State Board Gives Regulations Concerning Livestock Shipments

Recent enactments have been made by the Oregon Livestock Sanitary Board in regard to quarantine regulations against the states of California and Texas, where Foot-and-Mouth disease has existed within the past year. Some of the provisions in force applying to this county are as follows and became effective the 18th of December, 1924:

"(A) During the existence of this quarantine the transportation, movement, trailing, driving or the importation in any manner whatsoever of the following animals from the states of California and Texas into the state of Oregon is prohibited except as herein provided for:

"Cattle, sheep or other ruminants and swine are prohibited entrance into the state of Oregon from the states of California and Texas unless special permit in writing signed by the state veterinarian and the president of the State Livestock Sanitary Board is given.

"Shipments of cattle, sheep, other ruminants and swine are not to be made into the state of Oregon from the states of California and Texas unless accompanied by a permit as hereinbefore described and such health certificate, affidavit and bond as may be requested by the State Livestock Board of the state of Oregon.

"(B) All other commodities and materials from the states of California and Texas shipped or brought into the state of Oregon shall be made in accordance with the rules and regulations of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry."

For Livestock men planning on bringing cattle, sheep, ruminants or swine into Oregon from California, it will be advisable to take the matter up sufficiently early in order to secure the necessary permits.

Safety in railway travel depends very largely on microscopic research, which has made possible a number of vital changes in the making of steel rails. The result is that, whereas accidents due to broken rails were once fairly frequent now they are seldom if ever heard of. The quality of the steel of which the rails are made having been greatly improved.

A HUNDRED EYES

"He who buys had need have a hundred eyes," said Poor Richard.

That was quite true in his time. Whenever you needed anything, you had to go to this store—then to that store—across the street—to every place that carried the thing you needed. If you missed any one of them, you might be overlooking the very place that held the bargain you sought.

Not so today. Your own two eyes are plenty now. For every day this newspaper brings right into your home all the stores you would want to visit and the goods in which you are interested. Comfortably seated in your arm-chair, you simply take your paper and read through the advertisements.

So, later, when you do go out to buy, you know exactly where you are going. You know just what you are going to get. You know just how much you are going to pay. Read the advertisements. They deserve attention. They save you time, labor and money. It is to your advantage to read them.

Advertising is a straight line to best goods and lowest prices

GOVT. SEEKING SEA MYSTERIES

Hold That Much Knowledge Yet to Be Gained From the Ocean

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Among the things the government intends to do during the coming year is to make an intensive study of sea water, its characteristics, and phenomena.

The Navy Department is planning to furnish a boat, the Bureau of Standards will furnish a staff and instruments, and a number of other scientific branches of the government will be represented in the personnel of the expedition, if Congress approves.

A surprising number of missing links in scientific knowledge of the sea remain to be found. As listed by Dr. G. K. Burgess, director of the Bureau of Standards, they include the salinity of the seas, which is in part an effect and in part a cause of ocean currents; the efficiency of depth-sounding mechanisms; the variation in the pull of gravity over water surfaces, and the variation in magnetic flux which occasions strange deflections of the compass needle.

The onion is credited with being a reliable weather prophet. It is said that when the winter is to be onions develop two kinds of skins, whereas if the winter is to be mild they consider one jacket sufficient.
