

IT WOULD HAVE BEEN GOOD NIGHT FOR COPS HAD THEIR BULLETS HIT THE SMALL BOTTLE

SPOKANE, Aug. 31.—Shooting blindly into a drug store near the downtown section of Spokane where safeblowers were at work recently, eight police officers came within scant inches of blowing themselves, as well as their human game and nearby residents, into eternity. One officer was wounded at the time by bullets, but the real danger of that episode has just been discovered.

Among the tools and equipment taken when the officers finally captured the safeblowers was a small and innocent looking bottle. It was noticed at the time of capture that the officers' bullets had shattered a counter at points but a few inches from the bottle.

Chief Wesley Turner had the contents of this small bottle analyzed by the city chemist, with the resulting discovery that the contents were nitro-glycerine, 92 per cent pure, in sufficient quantity to blow up any two office buildings in Spokane simultaneously. Had one of the bullets struck it, the chief noted, nothing but a hole in the ground would have marked the existence of the officers, burglars and neighbors and all their quarters.

INDIANS PLAN TO COMBAT LEGENDS OF EARLY SAVAGRY

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—A campaign to eliminate any existing belief that the primitive methods of the American Indian are still employed, will be started at the pow wow to be held here September 24-30, which will bring together the leading members of the remaining Indian tribes.

"It is for the purpose of showing the people of the country that the American Indian, who always has been looked upon as a scalp hunting tribe, is only a kind, intelligent and educated brave enjoying life in his own simple way, that the pow wow is planned," according to Miss Cook, Indian worker, establishing relations between the Indians and the department of the interior.

"From many Indian reservations of the country will come the Indian braves and squaws, not in their native attirement, but in the habiliments of civilized people. They will formulate plans whereby they can have better representation and better conditions. These tribal leaders seek a relationship with the interior department which will not keep them inconspicuous because of their inability to deal directly with the department. They desire a method of procedure which will be one of coordination."

Indian activities, at present widespread, will be coalesced here, if the plans of the convention are realized. Several Indian teams of La Crosse players will start east several weeks before the pow wow here, playing an elimination series enroute. The two teams surviving the series will clash here for final honors.

One of the forest preserves adjacent to Chicago will be named during the convention. An Indian village will make its appearance there during the convention. Indian music, displays and other exhibitions of Indian lore will be held during the week.

PROSPECTS FOR LUMBER MARKET ARE HELD GOOD

year for a larger volume of lumber to replace the gradually diminishing supply in the older lumber producing states, the amount on hand should be about right to take up this slack and from a statistical standpoint therefore, the local industry is in a very satisfactory condition.

It is true that the percentage of different grades making up present inventories is somewhat out of line due to an exceptionally heavy local demand for box lumber and lumber for general building purposes. The slump in eastern building naturally reacted in increasing stocks of factory lumber to some extent but this merely delays the movement of these grades until such time as the backed up demand, which is certain to come, develops. Since the manufacturers have been so successful in moving a large amount of low grade lumber they are not so vitally interested in the relatively small amount of upper grades which have accumulated.

Conditions Sound

From the lumber users standpoint, the present situation should be exceptionally satisfactory since the mills are in a position to furnish well assorted and well seasoned stocks. Local lumber manufacturers feels that conditions throughout the country are fundamentally sound and that it is simply a matter of time before the demand will again tax the industry to its capacity. The fact that this region produces such a large percentage of the total soft pine available places the manufacturers in a particularly desirable position.

CANNON FIRED BY COOLIDGE STARTS PONY EXPRESS RACE

Russell, Majors and Waddell of Leavenworth, Kan., was the father of the pony express idea. Ficklin dreamed of transcontinental mail delivered by pony riders, and William Russell, senior member of the stage firm, made it possible, financially, to make the dream a reality. Russell formed the Central Overland California and Pikes Peak Express company, which absorbed a number of mail and stage companies. A contract was granted by the United States whereby the new concern agreed to deliver mail across the 2,000-mile tortuous stretch.

100 Stations
The new line, when fully equipped, comprised 100 stations, about 450 horses, 400 station men and 80 riders. Though the name pony express was always used, the mounts included anything from thoroughbred horses of Iowa to cayuses or mustangs of California.

In the New York Herald and St. Louis Republic on March 26, 1860, notices appeared simultaneously announcing the establishment of a new mail line "to California in ten days by the Central Overland California and Pikes Peak Express company." The notice said: "The letter mail will be delivered in San Francisco in ten days from the departure of the express. The express passes through Forts Kearney, Laramie, Bridger, Great Salt Lake City, Camp Floyd, Carson City, the Washoe silver mines, Placerville and Sacramento. Letters for Oregon, Washington territory, British Columbia, the Pacific Mexican ports, Russian possessions, Sandwich Islands, China, Japan and India will be mailed in San Francisco."

Only three or four of the original eighty pony express riders are living today, according to information obtained by various organizations checking up on the survivors. Two of the original riders, William Pridham and John Seebeck, live in Alameda, Calif. Pridham, who is 86, and Seebeck, 85, each tell vivid tales of the old days when transcontinental mail was carried by horseback. Pridham's route as a pony express rider was between Austin, Nov., and Smith creek, a distance of sixty miles. The route was traveled once a day, and horses were changed every ten miles. The stretch was through a wild country infested with Indians, and the record time for the run was six hours. Pridham is said to be the only man in the employ of the Wells Fargo company holding a badge for fifty years' continuous service. Seebeck rode a stretch from Carson City to a station approximately eighty miles east, changing horses three times each trip.

ment is holding in Moscow this fall. Two members of the society for book exportation have accompanied the exhibit to Russia, and will supervise the arrangement in such manner that the books will give a definite idea of the historical development of Germany's publishing business.

GIRL CLERKS IN BRITAIN POORLY PAID, ASK RAISE

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Girl clerks in American offices who hempen the slimness of fifteen and twenty dollar a week salaries are considered lucky by their poorer paid counterparts in England.

There are 3,000 women clerks in government offices, some of them with eight years experience, who receive less than the equivalent of $10 a week. They don't like it, but they don't know what to do about it, for there are still more than 1,000,000 unemployed in England who stand ready to pounce upon positions the minute they are vacated. Most of these government clerks are in the late twenties, some have passed thirty, and among them there are widows with children to support.

The clerks have asked the government to increase their pay by $2 or $2.50 a week. Some of the newspapers are supporting their requests. The government hasn't said anything yet, one way or the other. Meanwhile, it is said, the girls who cannot make both ends meet on their salaries are making up the difference after hours, by sewing, doing laundry work, and teaching dancing.
