ROAD COMMISSION TO DECIDE STATE HIGHWAY LOCATION

When the state highway commission meets on February 26, a question of extreme importance to residents of Bonanza, Beatty, Langell valley, Yonka valley and Dairy will be definitely settled, it was learned here today.

The question will be whether the Klamath Falls-Lakeriver highway will be routed from Dairy direct to Beatty or from Dairy to Bonanza to Beatty.

Beatty will obviously be the town through which the highway will be routed from Dairy, it was said. But whether the highway will go direct from Dairy to Beatty or from Dairy to Bonanza and then to Beatty, is yet to be decided, it was said.

Last year, the state highway commission decided that the highway should be routed through Bonanza. On the strength of that decision, the road was extended from Dairy to Beatty and macadamized.

A contention has been brought to the attention of the commission that if the highway were routed direct from Dairy to Beatty that the state would be saved money despite the money expended in the construction of a stretch of road from Dairy to Bonanza. It has been held that the Dairy-Beatty route is shorter by six miles than the highway routed by Bonanza and also that highway construction would be easier from Dairy to Beatty than from Bonanza to Beatty. It was stated that the highway would have six miles more to maintain if the Dairy-Bonanza-Beatty route were maintained.

Whether or not the commission will abandon the Dairy-Bonanza section and take the new route from Dairy direct to Beatty, is an open problem which only the commission can decide.

For Church Services—

Rev. Arthur L. Rice has hit upon a unique plan whereby the text of the day for his Sunday sermons and general church news of the Presbyterian denomination may be contained in a little pamphlet and delivered to the congregation before the services. The inner portion of the pamphlet is printed before it is sent from the eastern offices. The outside cover is left blank so that the local church may print on the mimeograph, news of interest to their own people.

Community Club—

Members of the Bonanza Community club met this afternoon to hear Frank Sexton, county club leader, one of the main speakers of the afternoon. This is the third meeting of the club since its organization two weeks ago and the community is taking a keen interest in its activities. The matter of a community building came up at this time.
