Copeo Official Here—

A prominent visitor of Klamath Falls yesterday was W. R. Crawford of Medford, manager of the new industries department of the California-Oregon Power Co. Crawford was requested by the Chamber of Commerce to give the main address at the forum luncheon yesterday. His talk dealt with new industries and possibilities for their establishment in this section. A new industries department in a large corporation is something new in big business. The job of this department is to look over the land the company could supply with power. After a careful study of resources the new industries department endeavors to interest capital to establish themselves. Crawford was accompanied by his wife and spent the night here. He returned to his home in Medford today.

S. P. Man in Town—

J. H. Getchell of Dunsinuir, who is chief electrician in the Sasta division of the S. P., was in town today on company business.

Will Attend Homecoming—

Marvin Lucas of this city, former student of U. of O., is leaving in the morning to attend homecoming week end in Eugene. Lucas is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity and will stop in his fraternity house while there.

Leave for S. F.—

Dr. W. H. Gaddes, one of the principal owners of the Eagle Ridge tavern, Mrs. Hope Kilbourne and Harry Telford, connected with the resort, passed through Klamath Falls yesterday on their way to San Francisco where they will attempt to complete a stock company for the purpose of developing Eagle Ridge and adjacent property into a larger summer resort. The plan is to enlarge the tavern, subdivide the property close to the tavern and sell it to people wishing to build summer homes. In this way a nucleus will be formed for a summer resort of considerable proportions.

Leaves for California—

Roy Moore, formerly one of the owners of the Klamath Falls-Lakeview stage line, is in town for several days. Moore has sold his interests in the stage line and is leaving either tomorrow or Saturday for southern California where he will make his home. Moore, who is a former resident here has been living in Lakeview for the past few years. His home will be located a short distance from Los Angeles.

To Close Down Mill—

A number of the smaller mills of Klamath county have signified their intention of closing down for the winter. Only an exceptionally good lumber market would furnish sufficient incentive to these smaller installations to meet the added expense of maintaining a mill during the cold weather period. Frank Burns of Fort Klamath, a mill man of that section, was in town yesterday on a business trip and stated that his mill would be closed down for the winter months.

Indian Stockman in Town—

Harrison Brown, the second largest Indian stock operator on the reservation, was in town yesterday on a business trip. Port Summers, an Indian logging contractor of Modoc Point, was also a local visitor yesterday. Summers handled over a million feet of timber this summer.

Here From Medford—

R. Webster, connected with the California-Oregon Power company with headquarters at Medford, was in town yesterday to give attention to business matters pertaining to the company. He will be in town for several days.

PATRIARCHS, NOTICE.

The Grand Patriarch of Portland will visit, Twana encampment, No. 46, on Thursday, November 22. Refreshments will be served. All patriarchs urged to attend.

Here From Paisley—

Buch Smith, head of the Chewaucan Cattle company, whose extensive holdings are located near Paisley, was in town yesterday on company business.

Down From Fort Klamath—

Mr. and Mrs. George Hoyt of Fort Klamath are in Klamath Falls today on business and pleasure. Hoyt is a rancher in that section of the county and well-known throughout the county.

Will Locate Here—

That Klamath Falls is due for a considerable growth in the spring is inevitable if the number of outside people moving here this fall is any criterion. Entire families residing not only on the coast but throughout the middle west have moved to make their home in Klamath Falls. Among the latest arrivals is Frank L. Mars, an attorney and former resident of Sacramento. He has moved his entire household goods to Klamath Falls and has taken a house on East Main street. As soon as his family are located he will open up a law office in town and start practicing. Another family who hail from Duluth, Minn., are due in Klamath Falls within the next few days. They are shipping their furniture and effects.

Returns From S. F.—

After a hurried business trip to San Francisco of several days, Rex Bord, one of the largest sheep operators in Klamath county whose ranch is located near Olene, returned to Klamath Falls yesterday.

Down From Chiloquin—

Fred Markwardt, garage man of Chiloquin and a prominent resident of that town, was a local business visitor today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Elliott left in their car this morning for a two weeks' trip in California which will carry them as far south as San Diego. During their tour Mr. and Mrs. Elliott will visit their son Jack who is employed in Modesto, and their daughter Grace who is attending Junior college there.

Woodworth Man Here—

E. M. Barstow, district superintendent of the Woolworth stores, is in town today from Portland, his home, to inspect the local store.

Down From Portland—

A. C. Ruby, a representative of a stock loan association of Portland is in town to look over the stock situation and interview stock men of this country. He is registered at the Hall.

Walks From Portland—

S. S. Blevins, who was convicted last summer of violating the prohibition act and arrested at the south gate of Crater Lake park, arrived here yesterday from Portland, having made the journey afoot. Blevins, who was on his way to Fort Klamath to reclaim his car which was confiscated there, visited Bert C. Thomas, United States commissioner Tuesday. Noticing wincing when he moved, Thomas inquired what the trouble was. "Oh, a car ran me off into the road while I was walking on the highway and broke three of my ribs," he replied. "Wouldn't anybody give you a lift?" queried Thomas. "No," answered Blevins.

Blevins. "I have had a difficult time keeping out of their road on the highway." Blevins started his walk to Fort Klamath yesterday and after securing his car will probably leave the state.

Returns to Arizona—

M. H. Daggett, father of C. H. Daggett, has returned to Arizona. Daggett was a resident of this city many years ago. He followed the druggist profession in his younger days and at one time was the city treasurer. He has been visiting at the home of his son for some time.

Here From Dunsinuir—

J. Wiley, connected with the Shasta division of the Southern Pacific, was in town yesterday on company business.

In From Lakeview—

Franklin Light of the United States land office in Lakeview was a local visitor yesterday on a short business trip.

Down From Agency—

William Zeh, employed by the government on the reservation, was a business visitor yesterday.

AMERICAN ARTISTS DRIFT AWAY FROM LANDSCAPE WORK

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—That painters of today are doing more figure and portrait work and apparently getting away from the pure landscape is indicated in the present exhibition at the Art Institute here of American paintings and sculpture, in which is represented the works of artists and sculptors from all parts of the United States. Another notable absence in the 292 pieces of art selected for the exhibition, in the opinion of the jury, is any marked influence of the so-called modern or post-impressionistic school. While many of the paintings show a progressive broadening of treatment and technique, at the same time there are none that speak an unintelligible language.

"A comparison of the paintings of today with the work of the masters of one or two centuries ago, shows that our artists are using much brighter colors and many more of them," members of the jury declare. "They are painting in a much higher key, which is said to be an indication of joyousness. If so, it is a good sign, for the world today needs all the joy it can possibly assimilate."

WESTERN AUSTRALIA STARTS NEW ERA OF LAND DEVELOPMENT

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Nov. 2.—Western Australia is looming more and more in the affairs of the commonwealth in point of settlement and land development. This state leads the others of Australia in the matter of group settlements, which have justified themselves so far in placing and entirely financing suitable men with families on the land that the question of establishing co-operative factories for handling their dairy and other products, is now occupying the attention of the government.

The western state is demonstrating its enterprise and resources beyond the dreams of the peoples of the older states.

A striking demonstration of this was furnished by the purchase of 813,000 acres in the Murchiston district, Dandarraga station, by E. A. Brooks, well known South Australian rancher.

"I went to Western Australia expecting to find a land of sand and sorrow, but was mistaken," Brooks said on his return here. "I saw a huge, fertile country, crying aloud for men and money to develop it. I rode for 2,800 miles through pastoral country only and then saw not more than half of their pastoral areas. In the far northwest is grown some of the finest merino wool in the world, being free from seed or burr, very high yielding and greatly sought after by buyers.

"Undoubtedly Western Australia has a great future. Big strides must be made there soon in pastoral matters and I am of the opinion that within another 15 or 20 years the country will be carrying more than 20,000,000 sheep and will be growing some of the best wool in Australia. I am convinced that before many years the country also will be producing 40,000,000 bushels of grain annually."
