POULTRY EXPERT HERE TOMORROW

H. E. Cosby of State College to Confer With Raisers in Klamath

Klamath poultrymen tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock, will meet with one of the foremost poultry specialists on the Pacific coast in the person of H. E. Cosby, connected with the extension department of Oregon Agricultural College. The meeting will be held at the Mt. Laki church.

Development of poultry in this county has led to the belief that Mr. Cosby should include Klamath county in his regular visits to different poultry sections of the state. Mr. Cosby makes regular trips to different sections of the state, for the purpose of giving advice to egg producers.

Friday morning at 9 o'clock a second poultry meeting will be held at the F. M. Trout farm near Malin and at noon, the expert will be guest of honor at a cafeteria lunch served at the T. N. Case farm.

After poultry business is disposed of at the Mt. Laki meeting, Robert Oldemeyer, field representative of the Sacramento Valley Sugar company will address the audience on raising of sugar beets in Klamath.

FARM POINTERS

Special precautions are necessary with early hatched chicks to prevent leg weakness, according to O. A. C. poultry authorities. Feeding raw egg yolk, or pure cod liver oil—one pint, to 100 pounds of dry mash—helps to make up for the lack of exercise and sunshine that later hatched chicks get.

COLLIER DISCUSSES LEGISLATURE BILLS

In reviewing his work done in the house of representatives during the past legislature, Andrew Collier, from Klamath county, addressed members of the chamber of commerce when they met for forum luncheon this noon. The bills, for which Collier was partly responsible were those brought up from the chamber of commerce of Klamath county. Collier was in favor of the "split legislation" as advocated by many in the house and senate, including the 20 day period when bills could be passed in the house, 20 days for the representatives and senators to bring them back and discuss them with their constituents and the 20 day period when the bills were passed or rejected in legislature in the house.

Mr. Collier will resume the subject at the forum luncheon next week.

BOND ELECTION IS HELD TO BE ILLEGAL

SALEM, March 4.—Coos county is permanently enjoined from issuing $250,000 in road bonds by an opinion of the supreme court today in the case of J. E. Norton against Coos county, appellant. The opinion was written by Justice Burnett and affirms a decree of Judge John C. Kendall of the lower court for Coos county.

The suit against the county was based on the statute which allows only one special election in a single year, and the question to determine was whether an election on the road bond issue held May 16, 1924, the date of the general primary election, was a special election. The supreme court holds that it was and therefore holds that an election called the following August was illegal.

DOGS MUST BEAR LICENSES, EDICT OF CHIEF LOUCKS

All dogs must bear dog licenses, Chief of Police Harry M. Loucks announced this morning. Starting the first of the month, the police department has been enforcing the ordinance requiring the licensing of all canines.

"The public should be warned before we become too strict," Chief Loucks said. "I do not want to bring a hardship on the dogs or the owners but the city law requires enforcement and therefore enforcement it shall be."

After a reasonable time, all dogs that are not licensed will be taken to the city pound and after being held there a certain length of time, will be killed.

HAYNES HEADS DODGE COMPANY

Frederick J. Haynes, president and general manager, and all other executive officers and members of the directorate of Dodge Brothers were re-elected February 17 at the annual meeting of the board.

Other officers are: vice-president, Arthur T. Waterfall; treasurer, John Ballantyne; secretary and assistant treasurer, Harry V. Popeney; assistant secretary, R. J. Fry.

The following continue as members of the board of directors: Mr. Popeney, and Russell Huff. Mr. Huff is director of engineering.

Records of the annual meeting confirmed previous reports that 1924 was by far the most successful year in Dodge Brothers history. Dodge Brothers were second among N. A. C. C. members and third in the industry as a whole, both in the number of units produced and in money volume.

The year closed with a total production of 225,633, motor vehicles having a total value of nearly $200,000,000. These official figures vary only slightly from the estimates announced during the New York automobile show early in January.

Dodge Brothers showed a 25.4 per cent gain in sales during 1924 in the face of a general decline of 9.4 per cent in the industry. It is also a noteworthy fact that Dodge Brothers were the only one of the four leading motor car manufacturers in the world who showed an increase over 1923.

Indicative of the present trend toward an even greater year in 1925 is the showing for January, during which month production and sales were considerably in excess of the same month for 1924.

President Haynes made no comment on the continued progress of Dodge Brothers except to say that the remarkable increase in sales is simply a reflection of the strong public confidence that can be built up by starting out with a good product and then striving ceaselessly and conscientiously to make it better.
