CHANGE OF SCENE

THE doctors all tell us that a change of scene is a helpful and restful experience, and many people get inspiration out of the new surroundings they enjoy during their vacation periods. Yet change of scene is not enough to free one from the consequences of poor self control or faults of temperament.

Some of the calm and philosophical people that used to be developed in former days never needed any change of scene. Many of us can recollect some of our older relatives who lived for years in one spot without any vacation outings. Some of those old timers would go along 10 and 20 years without being away from home over night. They had a certain grandeur of soul that could find peace and contentment in any setting where they were doing good and useful work. The simple pleasures of the home and the community, the beauties of nature, the satisfaction of doing good work, gave them the variety they called for.

But the present age develops few personalities of that type. The desire for change of scene is sometimes pure restlessness. Yet in many cases it results from an enlarged mentality. People who have read about different cities and states and countries and peoples desire to see these things for themselves, and compare them with their home environment. That is a normal desire, provided it does not promote a confirmed restlessness, and inability to settle down at regular occupations and prolonged periods of effort.

But there are many people whose outlook on life is marred by their personal selfishness and self absorption. They are interested in nothing but their own comforts and advancement, and they take little pride in good service to home and community. They keep dreaming that they would be happier if they could be somewhere else. They suggest the old saying about the people who change their skies but not their nature.

UNCLE SAM'S VOTERS

AN ASSOCIATION calling itself by the above name is working to induce every citizen old or young and without distinction of sex, to do his duty in the cause of good government. The organization, to secure interest in public questions, and induce people to vote, plans to establish local assemblies all over the country based on the old town meeting idea.

Lecturing people about their duty to take an interest in public affairs may pull some out here and there. But the big motive must always be personal interest.

If there were debates on public matters, local, state and national, in every city neighborhood and rural village, the questions of the day would seem real and live to a lot of now indifferent people. Folks would realize how their welfare is affected by the way such problems are solved. They would form opinions on politics and be eager for every chance to express them at the polls.

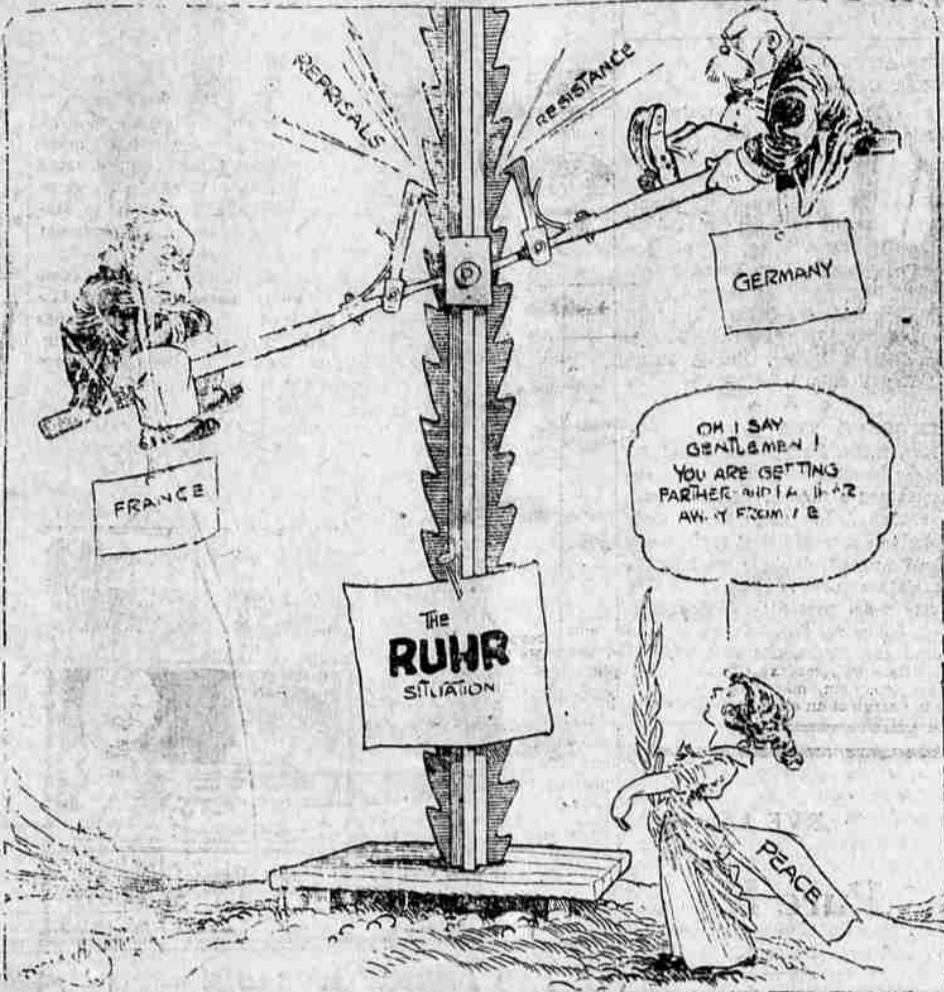

May be all right for the business girls to make themselves as attractive as possible, but they should not try to get their beauty sleep in the office.

After howling for taxes to be reduced, a lot of people immediately begin to shout for increased appropriations.

Claimed the universities should do more research work. Anyway the students are both searching and researching to find the prettiest girls.

No great anxiety manifested by the business men to employ the fellows who quit school prematurely because they know enough already.

DEPLORES CONDITION OF THE DALLES-CALIF. HIGHWAY

Klamath Falls, Ore.
To the Editor: July 20, 1923.
The writer would like to know or have someone inform him through the Herald columns the reason for the frightful condition of the Dalles-California highway. Anyone driving a car knows all about the terrible "wash board" condition of the road it is caused, I am told, by the men who drag the road with an apparatus for spreading the gravel. Tourists from other states who travel this highway are commenting most unfavorably, and rightly so.

Someone is responsible for this deplorable condition of this otherwise splendid highway. Who it is I have no idea but the state highway commission owes it to the taxpayers to relieve him of his job and replace him with some man who knows his job.
P. E. BURKE.

TO EDUCATE ADULTS IN ILLITERACY FIGHT

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 21.—The summer school idea, in a modified form, is being used by South Carolina in this state's fight to wipe out illiteracy.

Vacation boarding schools for men and women who have lacked educational opportunities have been arranged for this summer by the state department of education, in co-operation with the authorities of Lander College for Women, at Greenwood, and Erskine college for men at Due West. A full month's course in elementary subjects is offered at each institution at a cost of $12.50 to the student, which includes all expenses except transportation and laundry.

Pupils whose education has equalled that of an average sixth grade pupil are not accepted for enrollment, nor are boys and girls under 14 years old.

The pupils live in the college dormitories and eat in the college dining halls, and in fact, according to Miss Will Lou Gray, state supervisor of adult school work, lead the same lives that are led by the college students during the regular terms.

Eighty-nine girls and women attended the first "opportunity" summer school, which was conducted at Lander college last summer. The course offered this summer at Erskine is the first made available to men and boys. The ages of the Lander students ranged from 14 to 54 last year, the average age being 18 years. Many of the women came from the cotton mill villages, and not a few of these had their expenses paid by the management of the mills in which they worked for the remainder of the year.

"I wanted to be able to help my little seven-year-old son with his lessons," one of the older women students said last year, when explaining what had prompted her to leave her family, and enroll for the summer course.

AT THE PINE TREE

"Minnie," Marshall Neilan's latest picture released through Associated First National, will be at the Pine Tree theatre Sunday.

"Minnie," like all of Neilan's productions, is said to be exceptional entertainment. There is not a dull moment in it. It is a very human story about a household drudge who is so homely that no one hesitates to tell her so. Her father owns the hotel in the town but he is so interested in a radio invention that

Minnie does all the work Minnie has ideas and she uses them to the discomfort of everybody, including herself. The picture is full of incidents that develop hearty laughter, but underneath it all is the throbbing drama.

Matt Moore and Lentrice Joy are featured in "Minnie." Others in the cast are George Barnum, Josephine Crowell, Helen Lynch, Raymond Griffith, Richard Wayne, Tom Wilson and George Dromgold.

"Minnie" is at the Pine Tree Sunday.

"The Woman Who Fooled Herself" brings May Allison, co-featured with her husband, Robert Ellis, to the Pine Tree theatre Saturday in a fascinating drama of love and intrigue written by Charles A. Logue and produced by Edward A. MacManus for Associated Exhibitors.

Miss Allison plays the role of a beautiful American chorus girl who is tricked into taking part in a business intrigue and then complicates the whole plot by falling in love with the man she has ensnared. Today a double bill, "Railroaded" and "The Woman Who Fooled Herself."

SURGICAL CARE IS GIVEN SILVER FOXES

SPOKANE, Wash., July 21.—Surgical and medical care for foxes that rivals the care given human beings in the modern hospitals is reported by E. M. Robinson, president of a silver fox farm near here. The animals are raised for their pelts, which often bring thousands of dollars each.

One of the most interesting cases of fox surgery here followed the discovery of four small round stones in the small intestines of a fox pup whose respiration and pulse was fast, and whose temperature was 106 Fahrenheit before the operation, according to Dr. H. M. Beewman who performed the operation. An anesthetic treatment was given and the stones successfully removed with the knife, the same care and sanitation being observed as in the case of humans. In another instance a fox's injured leg was amputated. Within a very few days the bandages were removed and the fox quickly learned to get along with the remaining three legs. Both sides of the jaw of a fox were broken at another time. For eight days it had to be fed with a medicine dropper but the surgical treatment restored complete normalcy to the animal, the doctor reports.

During the calendar year 1922 the amount of Federal funds spent on highways by the United States Department of Agriculture totaled $5,603,100, which constructed 4,400 miles of forest roads and 4,100 miles of forest trails. An additional $350,000 was secured for this construction work from State and county authorities. During this same year 4,5550 miles of roads and 19,600 miles of trails were maintained at a cost of $500,000.

AT THE LIBERTY

The New York Evening Post, writing of the super-special 'Nero' during its New York run, under the heading, "Nero, a Sensation at the Lyric Theatre," gave it the following high praise:

"The motion picture world has thrilled as never before by the production of the screen masterpiece 'Nero.' For majesty and stupendous scenic effects 'Nero' has never been equalled. It is the greatest, most costly production ever made in the history of the world. The story deals with the rise to world power of the tyrant Nero, his mad infatuation for a young Christian girl, her love romance with a victorious young Roman who ultimately saves her from the tyrant, and the downfall and death of Nero through the evil plottings of the Empress Poppaea. One of the most gigantic pictorial effects ever accomplished is the burning of Rome shown in this picture. It is without the slightest doubt the crowning climax of motion picture achievement up to the present time. Its success at the Lyric theatre has been tremendous and enormous crowds have been flocking there at every performance."

"Nero" will be shown at the Liberty theatre next week.

IRELAND TRYING TO AID UNEMPLOYED

DUBLIN, July 21.—There are more than 62,000 persons without work in the Irish Free State for whom the government is struggling to find employment. The unemployment, difficulty, and the liberation of 12,000 political prisoners still interceded, constitute Ireland's most formidable problem.

It is estimated that the Free State army now consists of 40,000 men, and before the end of the year the minister of defense hopes to bring this figure down to 29,000. The government is puzzled to know what to do with the 29,000 soldiers when they are demobilized. The problem is common to all Europe where, through a disturbance of markets, there are more than can be absorbed in industry. Fortunately, the Irish Free State is in a better position to absorb these men than most other countries would be. It starts off with the important fact that it is a creditor nation, exporting in each year a great deal more than it imports.
