

SACRED HEART SISTERS LEAVE

St. Francis Order Is Now Directing Work at Academy

Wednesday marked the final consummation of negotiations that have been under way for several months, when final papers were signed transferring Sacred Heart Academy to the Sisters of St. Francis, the mother house of which order is in Pendleton, Oregon. The transaction brings to a close the tenure of the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth, Kentucky, under the direction of which sisterhood the Academy has been since it opened its doors seven years ago.

When plans were laid for the founding of the Academy it was with the idea that the Sisters of St. Francis would conduct the institution, but owing to the great demand upon the sisterhood at that time there were not a sufficient number of sisters available to undertake the work. It was then that the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth were induced to come here and carry on the work until such time as the Sisters of St. Francis could be spared. That time did not arrive until this year.

Under the direction of the Sisters of Charity the progress of the Academy has been most notable. While realizing the Academy will still be in capable hands, the friendship that has sprung up between the members of the parish and the sisters causes sincere regret over their leaving. During the last few days there has been a constant stream of visitors to the Academy to bid adieu to the departing sisters, who left today for their mother house in Nazareth, Kentucky.

Friends Are Thanked.

Yesterday afternoon Sister Liguori gave the following statement to The Herald:

"We wish to thank friends and patrons of the Academy for the splendid support given us, especially during the past trying year. This year has been also a very successful year in due in a great measure to their co-operation.

"Thanks are also due to the merchants and business men, not only for good values given but also for excellent and courteous service.

"We wish to say to friends and patrons as well as to those with whom we had business dealings that we know we are leaving the school in the hands of teachers who are well equipped to handle the situation and we hope they will receive the same co-operation and support it has been our privilege to enjoy."

DOCTORS TOLD HOW ILLS OF LIFE MAY BE PREVENTED NOW

CHICAGO, June 13.—A nip of "something strong" before a meal is not one of the habits helpful to growing old successfully because, taken at such a time, it is an incentive to over-eating which is a "national sin," declared Dr. H. H. Drysdale of Cleveland, in an address today before the American Medical Association.

Dr. Drysdale's subject was how a man at the apex of his achievements may avoid the penalty of years of high pressure living and escape such ailments as apoplexy. Playing golf was among those having a place in the scheme of old age hygiene.

"The 'frenzied finance' habit, which will not allow a patient to relax and forget his responsibilities when necessary, can be blamed for many serious illnesses and fatalities," said the doctor. "The national sin of overeating, and especially of meat, is one of the heavy burdens an elderly man asks his body to bear. Alcohol, taken before meals is one of the causes of overeating. The advent of prohibition, with the attendant disappearance of the chronic alcoholic, will do much to lower the death rate from arteriosclerosis. "Make no compromises with such patients, or you will fail in your mission, which constitutes an appeal to their reason for a sane and rational mode of living."

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN.

I've heard some hard-luck stories in the course of passing years, Of shattered loves and broken hearts, and a mother's parting tears; I know a man who lost his home when he couldn't pay the rent, I've heard of teams that never lost except by accident; I've heard these weary tales of woe in every branch of sport, Through the papers, in the movies, and in stories long and short; But worse than all these gloomy yarns of disappointments and regrets is to have a younger sister who swipes your cigarette.
