

Why Allied Statesmen Worry

The Turk infantry swings into Constantinople and announces to the world that the rich man of Europe has regained his strength. This picture shows the crack regiment, with Refet Pasha, military leader of the Kemalists, marching at its head. Enthusiastic crowds greet the conquerors of the Greeks and, assure the Nationalists that they will have popular support against the allies. Inset shows Refet Pasha.

PROBLEM IS SEEN IN DISTRIBUTION OF IMMIGRANTS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 21.—The most stubborn and critical obstacle confronting American cities is the presence of large and congested groups of foreign-speaking peoples whose assimilation has been slow, Dr. D. P. Forester, corresponding secretary of the board of immigration and church extension of the Methodist Episcopal church, declared at the annual meeting of that board here today.

"These people are crowding into our temples, colleges and universities in great numbers. They are in every field of commercial and professional life. They constitute the great body of American voters. They are to make up in a very large way our citizenship yet they are outside its pale and outside the influence of the institutions that have meant trust to our country, namely, the Christian church.

MOSCOW, Ida., Nov. 21.—Federal authorities have trouble enough enforcing the prohibition law without having a prosecuting attorney appear as counsel for a man charged with violating the law. "Silver King Mike" Is Dead at Age of 73

NELSON, D. C., Nov. 21.—Harris Ginsberg, aged 73, more generally known as "Silver King Mike," is dead.

Peddling shoe laces in New York as a newly arrived immigrant boy from the Russia-Poland border in the 'sixties, peddling supplies for the mines, in the Leadville silver strike in the 'eighties, prospecting on Quartz creek, now Ymir, in the 'nineties, merchandising gin Nelson for a quarter century, and investing $20,000 in Bayonne development, were phases in the life of Ginsberg. Ginsberg was a well-known character of early mining days. He gained his sobriquet of "Silver King Mike" when he was janitor of the famous Silver King mine on Toad mountain, near here, in 1897.
