

SISTER WEEPS AT GOUNARIS' GRAVE

Here is the first picture in this country of the recent executions of Greek exiles by the present military government. This shows the sister of Gounaris, former prime minister, weeping beside her brother's grave. Gounaris was taken by his executioners from the hospital, given strychnine until able to stand and then shot with his four companions. The bodies were dumped in the sea in a public cemetery. Relatives were then notified where the corpses could be found.

S. F. BASEBALL CLUB GETS FIRST HONORS IN ALL DEPARTMENTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—First-place honors in nearly every department in baseball were won by the champion San Francisco club of the Pacific coast baseball league during the 1922 season, according to the official averages made public here today by President W. M. McCarthy.

Business lead in the league in the close of the season, the Giants led in club hitting with a mark of 338 and tied with Vernon at 264 in club fielding. Four San Francisco hitters were among the 29 sluggers who hit 200 or more.

Although the club led in many branches, two Salt Lake hitters, Paul Strand and Manager Daffy Lewis were at the top of the hitting column, with percentages of .384 and .362 respectively, and a Vernor pitcher, Jackie May, led with a mark of 783 for 22 games won and 9 lost.

Strand made 259 hits during the season, breaking a record for season hitting that had been held by Jay Kirke of the Louisville club since 1920 when he made 282 safe singles.

Several of the players who go up in the majors next year were above the 300 mark in hitting. Safe Hale of Portland, who goes to the Philadelphia Americans, hit into third place with a mark of 353, Willie Kamm, San Francisco, whose sale to the Chicago White Sox for $100,000 set a record for high player prices, led his club with an average of .342, while not far behind came his teammate, Jimmy Connell, who reports to the New York Giants in the spring.

Farming

(O. A. C. Exp. Station) Conditions Bad for Poultry

Seasoning poultry mash occasionally with salt, as for table use, will satisfy the craving for salt. Some poultrymen prefer to dissolve the salt and use the solution for mixing the mash, as there is some danger of poisoning the birds by feeding lumpy salt. Condiments such as kinseng, ginger, capsicum or red pepper, and mustard are not recommended for general use. Good wholesome food and proper management will bring the birds into laying in better condition than prepared dopes or tonics.

Good Egg Type May Go With Good Appearance

"Highly standardized poultry free from disqualifications is entirely possible," asserts F. E. Fox, assistant professor of poultry husbandry at the Oregon Agricultural college. "The class of birds recently shown at the Pacific International Live-stock exposition in Portland clearly demonstrated that good production and good appearance can be had in the same individual.

"One breeder has said that he is afraid to use trap nests. It takes a lot of determination to cull out or market an individual which has good ancestry or pedigree back of it, but which clearly shows itself to be a bird decidedly lacking in vigor and vitality. Too many breeding pens are made up from trap nest records and pedigrees without actually seeing the birds themselves—whether they are fit to produce the coming generation."

Promiscuous "swapping" of roosters is a poor way to get male birds for another year, in the opinion of Professor Fox. An effort should be made to breed up the flock by separating males that neck well with the blood lines already in the flock. New blood may be introduced into the flock more quickly by buying a male bird than a female as a larger number of offspring bearing the new blood can be introduced the first year. The Oregon experiment station usually mates 20 leghorns with each rooster and from 12 to 15 females of the heavier breeds.

Advertisement for hair treatment: "HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG. Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea. Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair. A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy soft and beautiful.—Adv. 61.
