One of our friends recently told us that the only time he ever wanted to complain about a Kantleek Hot Water Bottle was when he overslept himself. He was too comfortable in bed to get up.

KANTLEEK Hot Water Bottles

RADIO TICKER NEW INVENTION

Berlin Draws Large Crowd of Air Fans at Radio Exposition

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—An instrument called the wireless ticker aroused great interest at the recent Berlin radio exposition which, incidentally, drew some 400,000 visitors during the two weeks it was open.

This ticker is the invention of an Italian, Maurice Compare. He calls it the Compare secret wireless system. By it, he declares, the receiving station gets on a tape the message as sent into the air by the originator. It is a method of direct sending and direct printing of wireless messages without code of any sort, though at the same time it is said to ensure secrecy. The transmitter includes a typewriting machine, resembling the ordinary typewriter, an apparatus called a combiner, which can produce numberless difference combinations of frequencies and transmit them to numberless stations, separately and secretly, an ordinary wave generator. The receiving machine includes a wave receiver which is connected with a so-called resonator, and again connected with a typing apparatus.

FARM POINTERS

Many poor hatches are caused by neglecting to test incubator thermometers each season, say poultry authorities at the Oregon station. Thermometers may be tested by placing the bulb in water heated to 103 degrees, using a clinical or doctor's thermometer to check with. Any difference which may appear can then be taken into account in reading.

Size and shape of hatching eggs are characteristics the Oregon poultryman cannot afford to ignore, says the experiment station. Texture of shell, shape, color, and size of egg may be transmitted through the offspring.

Mould on sprouting oats may be prevented by providing plenty of ventilation and sufficient heat to hasten growth, according to experimenters at the Oregon station. Spraying the trays with formaldehyde each day before putting in the oats is also a help.

Irrigation

The one big factor in the development of agriculture in Klamath County has been irrigation. The possibilities of the future can only be estimated when with one-half of the section under irrigation that is possible. With more intense cultivation and with the added acreage available, this county will produce enormous crops. It is estimated that there are sixty thousand acres of land under irrigation at the present time. Within Klamath County is one of the twenty-four reclamation projects of the United States government. The government has not been alone in bringing into cultivation many thousands of acres of dry land by the supply of water. Private enterprise and initiative have developed and pioneered many projects.
