, south of range 3 east of Willamette Meridian in place of the original thereof heretofore made, executed and delivered by you to J. R. Crowder and George W. Cherry which has been lost, and that on your failure so to do the decree of this court stand and act as and for said deed; that plaintiff's title to all of said property in fee simple be affirmatively declared and established by the court; that you be decreed to have no interest or estate in said real property; that you be forever enjoined from selling or encumbering said property except as herein mentioned; that plaintiff have, equitable relief and his costs and disbursements herein.

This summons is served on you by publication for a period of six successive weeks in the Evening Herald, a daily newspaper of general circulation, printed, published and circulated in Klamath County, Oregon, by order of Hon. A. L. Leavitt, Judge of said court, dated and entered Oct. 30, 1922, first publication hereof being dated and made Oct. 31, 1922.

TRY SULPHUR ON AN ECZEMA SKIN
Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night
Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.
It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream—Adv. 6.
Go to the Hot Springs Bath House.
Get results by using Mentho-Sulphur.
