

SOCIETY

Preparations for Thanksgiving are occupying the greater part of society's time this week. Many attractive dinner parties have been planned and several family reunions are being arranged for that day. Clubs are postponing their meetings out of deference to November 30. Community women are devoting a great part of their time this week to the Red Cross Roll Call.

Mrs. Kenneth Klahn, nee Miss Faye West, was the inspiration for a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening of this week, when about 15 of her friends surprised her at her new apartment in the Winters' building. The affair was arranged by Miss Elizabeth Sullivan who presided at a delightful supper served in the Rainbow after the shower. Places were set for the following and marked by place cards representing a miniature bride carrying a shower bouquet of roses: Misses Cecilia McMahon, Marie Obenshain, Ruth Lindsay, Maybelle Leavitt, Loretta Jennings, Ruby Fenwick, Mary Jenkins, Anna Seefield, Minnie Barnum, Miss Elizabeth Sullivan, Minnie Walker, Pearl Collins, Mesdames Sydney Abbott, Mildred Hoagland, George Stevenson, Sadie Pall-hee.

The Elks are planning a very elaborate dancing party for Thanksgiving Eve to be held in the ball room of the temple. Decorations and other features will carry out the idea of Thanksgiving and it is promised that this will be one of the most brilliant affairs of the winter.

Last night at Lyceum Hall a large number of friends of both Miss Bernadine Hannon and Miss Cecilia McMahon gathered to bid them farewell and to express their regrets at losing these two charming young women, who are leaving soon. Miss Hannon for Sacramento and Miss McMahon for her home in Portland. Lyceum Hall was prettily decorated in pastel shades of crepe paper and flowers. Dancing and cards were the main features of amusement indulged in throughout the evening interspersed with a few well chosen musical numbers.

The Aloha Club of the Eastern Star enjoyed an interesting afternoon Friday of this week when they met at the Baldwin hotel for a social time. Mrs. L. F. Willets and Mrs. Frank Ward acted as hostesses on this occasion.

At a simple home wedding this week, Miss Ruth Miller, became the bride of Frank S. Snyder. The ceremony was performed in the presence of relatives and near friends of the couple by the Rev. A. B. Bristow.

Mrs. Snyder is a Klamath Falls girl, having been raised and educated here. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Miller who reside on Wantland avenue. Snyder is an employee of the Hammer Motor company and has resided in Klamath Falls for several years. The young couple will continue to make their home in this city.

A charming dancing party of the week for the younger set was held last night at the Sacred Heart academy. The dance was held in the basement of the school and was for the high school students and their friends.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion held its regular meeting Tuesday evening and talked over plans for their future operations. Very soon they will have a joint meeting with the legion, and at that time plans for a social affair will be arranged. The attendance at the auxiliary meeting was the best it has been for some time and new members are appearing in greater numbers.

Members of the Women's auxiliary of the Presbyterian church met Wednesday afternoon in the parlors of the church and sewed for their bazaar which will be held early in December.

The Aloha chapter of the Eastern Star lodge will hold a banquet for their members and visiting members of the lodge Tuesday evening of next week.

Thirty-two young people of the Christian church enjoyed a "pic social" Friday evening. Games were played at the beginning of the evening after which the Rev. A. B. Bristow auctioned the pies to the highest bidders. The total income from the pies reached $29.69, fifty percent of which will go toward relief work, the remainder to the Sunday school class putting on the social.

Miss Mary Jenkins was hostess last night at a charming dinner party honoring her sister Eva's birthday. The table was centered with a large bowl of red roses and each guest was presented with a bud as a favor. After the dinner Miss Jenkins completed her entertainment with a theatre party. The guests were: Misses Beanie Tull, Letha Hinnings, Fanny Robinson, Pauline Cliff, Marie Obenshain, Ruth Lindsay, Inez Jenkins and the honor guest.

On Friday afternoon, November 19, Mrs. Mollie Belding entertained with an informal afternoon at her home on Tenth street, for the teachers of Central school. Sewing and Quite the newest and most interesting appointment for the vanity case is this sleek powder dropper. No box which may spill as it opens—but a neat pencil-like affair with an adjustable top from which one may shake the powder to one's puff. Quite as new is the little metal scent case with a fascinating metal stopper.

conversation occupied the ladies during the afternoon at the close of which a luncheon was served by the hostess. Present were: Mesdames Percy Wells, J. E. Brattin, Charles Patterson, Eva Clemens, Loomis; and the Misses Ruby Fenwick, Ruth Dixon and Augusta Parker.

HONESTY NEED OF ATHLETICS

Mere Bigness of Inter-Collegiate Sport Not Taken As Menace

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—The mere bigness of intercollegiate athletics, as evidenced by the erection of stadiums in which to stage the games, does not constitute a danger to the amateur sport, according to Major John L. Griffith, western conference athletic commissioner, who today replied to objectors who contend the immense stadia would breed professionalism.

So long as the games are honestly administered and kept from the hands of gamblers the stadia are an asset, Major Griffith said. The philosophy of the objectors is similar to the men of a generation ago who opposed big business because of its bigness, he declared.

"Some persons," said Maj. Griffith, "are inclined to view with alarm this unprecedented development of interest in sports and fear that the erection of these stadia constitutes a menace to our college athletics. These men were afraid of large business interests because they were so large in scope. Theodore Roosevelt pointed out at that time that there were good trusts and bad trusts and suggested that a business institution should be judged not so much by its size as by the methods which it employed. And so it is without collisions today.

"If our great games are kept clean, if the men who play do so for the love of the game and the benefits which they derive from playing, if we can keep our amateur athletics out of the hands of the gamblers, both professional and amateur, then these stadia and the contests will make for a better citizenship, and this means a better America.

"Among the ten universities in the western conference all have stadium building projects which are either completed or under way. Ohio State university has dedicated a stadium which will seat 62,000; the cornerstone for a stadium at the University of Illinois has been laid; a campaign to raise funds with which to build a stadium is now being conducted at the University of Minnesota; the athletic counsel at the University of Wisconsin has a building plan which will not be completed for several years; Michigan, Iowa, Northwestern, have good fields; Purdue plans a new field and Indiana also; the University of Chicago, with stands that will seat 22,000 found that a stadium four times as large is necessary for intercollegiate games."

THE ONLY VAULT WE CAN RECOMMEND

IT IS not possible for us conscientiously to recommend any other than the Clark Grave Vault, because it is the only one that gives permanent protection.

We all know the "diving bell" principle is Nature's own way of keeping out water and that it is the only absolute grave vault "seal" known.

The use of thick (twelve gauge) Keystone copper-bearing steel makes this vault immune to corrosion, giving it a permanency that cannot possibly be secured with any metal of lesser quality. Furthermore, stone, brick and concrete vaults let water seep in and hold it.

We know this vault will prove every claim, no matter when it may be taken up. We know the Clark Grave Vault will give protection "through the centuries."

THANKFULNESS

True thankfulness faces outward: We are thankful to—what? not to things, not to the rock for its gift of gold, but only to living beings free to give or withhold can we be thankful. God is the great giver of life and all goods. The thankful heart should be thankful to Him. Worship is an expression of thankfulness.
