

In the Garden

The New Style Cockscomb.
The old-fashioned cockscomb or celosia in brilliant new attire has come into its own after many years of modest retirement, especially since winter bouquets have become popular.

There are two types, the cristata or crested section, from which the plant takes its common name, the flower head resembling a rooster's comb, and the plumosa or feathery type, bearing brilliant plumes rivaling the ostrich plume in texture. Recently intermediate types have been developed which combine the characteristics of both types, the plumes sometimes bearing a comb.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss And Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant. OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB LUMBAGO AWAY

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 35-cent bottle of old, honest St. Jacob's Oil at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and the soreness and lameness is gone.

In use for 65 years, this soothing, penetrating oil takes the pain right out, and ends the misery. It is absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S DANCE
At Merrill Postponed Until Friday
MAY 2

There are dwarf and tall forms of the crested type, but the huge heads of the giant tall type have outstripped the popularity of the dwarfs whose huge combs almost obscure the short stem. The Woolflower, a special type, has blooms resembling balls of chenille in varying colors. A further development has given the chrysanthemum flowered and a cross between the plummy, and crested types has given the parrot's feather strain.

These annuals need little attention save a sunny position to thrive and make brilliant and lasting display. They range from yellow through pinks and roses to dark crimson. Cut and dried when they first develop they make brilliant winter decorations. The tall varieties make stately groups in the annual border or among perennials as fillers or in groups among shrubs.

The dwarf types make brilliant bedding plants and are much employed in formal gardens. They may be sown in the open ground as soon as danger from frost is over. They are fine for specimen plants in pots to decorate verandas, the lasting quality of the plumes or crests making a fine display for weeks.

They should be given plenty of room to develop. The tall kinds need about eighteen inches of space each way to show their full beauty, as every side branch bears its plume or crest. A beautiful feature of these plants is that the stems show the same color as the flowers so that the color of the plant may be told from the seedlings as soon as they are large enough to be transplanted.

Neglected Husbands to Have Day at Liberty

Picture Coming Tomorrow Reveals "Daytime Wives" and How "Better Halves" Suffer.

Poor, neglected hubbies! Ask the stenographers—they know.—Time and again they reach the office, for a gruelling day in the making of money for wifely to spend—and in what condition do they arrive? Often, oh, how often—

Breakfastless—with torn gloves—ripped cuffs—buttons missing here and there—bruised chins from shaving with cold water—frayed tempers, superinduced by cold coffee—etc., and then some. In "Daytime Wives," at the Liberty theater tomorrow it is all made plain.

MRS. JEFF WILSON SUCCUMBS TO AUTO ACCIDENT INJURIES

Failing to survive injuries sustained Monday night when a car driven by her husband turned over in the ditch near Bonanza as the steering gear broke, Mrs. Jeff Wilson, 1402 Oregon avenue, died at the Klamath Valley hospital at 3:30 yesterday afternoon. She was aged 62.

Mrs. Wilson was a member of a widely known pioneer family and her death will be grieved by many in all parts of the county. Besides Mr. Wilson, she is survived by three brothers; Silas Obenchain, a farmer; M. M. Obenchain, city street commissioner; and George Obenchain, of Central Point. A sister, Mrs. Minnie Hansel, resides in Stockton and the mother, Mrs. Nancy Obenchain, in Central Point.

The body will lie in state at Whitlock's chapel from 5 to 7 o'clock this evening and will be taken by train tomorrow morning to Central Point where funeral services will be held at 10:30 Saturday morning. Interment will be in Jacksonville cemetery.
