

SMYRNA TAKES ON NEW LIFE

City Emerging from Destruction Caused By Fire Of 10 Months Ago

SMYRNA, July 6.—After ten months of death-like stillness which followed the devastating fire, Smyrna has taken on a new lease of life. Quay street, which skirts the waterfront, has been cleared of debris and the familiar one-horse tramcars again are running. Two moving picture concerns which feature American films, are operating conveniently near the spot where passenger ships tie up. Turkish newsboys cry out a two-page edition of a daily French propaganda paper, and the cafes are running full blast. The American flag is still flying from the quay, but is in a new place. It was removed from the burning consulate at the height of the fire in September, 1922, and again when the temporary consulate was destroyed by a blaze several months ago.

American tobacco men who have struggled back to Smyrna have been surprised at the commercial activity of the city. Exports of figs, raisins and tobacco have revived in a small degree, and some steel rails and building materials are being imported. The Turks, the Americans say, are making a big effort to give the lie to those who prophesied Smyrna would remain a dead city under their rule. In this the Turks are being assisted by a generous sprinkling of Dutch, the oldest of the western colonies in Smyrna before the fire and Italians, a new importation, who are jealous of French efforts to capture the trade of the once prosperous community and principal outlet for the riches of Asia Minor.

Ten months ago there were 200,000 Greeks in Smyrna and another 150,000 in the flourishing hinterland. Today the only Greeks in Smyrna are prisoners of war working under the lash of dark-skinned Turkish non-commissioned officers, and guarded by Turkish privates with long bayoneted rifles. Carrying steel rails with their bare hands from ships in the harbor, and clearing debris from the narrow, winding streets emerging from the waterfront are their chief labors. They look cowed and tired. They work from daybreak until darkness and get a small ration of bread, olives and Turkish coffee. France, Italy, Czechoslovakia and bolshevist Russia maintain energetic consulates and trade representatives. The entire British colony has deserted the city.

American destroyers and United States shipping board steamers call here regularly. Uncle Sam's freighters are capturing most of the cargo business in the Mediterranean from the British, French and Italians. Passengers and crews on all boats entering Smyrna bay are required to wear life-belts because of the menacing minefields laid by the Turks. A Turkish tugboat leads the American destroyers through the lane of mines.

Antipathy toward foreigners has not been wholly removed, and passengers are not permitted to land.
