

MANY TO ATTEND EPWORTH MEET

In order to attend the annual Epworth convention for the southern district of Oregon, held this year at Ashland, over 20 members of the local Epworth league of the Methodist Episcopal church are leaving this afternoon to spend the weekend in Ashland and take part in the program. Tomorrow five members of the league from Bonanza are leaving for Ashland and many more who were unable to spend the weekend there will leave early Sunday morning.

Tonight a huge Epworth banquet will be held at which all members from the southern part of the state will meet. Tomorrow morning and afternoon will be devoted to lectures at the Methodist church in Ashland. In the evening a wienie roast will be held on the banks of Rogue river. Sunday morning the entire convention will attend church services and that afternoon will listen to lectures. Plans will be formulated at the convention for the district institute to be held in August. The convention will be brought to a close late Saturday afternoon in order to allow time for visiting members to return to their respective towns.

Among the Klamath people who are attending the convention are Milton Rice, Gertrude Mastoe, Gertrude Smith, Ruth Cofer, Doris Yaden, Esther Hornby, Ethel Nelson, Hazel Noble, Marjorie Hunsaker, Miss Catherine Upp, Miss Josephine Upp, Geraldine Mars, Dorothy Skillington, Clara Dollarhide, Paul Arnett, Frank Upp, R. E. Patterson, C. H. Barnstable, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Arnett and small son, Ruth Minier and Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman. The Rev. Frank L. Moore, pastor of the local Methodist church, is planning on leaving this afternoon. He will be one of the speakers at the convention.

DAIRYMEN GET PUREBRED BULL

Joe Wright, a dairyman residing near Klamath Falls, is a recent purchaser of purebred Holstein bull from the Carnation stock farms. This calf, Prince Matador Canary, shows true Holstein type. He is sired by Walker Matadore Prince, a grandson of a former world's record cow out of Honwtje Matadore Canary. With a record of 443.9 lbs. milk and 20339 lbs. butterfat in seven days.

As Wright now has a herd of high class Holsteins, it is expected that this bull will produce wonderful results within the next few years. Bulls of such quality are an asset not only to the purchaser, but to the entire county.

On last night's train three pure bred calves from Tillamook county arrived for Joseph Foster, rancher of the Round Lake road, and this morning were taken to the ranch by County Agent C. A. Henderson.

Office Girl Is Given Square Deal In Film

Stenographer and Private Secretary Portrayed in New Light in "Daytime Wives" at Liberty.

The young woman stenographer and private secretary has many times been pictured as the homebreaker who, with her deep, subtle manner causes a coldness between a man and his wife, while she calmly pockets the affections of her employer, but it remains for the vital film drama, "Daytime Wives," now showing at the Liberty theater, to give the office girl a square deal. Endless stories have been written showing the office girl as a heartless vampire who makes eyes at her boss and wins him away from the sad-eyed, weeping wife. But nothing much has been said about the earnest, young woman who makes her boss's battles her battles and helps him in his great fight to carve out a living for himself and family. In "Daytime Wives," the private secretary is shown as a beautiful and earnest young woman with high ideals, who works zealously and unselfishly for her employer's interests and resists all temptations to become a female lounge lizard and jazz manic.

PARTIES READY IN PENNSYLVANIA FOR PRIMARY ELECTION

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—Presidential candidates do not directly figure in the primary to be held in Pennsylvania by all political parties tomorrow. Although the law permits such candidates to place their names on the ballot to give electors an opportunity to vote their preference, not one revealed himself of the privilege.

The republicans will name 79 delegates to the Cleveland convention. The democrats will elect 80 delegates to the New York convention with a total vote of 76, the party rules providing for eight delegates at large, four men and four women, with a half vote each.

On the republican side, the candidates for delegates are not officially pledged to any presidential candidate, but state leaders said they expect that the delegation to be elected will be unanimous for President Coolidge. The majority of the state leaders are supporting a list of seven candidates for delegates at large made up of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Governor Pinchot, Senators Pepper and Reed, State Chairman Harry Baker, Congressman W. S. Vane and Mrs. Elizabeth Price Martin. There is a contest for one delegate at large, Ralph Beaver Straassburger, a Hiram Johnson supporter in 1920, but now an avowed Coolidge man, opposing Governor Pinchot for one of the seven "slated" places.

On the democratic side, 17 candidates are in the race and the right places for delegates at large, three elements within the party contesting to win the delegation. The fight is a factional one and presidential candidates were not drawn into the contest.

The democrats are also contending for control of the state committee, members of which will be elected at the primary. The importance of this fight is due to the fact that the state committee will elect the next national committee men. An attempt to have the national committee elected directly by the democratic voters at the primary, as was done in 1916 and 1920, was defeated by a court decision. The present national committee man is Joseph F. Guffey, Pittsburgh. Judge Eugene C. Bonalwell, Philadelphia, sought to have the committee elected directly by the voters. He is a candidate for the place and will take his fight into the state committee. He is opposed by members of the present state committee, headed by State Chairman Austin E. McCullough. Before the court decision, State Chairman McCullough threatened to carry the contest into the national committee meeting at New York when the convention meets.

There are some contests in both major parties for district national delegates, largely the result of factional differences rather than of presidential preferences.

All parties will nominate candidates for congress in the 36 congressional districts, for the state senate in 25 districts and for the full membership of the state house of representatives.

Candidates will also be nominated by all parties, including socialist and prohibition, for judge of the state superior court, state treasurer and auditor general.

COCHRAN HERE ON ELECTION CAMPAIGN

George T. Cochran, republican candidate for congress from this district, was in Klamath Falls today in the interests of his campaign for the national legislative body. During his stay here Mr. Cochran took occasion to outline to friends his platform and what he will attempt to do, for Oregon if elected. He favors restricted immigration, a department of education and an adjusted compensation tax for executive men.

Among other things he believes that Oregon resources should be developed and that the federal government should assist in this work to a consistent end.

In many of the cities in the northern part of the district there are Cochran clubs. In The Dalles, the candidate stated, a club of 600 has been organized. Mr. Cochran has as his opposition in the Republican primary the present congressman, N. J. Sinnott.
