

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

Oldest and Smallest

These two books are part of a display at University Library, Philadelphia. The oldest, shown held by finger and thumb, is a stone tablet written 2350 B. C. It is said to be a butcher's bill delivered to King Tut's palace. The book in the hollow of the hand is the smallest known.

Feature Pictures To Be Made In Vicinity—

Mr. and Mrs. Mal St. Clair, and Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Zannick of Hollywood are staying at the White Fell-can hotel while here getting locale for two big feature moving pictures. Messrs. St. Clair and Zannick are advance agents for Warner Bros., Hollywood, and they are arranging with local lumber companies for permission to use their logs and other properties in making the pictures to be shot in this locality later. This speaks favorably for the natural beauty of Klamath county, and sounds like a good ad for our leading industry.

King Vidor Has Surpassed "Three Wise Fools" In His Second Goldwyn Picture.

The beauty, the thrills and intense dramatic action which Bill Joseph Hergeshelmer's story, "Wild Oranges," have been faithfully portrayed in the screen version of the popular novel which comes to the Pine Tree theater Tuesday, for two days.

OLD GRAD DETAILS EARLY STRUGGLE IN UNIVERSITY'S LIFE

Mrs. Ellen Condon McCormack, of the class of '78, turned back a page in University of Oregon history at a Eugene alumni dinner Wednesday night. Alumni may chuckle over the episode today, but the experience itself was a grave chapter in the life of Oregon. Forty-three years ago, five years after the University had first opened its doors, the sheriff of Lane county flourished a writ of execution against Deady Hall and the campus, threatening to "sell out" the institution unless $7,000 owing on the building was paid at once to creditors. Lane county had built Deady Hall, but had not paid the entire bill in 1881 when the sheriff appeared with his writ.

This crisis came in July. Without the money to appease unyielding creditors there could be no university opening in September. President J. W. Johnson put on a "gift-campaign". He, himself, paid four or five hundred dollars, no small sum in those days. Dean John Straub gave a generous sum. There was a general giving among the faculty, and at a downtown meeting public spirited citizens helped out, so that it was possible for the University to open in the fall of 1881.

Mrs. McCormack predicted that the present body of alumni of 6,000 would respond as generously in the present-day crisis.

Beauty, Thrills Combined to Make "Wild Oranges"

King Vidor has surpassed "Three Wise Fools" in his second Goldwyn Picture.

"Wild Oranges" is considered by many the greatest novel ever written by Joseph Hergeshelmer. It is his most successful novel, and established him as one of America's greatest authors. The unusual manner in which the author has handled his characters may be responsible for the book attracting such wide attention. The entire action of the story occurred in the swamp lands that border the Georgia coast.

Jack Darling will present his country store and booster night on Monday evening at the Pine Tree and will have a wide assortment of products for the lucky ticket holders. In addition to this there will be an added vaudeville act.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

HISTORY IS CITED

AND IDEAL IS TOLD

CINCINNATI, May 19.—That the Associated Press is not a trust, but a trustee, recognizing the responsibility of telling the truth respecting the world's happenings, was the declaration of Melville E. Stone, former general manager, and now counsellor of the organization, in a talk to members of the National Coal association, in annual convention here today.

Mr. Stone said the Associated Press is a co-operative news gathering association, having no stock, no capital, making no profits, selling nothing, but supported by the newspapers constituting its membership, and having no purpose other than to obtain and furnish truthful, impartial facts to its members.

"The Associated Press, as you in casual way know it, was born of an obligation. It is striving to recognize the responsibility of a very great trusteeship," said Mr. Stone.

Purpose Is to Tell Truth.

"The Associated Press was organized by a brave, conscientious, patriotic body of journalists to assume this responsibility and to meet this obligation. Their purpose was to tell the truth respecting the world's happenings—perhaps not the whole truth, yet nothing but the truth. They pledged hundreds of thousands of dollars to redeem this obligation. The newspaper members it serves as a joint reporter include papers of every sort of affiliation—Republican, Democratic, free trade and protection, capitalistic and trades unionists, conservative and radical—and this carries with it a tremendous demand upon organization—that I shall furnish news and not views—that as nearly as possible, considering the frailties of human nature, its objective shall be free from bias, or deduction, or opinion. And the only tie that binds any member newspaper to it is the confidence of the member in its integrity and impartiality."

FASHION DECREES

LOOSE FIT SUITS

The glory of Rudolph Valentino is due for a severe jolt as the summer progresses.

"Sheik" styles in clothes have passed and the fall models are loose fitting and at wide variance with those prevailing for the past few months.

So says no less an authority than F. C. Tatge who is in Klamath Falls today, representing Hart, Schaffner & Marx, the nationally known Chicago tailors.

known Chicago tailors. Tatge is W. J. Lehen, another representative of the firm. "The form fitting suits and extreme cut vests will be quite popular to wear on fishing jaunts, but the young men—and older ones as well—will be decidedly out of the running unless they appear in one of the late models. It is not only that so marked a departure from what a single season but the crease has gone forth and my firm along with all the other national establishments have bowed to the fashion."

TUBEROSE means PURITY

MORE THAN THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO, when the first TUBEROSE Food Product was put on the market, pure food laws were undreamed of. Inspection of foods and of canning methods, to protect the public, was unknown.

In Sacramento, California, a young man of vision believed there were many families ready to buy the finest canned goods that could be put up. In the absence of standards, he made his own—and they were high. Absolute purity and uniformly high quality should characterize everything put out by this house. And in searching for a trademark to express this ideal, P. C. Drescher chose the then popular flower—the Tuberose—because its waxlike beauty stood for purity.

When the first TUBEROSE label carried its message of protection into the homes, the response was instantaneous. Women had been longing for canned foods whose quality they could rely. The result is that from one product, the Tuberose line has grown until today it includes over two hundred different items—practically every fruit, vegetable and sea food known. In every part of the country—wherever each product attains its greatest perfection—there "the pick of the pack" is canned for the TUBEROSE label.

Today the most valued possession of the Mebias and Drescher Company is the confidence of two generations of housewives in TUBEROSE quality.
