ROTARY CLUB FROLICS
 Joy and merriment were turned loose with no restrictions last evening when the members of the Klamath Falls Rotary club and their wives and friends gathered for an evening of festivity in which turkey dinner and theatre party were the attractions. The party gathered at six thirty at the chamber of commerce banquet room where R. E. Patterson at the piano accompanied by Harry Borel on the violin furnished a pleasing musical background for the very appetizing turkey dinner prepared by Mrs. J. J. Keller. Mr. J. C. Henderson as the principal speaker addressed the club and guests on the playground situation after which the party left in a body for the Pine Tree theatre where a special section decorated in Rotary colors, purple and gold.

Gathered Apron Gives Circular Line Effect

WOMAN'S INSTITUTE Fashion Service

By MARY BROOKS PICKER.
FIRST, a straight, navy-Canton dress. Plain. No distinctive feature. Then, tie an apron of self-material around it, leaving a generous bow in the back, and the dress is immediately lifted out of the common-place even though the apron is gathered in true kitchen fashion, for the Canton-covered cord around all edges holds the apron out from the slim little skirt, giving it the circular line so much favored. The same cording works itself into trimming motifs at the corners of the apron.
 If color contrast is desired, sleevelets may be of henna chiffon or Georgette, embroidered in running-stitches with either silk or wool and metal threads. The sleevelets are held in closely at the wrists by bands of Canton.

was reserved. The entertaining film "The Voice in the Minaret" by Norma Talmadge followed by the unbelievable stunts of the magician rounded out an occasion which will linger pleasantly in the memories of club members.
 Though the courtesy of the management, a number of Rotary songs were played during the evening by the organist. The film theatre party as a medium of enjoyable entertainment is fast coming into vogue and club members have expressed their desire for more functions of this nature.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

A woman who spends a great deal of time at the seashore showed me a unique needlebook. It was made of oiled paper that comes inside of cracker boxes. She says that she has found that keeping needles in tins is a sure preventative of their rusting.

Many of the new bits of linen seen at the exchanges are rounded oblongs, following the shape of the dishes so much used for olives, celery, etc.

For starching muslins, gingham and calicoes, dissolve a piece of alum the size of a hickory nut for every pint of starch. This will keep the colors bright for a long time.

When using Chinese lanterns, put some sand or fine pebbles in the bottom around the candle before lighting it. This will prevent it from catching fire from swaying.

It is worth while to know that large dark vases or jardiniere which boom, Margaret Daggott, George Duncan, Harry Goeller, Gordon Gostin, Clarence Campbell, George Goddard and Edward Vannice.

A delightful linen shower was given at the home of Mrs. Loyd R. DeLap, Saturday, January 26, for Miss Mildred Lewis. The party was held in the afternoon and tea and cake were served at 4 o'clock. FASHION HINTS

PARIS.—Lace has a vogue which seems in no danger of diminishing. At the moment, the Parisienne is wearing wide lace sleeves from elbow to wrist and a lace skirt, the rest of the gown being usually a hip length coat of velvet.

PARIS.—Many of the new shoes shown at present have toes decauvely flat and square. With the odd colors combined with gold and silver brocade, the shoes are medicinal in appearance.

LONDON.—A huge tassel, frequently a yard and a half long, is the chief adornment for evening wraps now. A scarf of velvet, brightly lined and ending in one of these big tassels, often takes the place of a collar on the evening cloak.

LONDON.—The handkerchief today is more giddy in coloring and has become an important article of dress. Debutantes are fastening their handkerchiefs to small rings which they wear upon the little finger.

Frills Relieve the Tailleur's Severity

WOMAN'S INSTITUTE Fashion Service

By MARY BROOKS PICKER.
WITH as attractive evidence to the contrary as is given by this mocha-colored charmer, one must indeed be prejudiced to say that the tailored gown lacks feminine charm. The novelty frill of eora lace or plain bobbinet softens the lines and relieves the severity of this model. Buttons and bound buttonholes do their part in giving distinction, and the four plaits, which appear at the left side only, add considerably to the comfort of the wearer by giving extra width to the skirt without detracting from the straight, slim silhouette. The curved line across the front effects a compromise between a front-opening blouse and a side-closing skirt.

MEN FOLK LOOK FOR ROMANCE IN MONTH OF FEBRUARY

February has a wealth of holidays, offering splendid opportunities to the hostess. With red, white, and blue decorations for the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington, and with valentines and cupid for the day when "hearts are trumps," anyone can give the table and house a gala appearance. Blue candles in brass holders and other suggestions of the colonial colors, blue and buff, are appropriate for use on the twenty-second. Then, too, it is leap year. Men folks announce that they are expecting a romantic month.

The family will enjoy a little celebration even if it consists only of eating fancy-shaped cookies and molded desserts which represent the symbols of the special occasions. Have you ever tried making a few of your own fancy cookie cutters at home—ones that you cannot buy or do not have room to store in your cabinet? I find that an easy way to do this is to sketch the hatchet or other article on stiff white paper. This is cut out and laid on the rolled cookie dough and a pointed knife is used to cut around the edges.

Maybe one of the children will be able to sketch the pattern for you. Most youngsters are taught drawing in school nowadays. Finding an application for their skill in the home will encourage them.

This is a good time to check up the breakfasts. Most of the world's work is done on them. Is your husband eating enough of the right foods? And the children? Oranges are in season now, and they make a good start for the "first meal" of the day. I put up sufficient orange marmalade in February—to last throughout the year. Frequently grapefruit is combined with the oranges and occasionally cleaned pineapple is used.

Pancakes are favorites with my family in the winter. They may be served at luncheon and dinner in many guises. Sometimes I add chopped dates and figs to the batter, and then again finely chopped and cooked vegetables are used. In the latter case gravy is served with the cakes instead of sirup. Spread with jelly or jam, rolled and sprinkled with powdered sugar, griddle cakes made a dessert that is relished by everyone.

LUNCHEON HINTS

Yankee Apple Cake.
 Make about four ordinary cakes as for layer cake, using the yolks of the two eggs only. For the filling take two good-sized tart apples and grate to a pulp. Whip with the whites of the eggs until a thick cream is formed. Sweeten to taste, flavor with a little lemon juice, and spread thickly between the layers and over the top.

Maple Peanut Cookies.
 Cream together one-half cupful of maple molasses and two tablespoonfuls of butter, one egg, two tablespoonfuls of milk, one rounding cupful of flour, one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar, three-quarters teaspoonful of soda, three-quarters cupful of chopped nuts. Drop the mixture from a spoon onto a buttered pan.

Different Ham Sandwiches.
 Chop cold boiled ham very fine, fat and lean together, and to every cupful allow one tablespoonful of melted butter, the yolks of two hard boiled eggs, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoonful of dry mustard, and one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika or white pepper. Pound all to a paste and put between two slices of thin buttered bread.

DID GROUND HOG SEE ITS SHADOW TODAY? IS PUZZLER

Did the ground hog come out today when the sun was shining or when the sky was overcast? Who says him, and will they kindly communicate with the Herald?
 For, as everyone knows, if Mr. Ground Hog saw his shadow he went back and holed up for another six weeks, in expectation of bad weather. Did he fail to see his shadow, he came out of the hole, stretched, yawned a couple of times and declared spring at hand.

DO BARGAINS PAY?

Some folks are getting cheated in life—paying much and getting little—or giving up the precious for the sake of the worthless. Jesus said, "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"
 The money you make on Sunday can not repay you for the loss of God. Sunday is
