FIRE PREVENTION SUBJECT AT MEET

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Fire prevention is the subject which perhaps more than any other interests the underwriters' laboratories with work shops in Chicago, New York and San Francisco where tests to secure dependable data on all kinds of fire-resisting materials constantly are being made. The recent experience of the city of Berkeley, California, with a destructive fire drew attention again to fire-resisting roofs. By means of specially designed furnaces roofing materials were once more subjected to the same exposure to fire and wind that they would meet in actual emergency, and the tests showed that there need never be such a thing as a roof fire.

The laboratories operated for service under the auspices of the insurance companies, headed by the National Board of Fire Underwriters have had a busy year. Originally they consisted of two men working in one room. They now have three large plants and employ nearly 200 engineers.

Many facts of vital importance have been brought out in the tests of fire doors, fire windows and shutters and building materials used in walls, floors and partitions. These are compelled to withstand flames at a temperature up to 1700 degrees for periods varying from 45 minutes to an hour, and in some cases even longer. Gates are heated to 1700 degrees for an hour. They are then hoisted 30 feet and dropped on a pile of hard brick and the same process is then repeated for another hour, and when opened must show no damage to their contents.

There has been a notable increase in the number and variety of electrical apparatus submitted to the laboratories and the small percentage
