THE AUTOMOBILE

AUTOMOBILES were never so low in price as now, nor were they ever so good in quality. The cumbersome, expensive bus of former years has been displaced by the trim, moderately priced car of today whose material and workmanship are in keeping with its appearance.

Why wonder then when the man of moderate circumstance succumbs to the lure of attractive advertisements setting forth the merits of this or that car, and writes his check in first or whole payment on the car of his choice?

The automobile of today is not only a good investment from standpoint of value received, but it is also an even better investment in health and happiness. No longer need the man of moderate income envy his more fortunate neighbor. Ordinary thrift will not only supply the car, but will maintain it without undue strain on the family purse. What better investment in health for mother and the kiddies, to say nothing of dad?

But if low prices and high quality have created demand, they have also created competition. More cars are being manufactured each year. And the competition extends throughout the land, is keen right here in Klamath Falls. Hence it behooves the progressive dealer to display his wares to the best advantage.

The proposed automobile show is a move in the right direction. The progressive spirit of the American Legion is receiving the dealers' support and the show promises to be a huge success. And the dealers who have cars on display at the show, and who are backed by an aggressive advertising campaign, are the ones who will reap the harvest this year.

SENSITIVE GEORGE

GEORGE CREEL, notorious editor of the Official Gazette during the war days, says he was "shocked" when money paid him for some work done in 1920 came from Mr. Doheny, the oil man, and that he promptly resigned from the employment. The high moral plane assumed by Creel comes also as a shock to former readers of the Gazette. Editor Creel thought nothing of broadcasting to the whole American people that a huge airplane fleet was on its way to France, when not a single complete plane had been loaded on shipboard, and that all but two of our soldiers killed overseas had been identified. Those were the days of the busy censor, when the public had no means of checking up on the astonishing assertions of the Official Gazette. Nowadays we have a Senate committee that keeps the country supplied with every bit of information regarding Mr. Doheny and his connection with the Government. Perhaps the change in publicity methods accounts for the reversal of Mr. Creel's morals.

NEWSPAPERS FIRST CLASS

POSTMASTER GENERAL NEW has issued an order that gives to newspapers the same treatment by postal officials as that accorded first class mail. Papers will be put in separate sacks labeled "newspapers," or may be put in the same sack with letters. "The order means much to the American public," said Mr. New. "It is one of the most important and far-reaching steps in post office history. It is for the benefit of those who desire to have their newspaper placed before them at as early a moment as possible. This should keep both the city and rural populations in closer and quicker touch with their several fields of activity."

TIPS FOR TAX PAYERS

No. 26. If for any reasonable cause, such as illness or absence, a taxpayer can not file his income tax return within the time prescribed by law, application may be made before the date the return is due to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives or has his principal place of business for an extension not to exceed 30 days. As a condition of granting the extension, the collector may require the submission of a tentative return and estimate of the tax and the payment of one-fourth of the estimated amount of the tax. A tentative return should be made on the usual return form, marked "tentative" at the top, and should contain a statement of the estimated amount of the tax believed to be due, and be properly executed. No other data need be given. Tentative returns will not be accepted unless permission is obtained previous to filing. A copy of the authority to file the tentative return must be attached thereto.

If before the end of a 30-day extension granted by a collector an accurate return cannot be made, appeal for a further extension must be made to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Except in the case of taxpayers who are abroad, no such extension shall be more than six months. Additional extensions will not be granted by the commissioner without a clear showing that a complete return cannot be made by the end of the 30-day period. (Conclusion.)

ELEPHANT, AGED 90, WAS SEA SICK ON MONTEVIDEO TRIP

HAMBURG, Feb. 14.—"Old Rose," an elephant 90 years of age, suffered most from sea sickness of all the 300 trained animals which sailed from Hamburg for Montevideo as part of a circus which is now on a tour of South American countries. The animals and circus performers occupied all of the steamship Loden-dorf, which was chartered for the voyage.

There were nine other elephants beside "Old Rose," who is queen of the herd, and all bore up very well indeed until the leader herself became ill and kept the veterinarians and trainers up every night for a good part of the three weeks' ocean trip. The elephants at first were kept on deck, but sight of the waves and the constant rolling and pitching of the vessel agitated them and resulted in so much belching that they were soon moved below decks.

Rough weather bothered the lions, too, and the trainer, Fraulein Tillie Lehmann, of Vienna, was with her pets day and night trying to console them whenever the sea tossed the ship about. The bears and Egers roared, sometimes with the ups and downs of every wave; the monkeys squealed and squeaked, and the hyenas howled and laughed until the members of the ship's crew began to wonder what the other side, and if the elements were set on putting an end to their existence.

Writing home of their experiences the animal trainers say the voyage was a nightmare which lasted several weeks. The snakes were the only quiet things aboard the ship during the stormy weather, they say.

CLEAN NESTS, GOOD STOCK MAKE FOR HEALTHY CHICKS

(O.A.C. Bulletin)
Dark, clean nests in the breeder's house will reduce the number of cracked and dirty eggs for hatching, reports H. E. Cosby, poultry extension specialist in a new extension service bulletin on hatching and feeding chicks.

"Strong, fertile eggs are necessary in hatching strong, vigorous chicks," he says. "It should not be expected that strong, healthy chicks will be hatched from breeding stock which is underfed, overfat, of low vitality, or unhealthy, any more than it should be expected to hatch vigorous chicks from breeding stock that has been forced for high egg production."

Free range is an important factor in producing hatching eggs, but if through necessity the breeders are confined to a small area, it is imperative that they be given a variety of feeds and be compelled to exercise.

It is desirable to gather the eggs for hatching purposes two or three times daily to prevent chilling. Eggs for hatching should be kept in a temperature between 50 and 60 degrees. Though stale eggs frequently hatch, it is not advisable to use for hatching eggs that are older than 10 days.

The breeding pen should be mated about three weeks before the eggs are to be incubated. During the first three or four days it is not necessary to turn eggs intended for hatching, but after that time they should be turned daily. Hatching eggs should be placed in a regular market egg-crate and the crate turned on a different side daily after the first week. Eggs that are purchased for hatching should not be turned 24 hours before being incubated.

PUBLIC FAVOR THE STAMPED ENVELOPES

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 14.—Use of stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers in the mails is extensive. Last year 2,721,000,000 were made for the postoffice department at Dayton, Ohio. They included 1,276,000,000 plain stamped envelopes, 1,444,000,000 stamped envelopes with return cards printed in the upper left-hand corner, and 50,000,000 newspaper wrappers. It costs the government about $1,300,000 to have these printed.
