PORTLAND VISITORS ENJOY WONDER OF KLAMATH

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Krause had the double pleasure this week of meeting old friends whom they had not seen for several years and of hearing them go into raptures over the wonders which the average Klamath county resident takes more or less for granted. O. W. Davidson, a college classmate of Mrs. Krause at Beloit college and one of Krause's fraternity brothers, was a business visitor here, from Portland, where he is with one of the large insurance companies. He motored down by way of Crater lake, bringing with him Mrs. Davidson, their daughter, Miss Helen, and son, Orlando and Miss Mary Titus of Portland. They had never been on this side of the Cascades, and their brief stay did not give them the opportunity to see nearly so much as they desired, so they plan to come back some day. Davidson was particularly impressed with the Pinnacles on the Sand creek road, and could not understand why Klamath county does not advertise this wonderful sight more. If this county did not have Crater lake, he said, it could still attract large numbers of tourists here to see the Pinnacles.

MR. AND MRS. WAGNER ARE HOSTS ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Wagner invited a few friends to their home at the Lee apartments Wednesday evening to help celebrate his twenty-third birthday. Chaney and children, Helen, Elaine and Junior. The Rev. Chaney, who was formerly pastor of the Methodist church here, is now in charge of the church at Ashland. He and his family have been enjoying their summer vacation, and after camping at Diamond lake for two weeks, visited friends here for a few days. They left yesterday for Ashland.

FIRST NATIONAL EMPLOYEES PICNIC AT LAKE OF WOODS

One of the most enjoyable picnics this summer was that given by the First National bank last Sunday for its employees and a few guests. Cars left here early in the morning, and the crowd arrived at Lake of the Woods at 9 o'clock. There were amusements to appeal to all tastes, and swimming, rowing and pitching horseshoes were a few of the diversions. Rides around the lake on the launch belonging to J. A. Gordon, president of the bank, were enjoyed by the party, and visits were made to many of the summer homes, among them that of D. B. Campbell, which was recently completed. A wonderful picnic dinner was served at the Gordon cabin, "Bide-a-Wee." The party started home late in the afternoon, voting the picnic the best they had ever attended.

Those who made the trip were: Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Veatch and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Beard and Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rogers and sons, Donald and James, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gordon and Miss Hope, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Underwood, Mr. and Mrs. William Timms and children, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Music and cards entertained the guests, and votes were taken to choose the best costumed characters. Those decided upon were Miss Cecelia McMahon as Sis Hopkins; Miss Esther McAndrews, as an elderly lady of 1840; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Patterson, Bowery children; Miss Marie Davenport, French doll; Mrs. W. C. Davenport, Colonial dame; Mrs. M. J. McPherson, Aunt Jemima, and Miss Louise Cattuzza, an aristocrat.

The assembly room of the hotel was not large enough to accommodate the crowd, and several persons were turned away. The purpose of the social was to raise funds to apply on a piano that was recently purchased by the Sunday school, and a goodly sum was realized.

Washington Society

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Many and serious are the tribulations of the hostess to official society in Washington, and not the least of her worries is the necessity of keeping at her tongue's end the proper title and prefix for those of her guests who are members of the diplomatic corps.

In deference to the customs of a democratic country, many of the foreign ambassadors and ministers, together with the members of their staffs and families, have adopted plain "Mr." "Mrs." and "Miss" as the titles by which they are to be addressed. Others have not however, and the official diplomatic list of the state department presents an odd mixture of prefixes gathered from the ends of the earth. In some cases there even appears to be a paradoxical divergence among the representatives of a single country.

J. J. Jusserand, the French ambassador, who as dean of the corps heads the diplomatic list, eschews the "Monsieur" of his nativity and styles himself "Mr. Jusserand." But the next name is not that of "Mrs. Jusserand." Instead the list reads "Madame Jusserand, and there follows a string of "Madames" and "Mademoiselles."

The eye of the speaker after correctness next encounters "Senor Dan Juan Riano y Gayangos," the ambassador of Spain, and his wife, "Senor Dona Alicia Ward de Riano." "Senors," "Senoras" and "Senoritas" rule generally among the Latin-Americans, although the Argentine list is headed by "Mr. Felipe A. Esplá," the charge d'affaires, while the Uruguayan minister and his wife style themselves "Dr. Jacobo Varela" and "Madame Varela."

With the Japanese it is "Mr." and "Madame." The Chinese minister is "Mr. Sao-Kee Alfred Sze" and his wife is "Madame Sze," but the counselor of the legation is "Mr. Yung Kwai" while his wife is "Mrs. Yung Kwai." Every man except two on the German list has the prefix of "Dr." and of the two exceptions one is a "Baron" and the other, according to the official list, is to be addressed as "Herr." The feminine prefix is "Frau." Among the Italians it is "Signor" and "Signora."

In addition, of course, there are the diplomats and their wives who belong to the nobility, and who can be called by none of these titles. The Belgian ambassador is "Baron de Cartier de Marchienne," the British ambassador is "The Right Honorable Sir Auckland Geddes," the Hungarian minister is "Count Laszlo Szchenyi," and the Roumanian minister is "Prince A. Bibesco." The Persian list, in which only as expert can separate name from prefix, is as follows:

"Mirza Hussein Khan Alai, minister; Bagher Khan M. Kazem, counselor; Abdullah Khan Entezam, secretary; Hadi Khan Khatiblou, attache; and Sultan Mahmood Khan Amerie, attache."
