

ALASKA SHOWING BUSINESS GAINS

Increased Fish Exports and Mining Revival Bring Heavy Cash Returns

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Considerable improvement in business in Alaska is foreseen by Associate Forester E. A. Sherman of the department of agriculture, who recently visited that territory. Exports of fish, for the last 10 or 12 years the great source of cash returns, will be surprisingly heavy this year, he reports, while a mining revival is in evidence and exports of high-grade lumber, cut from the Tongass national forest, show a promising beginning.

"The people of southern Alaska are particularly pleased with the efforts of the forest service to establish a pulp and paper industry there, and with the roads built by the service and by the bureau of public roads," Mr. Sherman says. "The road problem in Alaska is unlike that encountered elsewhere. In the states, travel and traffic exist before the government begins building roads; in Alaska we have had to anticipate the demand."

The completion, probably next January, of the government railroad from Eward to Fairbanks—a distance almost as great as from Washington to Boston—will greatly benefit the mining industry in the interior, in the opinion of Sherman, who predicts cheaper fuel for the mines. "The output of canned salmon from Alaska this year will be about the average of the past 10 or 12 years—something over 4,000,000 cases," he states. "It looked last year as though the salmon industry was facing early destruction, but the run this year was in some cases greater than ever before."

The relatively new herring curing industry also has seen increased activity. Alaska last year shipped about 175,000 barrels of mild-cured herring, which was more than in any previous year. A shipment of almost twice as much is expected to be this year's total.

Sherman says that at one seaport he saw a vessel loading a cargo of 1,800,000 feet of Alaska lumber for Australia. It was only part of a 5,000,000 feet order to that country. Other lumber shipments the past summer were to London, to Chicago and to the Atlantic seaboard.

SHARK FISHING MAY BECOME INDUSTRY OF MAJOR IMPORTANCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Shark fishing can be made an important industry in this country in the opinion of officials of the bureau of fisheries. There are many uses to which various parts of the dreaded "man-killers" can be put and at a profit to the fishermen.

Former Secretary of Commerce Redfield gave prominence during the war days to shoes made of shark skin and it is stated that leather from this skin is as good as that from beef hides. Its use is confined not alone to shoe manufacture, but to the making of other "leather" goods.

Shark steaks also got some advertisement during the war, but the fisheries bureau holds that the shark flesh, dried or smoked, also can bring a good price per ton as fertilizer. Shark liver oil, crude, also is used commercially, while the body oil, prepared by boiling the flesh also is valuable.

The shark also carries a delicacy for the Oriental. It is the fin, or rather certain of the fins. These are denuded of the flesh and dried. Later the cartilaginous substance of the "rays" of the fins are separated, soaked in water and cut up for use in soup. In Hong Kong it is stated that the best restaurants charge as much as $2.50 gold for a cup of soup made from the first class fins.

So the bureau of fisheries says fishermen and those who kill sharks are losing money when they fail to make shark fins part of their business. Along the California coast it has been the custom of fishermen and sportsmen catching sharks to kill them and turn the carcasses adrift as useless.

The market price of the dried fins of good size is as high as 65 and 75 cents per pound, but runs much lower when the fins are carelessly trimmed or cured. In the Philippines it is the custom to salt down the fins or powder with lime before drying.

BLIND MAN ELECTED JUSTICE OF PEACE

NAPA, Cal., Nov. 22.—A blind man, Charles H. Snow, was elected justice of the peace here this month and will take office on the first of the year.

Performance of his new duties by his wife, a dictaphone and a typewriter. He plans to have his wife read law passages onto dictaphone records so that he can listen to them as many times as he chooses.

Before he was blinded by pouring rabbit into an engine bearing, Mr. Snow drove automobiles thousands of miles. This experience, he thinks, will aid him in disposing of traffic violation cases.
