

SOCIETY

The past week has been a busy one for the host and hostesses to society, for many clubs are closing their activities with the meetings of the past week in order to rest during the Lenten season which slackens all social affairs to a certain degree. Dinner parties have been quite in vogue, with informal dances among the younger set. The De Molay dance given last night by members of the organization was thoroughly enjoyed as one of the most successful affairs of the season. Society is looking forward to the dinner dance to be given in the White Pelican hotel on St. Patrick's night, March 17, and more than forty reservations have been made at this early date, maintaining the success of the dance of last week. The affair promises to be most unique in character and according to the management of the hotel, one of the most interesting dances of the spring.

ENTERTAINS FOR DAUGHTER

the Screen

AT THE LIBERTY

The guests were all assembled. A great silence fell upon the distinguished audience. Soft music floated up into the air. The minister stood at the altar, bible raised, his eyes glued to the advancing bride marching up the aisle on the arm of her father. Suddenly she—Here comes one of the crashing climaxes of "Desire." See it at the Liberty Theatre. A great picture. Sunday only.

AT THE PINE TREE

Exciting adventures welcomed John Fairmeadow to Swamps End, notoriously evil reputed settlement in the logging region of the North woods, whither he had gone from a Bowery mission to spread among the loggers the Gospel of better lives.

AT WHITE PELICAN

Peggy Kendrick is a pretty society flapper. She lives with her literary sister Kate and the latter's good-looking husband, Bartley Claybourne. Kate, engrossed in her work, fails to note Peggy's elaborate clothes, but when she comes upon a lot of rescripted bills she finds proof that her husband has paid for the flattery.

Kate seeks divorce with the understanding that Bartley will marry Peggy when it is granted. But Peggy does not love him enough for that and willingly promises not to see him during Kate's absence in Reno. She does see much of Ralph Demarast, whose wealthy father is prejudiced against all flappers and Peggy in particular. So she impulsively marries Ralph and the end of the honeymoon discloses the fact that Ralph's money is to be administered by lawyers.

His father calls and succeeds in buying Peggy off. She flings the money at Ralph and orders him to make a man of himself. Peggy has laughed at Bartley's proposal, so now she reunites him with Kate and finally succeeds in reforming Ralph. In the end she justifies herself as a flapper and even wins the affection of Ralph's father, who agrees that while Peggy's methods were unconventional her heart is pure gold.

TREES AROUND COURT HOUSE ARE CLIPPED

Straggly branches on trees that beautify the court house grounds are being clipped in order that the trees may have a trimmer appearance when the spring foliage puts in its annual appearance. Under the supervision of Tom Tracy, court house janitor, the work has been going on during the past two days. Later in the year grass seed will be planted, it was said.
