

The Evening Herald

Issued daily except Sunday by The Herald Publishing Company.
Office, 119 North Eighth St., Klamath Falls, Oregon

F. R. SOULE President and Manager
RUTH SOULE Secretary-Treasurer

Entered at the postoffice at Klamath Falls, Oregon, for transmission through the mails as second class matter.

Member of the Associated Press

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper, and to all local news published herein. All rights of republication of special dispatches herein are also reserved.

F. R. SOULE Editor
H. R. HILL City Editor
F. C. NICKLE Advertising Manager
H. W. REYNOLDS Mechanical Superintendent

The Evening Herald is the official paper of Klamath County and the City of Klamath Falls.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

Delivered by carrier.
ONE YEAR	$6.50
SIX MONTHS	$3.50
THREE MONTHS	1.75
ONE MONTH	.65
By Mail
ONE YEAR	$5.00
SIX MONTHS	2.75
PER MONTH	.65

INFORMATION FOR ADVERTISERS

Copy for display advertising must be in this office not later than 3 p. m. on the day preceding publication in order to be inserted in the issue of the paper of the next day.

Want ads and reading notices will be received up to 12 noon on the day of issue.

Advertising for fraternal orders or societies charging a regular initiation fee and dues, no discount. Religious and benevolent orders will be charged the regular rate for all advertising when an admission or other charge is made.

MONDAY, AUGUST 27, 1923.

JUST WHAT IS OUR OBLIGATION?

BEFORE those Americans who are continually weeping over European woes, and continually advocating that the United States shoulder some of the European burdens, go further in their foolish attempts to entangle this country in undesirable and dangerous alliances abroad, let them present a specific program.

Saying one thing and meaning another is the customary course of European diplomacy. It has never been, and is not now, the American way of doing business. Let the advocates of internationalism say what they want, then America can determine whether or not it is feasible and wise, from the viewpoint of American interest, to give it to them.

In the broadest and general terms these propagandists have told us for five years, and continue to tell us, that it is our duty to help Europe.

Let them now tell us how we may satisfy their clamorous demands.

The Republican Publicity association, through its president, Jonathan Bourne, Jr., puts this demand for enlightenment in plain language, and concisely, in the statement which follows:

Our internationalist editors, story writers, and lecturers are very flippant in their use of terms. Such words as "isolation," "aloofness," and "desertion" are applied to the attitude of the United States towards Europe with the utmost nonchalance. With recklessness and abandon we are told that we should rush to the aid of Europe and rescue those countries from the chaos that impends. Probably not one of those writers and talkers has a single specific suggestion as to the form such aid and rescue should take which he would dare advocate before a typical American audience. The loose generalities in which they indulge have a beneficent sound to the public ear, and in the public mind have a sort of detached relation to the government at Washington. Probably not one person in a thousand stops to consider what the United States would have to do to clear up the European situation, or what sacrifice it would bring to him personally.

Is it not about time for our alien propagandists to abandon their appeals for sympathy and get down to facts and figures? Disregarding for the moment the enormous contributions the United States has already made toward the rehabilitation of Europe, the huge accretions of territory and natural wealth which the allies won as a result of the war, and the refusal of this country to accept any of the spoils of war, just what is the obligation which those people conceive we now owe to Europe?

Do they wish us to cancel the $11,000,000,000 debts owed by Europe to the United States treasury, and increase the taxes on our own people sufficiently to make up that amount? If so, let them courageously advocate such a policy and not cowardly hide behind a general plea for "aid to Europe."

Do they want the United States senate to ratify the treaty submitted to it by former President Wilson, whereby this country would guarantee France against any future aggressions from Germany? If so, let them declare themselves and candidly tell the people what they think it would cost them in men and money to make the Franco-German boundary secure.

Do they want the United States to accept German bonds in lieu of the allied debt obligations now held by our treasury, and then look to Germany for future payment of those bonds? That scheme has been suggested abroad more than once, and would undoubtedly bring great relief to Europe. If that is their plan let the propagandists boldly advocate American reorganization of German finance, the stationing of American tax collectors in all the German ports and cities, and whatever else may be necessary to get our money back.

Do they want us to join the league of nations and perform the onerous duties under the covenant that have been shirked by every one of its signers? If so, let them have the courage to demand such a course from the 16,000,000 voters who denounced that instrument in 1920.

Do they want an American army sent to drive the French out of the Ruhr? If so, let them come forth and urge such a program upon American mothers and taxpayers.

If those suggestions do not include the program of the European aiders and rescuers at the expense of the United States, will they please give us enlightenment? No matter what further "aid" may be extended, the price has got to be paid by American men and women, by American taxpayers and producers. It is only fair to them that they be given some inkling of what is in store.

Record Haul at Atlantic City

Many big catches are made at Atlantic City. Tourists will tell you many big hauls are made there, too. They seldom refer to fish, but this photo shows what the boardwalk walkers saw the other day, one haul of fish netting two tons valued at $2000.

HISTORICAL DATA ON ANTARCTIC IS AIM OF EXPEDITION

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 27.—What is claimed to be the longest and most extensive natural history expedition ever undertaken will be started in September under the direction of George Finlay Simmons, Texas naturalist. The expedition, which is sponsored by the Cleveland museum of natural history, will cover approximately 25,000 miles and will be in progress for two years.

The expedition will leave New London, Conn., early in September on a specially equipped schooner, commanded by George Comber, who commanded the McMillan relief expedition in 1917. The party will visit many volcanic islands and wild regions in the Antarctic and Indian oceans.

After leaving New London, the first landing of the expedition will be St. Paul rocks off the coast of Brazil. From there the course will lead directly south into the land of the Antarctic. Investigations will be made and specimens of bird and other life collected on the South Georgia Island, Sandwich Latter Islands. The last group is covered with ice and snow throughout the year and frequently visited by volcanic eruptions, it is stated.

After visiting several groups of islands in the Antarctic region, the party will move to Cape Town, Africa. The winter season will be spent in Africa. Expeditions will be made into the mainland along the west African coast and visits to St. Helena and Ascension islands in the middle Atlantic.

On approach of the arctic summer, the naturalists will go into the southern part of the Indian ocean. Life on the Crozet, Desolation and Kerguelen Islands will be studied. An effort will be made to get specimens of the giant sea elephant of the Antarctic region.

The expedition party will include more than fifteen recognized naturalists. Director Simmons recently was named as curator of birds and mammals of the Cleveland museum. He has attained distinction through investigations of bird life on gulf islands off the Texas coast. Formerly he was instructor in the University of Texas here.

Specimens obtained on the expedition will be brought to the Cleveland museum and to the American Museum of Natural history in New York, which is co-operating in the excursion, according to Simmons.

SCHOOL SUPPLIES AT SOUTH-WELL'S 27-1

WHAM!!!

The Office Cat

Far be it from us to knock a pretty girl. But too often the only connection between beauty and brains is that they both begin with the same letter.

After all, there are some things to be said in favor of jazz music. Frinstance, few persons can whistle it.

If you see a man who is continually smiling these hot days, don't be too sure he's crazy, he may be your ice man.

May we subtly revise it: "Variety is the vice-of life?"

And How's This
You sing a little song or two
And have a little chat;
You make a little candy fudge,
And then you take your hat;
You hold her hand and say "Good-night."

As sweetly as you can,
Now ain't that a helluva evening.
For a great big healthy man?

Most of the men who marry for money learn to think they deserved more than they got.

Beauty is only skin-deep, and because a bride looks lovely in her crepe de chine veil, is no sign that her pies will be edible.

A bridge over San Francisco bay will cost $6,500,000 being almost as expensive as auction bridge.

Gen. Drummond says luck is the result of hard work.

Rockefeller holds the non-stop making money record, but movie actors hold the non-stop marrying record.

"Don't you come down till I get home," said I to my garter.

Chorus girls should be divided into three classes as follows: Good looking; good figures and those who can sing.

After the family has been outfitted for the summer: "Clothes break the man!"

"No, Genevieve, a bridal party has nothing to do with horses."

There is nothing new under the soil, writes a Keno contributor. A scratching hen only digs up the ancient animosity of any neighborhood.

Harry Peltz says the reason some

THEATRES MOVIES

AT THE LIBERTY

Why did Mrs. Wallace Reid leave her house of mourning for the glare of the studio spotlight?

Why has she broken the usual rule of widow's retirement, to re-enter moving pictures?

The answer is this: Because she, of all women, has had brought most forcibly to her, the need of a moral awakening—another great reformation—a twentieth century crusade against a foe many times stronger than the infidel of old.

She has made a supreme effort to collect the broken threads of her life and piece them into one fabric—to carry on a noble work. To see her in her present aspect of crusader, one would say she was a Gibraltar of stoicism. Yet it is sheer grit and determination that is keeping her sorrow-benumbed faculties together.

Her devotion as a wife and mother, her talent as an actress, her convictions as a reformer—all these innate forces she has combined in building up the greatest achievement of her career. In "Human Wreckage," the great picture sermon which she has completed with the aid of such prominent people as William J. Burns, Mayor Cryer of Los Angeles, Dr. R. H. von Kleinsmid, president of the University of Southern California, and Benjamin Bledsoe, United States Judge of the twelfth federal district, she has projected on the screen her conception of the problem which confronts the world.

"Human Wreckage" is not the story of a weakling. It is the story of a man, big both in nature and stature; a man bitterly opposed to the illegal traffic in narcotics; a leader, in fact, in the ranks of those who strive to wipe this evil from the face of the earth. His downfall coming through overwork, as it does in so many cases of similar nature, he fights the same fight that others have fought before him—for health and recovery. It is to these silent fighters, who, in solitary places, wage war against the unseen beast, that Mrs. Reid pays tribute in "Human Wreckage," which will show at the Liberty Tuesday and Wednesday.

At a novel toy balloon festival held recently at the Dutch fishing town of Volendam, 2,000 air vessels were sent up for long-distance competition. The winning balloon came down two miles from Bremen, Germany.

Put the old stray on the shelf. The fall hats are ready at K. K. K. store. 27-1

AT THE PINE TREE

Nita Naldi's first stage sweetheart was John Daly Murphy, who has a leading part in this noted Paramount player's newest picture, "You Can't Fool Your Wife," which will be seen at the Pine Tree theatre tonight. Nita's first appearance on the legitimate stage was in "The Bonehead," wherein John Daly Murphy, the well known comedian, though married in the play, made love to the beautiful siren, much to the distress of his unattractive stage wife. In "You Can't Fool Your Wife," Miss Naldi and Murphy resume the love affair of their common stage appearance several years ago, right where they left off. The intervening years were merely a slight interruption, and in spite of the disapproval of Murphy's present screen wife, he is again a victim of the charming Miss Naldi's wiles.

PINE TREE

TONIGHT

YOU CANT FOOL YOUR WIFE

No sir! It simply can't be done! You can't fool yourself by seeing this production.

—Also—

FELIX CAT COMEDY

PINE TREE

TUESDAY

A Bill of

Vaudeville

You'll Enjoy Especially
The Musical Misses
Four of them.

—Also—

BILL DUNCAN

—in—

When Danger Smiles

AT THE LIBERTY

Orchestra Every Evening—Mr. Harry Borel, Director

Tonight is the final showing of

"TRIFLING WOMEN"

The master production of Rex Ingram, the man who produced "The Four Horsemen."

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY

The most important picture of the year is

"HUMAN WRECKAGE"

With MRS. WALLACE REID and a distinguished cast. The greatest battle of the century—Wallie Reid's wife—a modern Joan Of Arc—arrayed against all the evil hosts of the gigantic narcotic army. A tremendous story with a theme as big as the universe.

Special Prices For "Human Wreckage"

MATINEES—Children 15 Cents. Adults 35 Cents
EVENINGS—Children 25 Cents. Adults 50 Cents

No reserved seats. First come, first served.

men tell Satan to get behind them is because they wish to set a faster pace.

"Did you ever notice how funny it sounds for a woman to call her husband by his first name, in a crowd?" asks Will Wood.

You Know Him

A stingy cuss is Ignax Hoss. He never wants to come across. He would treat you, but goodness knows His money's in his other clothes.

Woman is a failure—doesn't she go into the hands of a receiver?

Another good sanity test is the possession of a car that is capable of making eighty miles an hour.

A bright smile is a golden asset in business. Try it yourself.

Another way to be satisfied with your lot in life, is to keep the back part of it clear of rubbish.

Never hit a train with an auto. Illinois railroad sued a man who did and won the case.

School days threaten to return. No joy is permanent.

There will be many new dances steps this fall. Only a few will be steps in the right direction.

Tiffin, O., improves. Grocery clerk hit a salesman for singing "Yes, We Have No Bananas."

Ford will make a ton of coal do the work of five. Might as well. That's what it is paid.

Save the mosquito netting. Veils will be worn this fall.

Fall hat styles are ready at K. K. K. store. 27-1