OIL INDUSTRY IN U. S. GREW FROM 25 BARREL-A-DAY WELL

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The American oil industry of today, including 275,000 wells producing 1,500,000 barrels of oil daily, started with one well producing 25 barrels a day, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

Col. Edwin L. Drake, a pioneer in the oil industry, brought in the first producing well in 1859 near Titusville, Pa. At the time the well was put to the pump, the world was using fats and greases for illuminating and lubricating purposes and the automobile was unknown.

Today upwards of 11,000,000 automobiles and thousands of tractors, oil-burning ships, airplanes, submarines, motorboats and portable engines depend on oil and its products for power and lubrication, the institute estimates.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant. —Adv. 61.

LARGE DEPOSITS RADIUM FOUND

Discovery In Africa Brings Lower Prices; Cost Now $70,000 Per Gram

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The national observance of "Cancer Week," when public-spirited men, most of them physicians, have shown anew the tragic seriousness of cancer, has again turned attention to radium as one of the principal agencies for coping with that appalling scourge. Radium is not a specific for cancer, for which there is no specific, but it has repeatedly proved to be of very great efficiency in the treatment not only of cancer but of some other diseases.

Almost simultaneously with Cancer Week, according to the United States geological survey, department of the Interior, there has been a great drop in the price of radium; instead of the former price, $120,000 per gram (about 15.4 grains) of elemental radium, the price now advertised is $70,000 per gram.

A considerable reduction in price had preceded this drop, because several manufacturers had on hand considerable stocks of radium, which, owing to the present financial conditions, were not sold readily. The recent great drop, however, was not due to this cause—it was due to the discovery in Katanga, in Belgian Congo, of large deposits of very rich, easily worked radium ores and to the erection of a plant at Olen, Belgium, about 40 miles from Antwerp, for producing radium from those ores.

Location of the Deposits

These deposits are at Luifwishi and Kasolo, near Elizabethville, in the extreme southern part of Belgian Congo, and consist of veins on the property of the Union Miniere du Haut-Katanga, a British-Belgian company operating huge copper-bearing properties in Katanga. The veins carry pitchblende, which is in large part altered to gummite, uranophane, and other uranium minerals. A subsidiary company has been formed to extract the radium, and a considerable quantity of ore carrying many times as much radium as the carnotite ores that have heretofore governed the world's markets has been shipped to Belgium. No data are at hand, however, to show that in the aggregate the newly found deposits will eventually yield as much radium as the deposits in the plateau region of the United States, though a considerable quantity can be produced from the Katanga deposits at a much lower cost, and it is that cost that is ruling the radium market today.

Recognizing the value of cooperation, American companies, closing down their own mines, have undertaken to market the African product, and radium is therefore now offered at a price lower than any that has prevailed since it became an object of commerce, and an opportunity is thus given to branches of government, hospitals, doctors, and philanthropists to obtain the precious material at a minimum expenditure, for it seems probable that the price will go no lower. Eventually the principal source of radium will again be the carnotite deposits of the west and when that time comes, it will be before the price will again rise.

An Opportunity for Philanthropic Work

The state of New York and the city of Philadelphia have each bought 2 grams of radium for the use of their citizens, and the province of Quebec has bought 1 gram. It is hoped that other municipalities, states, or countries will buy radium at the present advantageous rates, particularly as the work done during Cancer Week is likely to occasion a great call on institutions for the treatment of cancer in its early stages, when it is most amenable to treatment by radium. Here is a remarkable opportunity for wealthy men to do something to help sufferers from cancer and some other malignant diseases that may be cured by the use of radium.
