

BONANZA HIGH SCHOOL PAPER IS PUBLISHED

First issue of "Sage Brush Clarion" Reflects Worthwhile Efforts of Students

A four-page weekly is the latest accomplishment of the Bonanza High School association. The paper is named the "Sage Brush Clarion," and under the editorship of Lois Houston and management of Birdie Hamaker, a paper of decided worth was the result of their initial effort.

On the front page, in true Hearst style, is the editorial placed in a position that cannot escape the eye of the reader. Following the editorial is the lead story. The inside pages are devoted to the general runs of news, personals, school items and observations.

Lois Houston is the editor-in-chief, Birdie Hamaker the business manager, Milburn Burk, the assistant manager, Elsa Armstrong the faculty advisor, and Mary Scott, Everett Sparks, Frank Craspe, Clive Black, Ursula Weock and Myrtle Burn the reportorial staff.

Following is the editorial of the first issue:

SCHOOL PRIDE.

School days are here again. We are starting new this fall. That we are starting new is impressed on us by the improved appearance of the school building. It has been well repaired during the summer. Instead of the old faded appearance of the rooms, they are made more cheerful by lovely gray woodwork which harmonizes well with the light tan of ceiling and the walls.

Are we proud of our school? In addition to the freshly painted woodwork and kalsomined walls, our school has an unusually good equipment for a school of its size. We have a large library, numerous maps, the newest thing in adjustable seats, laboratory equipment, manual training apparatus, a moving picture machine, electric lights, and an expensive radio set. Pictures on the walls add to the attractiveness of the rooms. A piano and Victrola make music possible. There is, too, the building itself which is a fine, large brick one, a suitable home for the school. When we have all this, can we be anything but proud of our school?

But in direct conflict with the statement that we are proud of it, is the fact that parts of the building have been marred and defaced by markings for which some of the students are responsible. It is difficult to understand why boys or girls should so deliberately mar their school building. How could any student be so lacking in school pride and school loyalty? Such a thing could not be done thoughtlessly—no, the student who is responsible for this, deliberately defaced his and his fellow student's home.

We have a fine school—attractive it is and we must keep it so. Let popular opinion be set against such an offense as the one spoken of that no student will want to deface our school building in any way. Since we spend many hours in school, we should help make and keep our surroundings agreeable in order that we may be able to recall with pleasure our "school days!" This school is worthy of our respect and love. Everyone has felt pride in possession. Come then, let us show our pride in our school.

ISOLATION OF K. F. IN WINTER UP TO WEATHER

The importance of keeping roads open during the winter months is stressed by the the United States department of agriculture.

Investigations of the bureau show that there is a considerable mileage of road which the public can ill afford to lose the use of each winter.

As a result of traffic investigations in Connecticut, it is estimated that 1,019,688 net tons of commodities were transported over the state system in the three months' period beginning with September, 1922. More than a third of this tonnage moved only from 1 to 3 miles and nearly another third moved from 10 to 20 miles. These figures are given to show that in industrial sections there is a large volume of short-haul traffic which does not compete with the railroads and which cannot be carried by the railroads when the highways become snow-bound.

Difficult to Estimate.

It is difficult to estimate the amount of inconvenience to passenger travel caused by snow but with at least one motor vehicle to every ten people in a majority of the states it must be considerable.

In many sections motor bus travel is increasingly relied upon by rural communities. It is reported that there are 450 such lines in Ohio, 283 in Pennsylvania and large numbers in other states where snow is a problem. So great is the importance of keeping these lines in operation that cases are known where companies have cleared their lines of snow at their own expense.

In Germany a total of 1,763,376 women workers belong to trade unions.

SAYS AGENCY DID NOT HOLD INSURANCE

In your issue of November 5, 1923, your paper carried a story concerning the fire at the former Alex Noster dwelling in which it was stated that there was $1500 insurance held by the Dunbar Insurance agency.

In the interests of veracity, and in order that credit may be given where credit is due, for your information we advise you that the Dunbar insurance agency was not carrying any liability on this building. To the best of our knowledge, the insurance was written by the J. H. Driscoll agency.

We will appreciate it if you will print a correction of the statement that the insurance was written or held by Dunbar & Dunbar. Thanking you for your kind attention to this matter, we are,

Yours truly,
DUNBAR & DUNBAR,
By Fred B. Dunbar.
