MODERN MACHINERY AMERICAN FARMERS SAVES BILLIONS FOR

CHICAGO, March 21.—American farmers saved 1,382,539,294 days in producing their eight leading crops last year by machine methods, compared with the methods of farming in vogue less than 100 years ago, according to a report compiled by the research department of National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers.

Using the U. S. Department of Agriculture average figures for 1923, and taking the Department of Labor's estimate on machine labor and its replacement a human labor, gives these savings in time," says the report. "Using the rate of $3 a day for hired help in the wheat, oats, barley, corn, hay, white potato and rye crops, and $2 for labor on the cotton crop, gives $3,514,295,412 as the cash savings made in labor replacement in the present production of these crops.

"Since the shift from farm to city since 1830 has resulted in building up our great cities, factories, banks and transportation systems, the place of modern equipment in building modern agriculture and a great nation wherein only 30 percent of the population produces the food for the other 70 percent, is apparent. Agriculture is still the foundation of the nation, and labor-saving farm equipment is the crane that lifted the foundation stones into place and maintains a solid foundation.

"The farm investment in implements and machinery is only $3,594,772,928, according to the best figures available, or less than the savings in labor on the eight leading crops last year. The saving on the four grain crops—wheat, oats, barley and corn—is nearly ten times the total value of the 1923 production of farm equipment, according to the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank's figures, which show $267,000,000 as the value of this production. The plow, tillage implements, grain drills and harvesting machines have been the biggest items of speeding up the operations.

"Going back to George Washington's day, since General Washington was one of the first inventors and manufacturers of farm machinery in his efforts to increase wheat production on his Virginia estate, it is found that it took 61 hours, 5 minutes to produce an acre of wheat that now requires but 3 hours, 19 minutes and 12 seconds.

She used her brother's gun, and fired first into the floor of her room in the Red Gables home to see if it was a safe property.
