PELICAN BAY IS BEATEN BY FORT

Saw Mill Boys Nosed Out by Hairsplitting Score of 27 to 26

By the hairsplitting score of 27 to 26, Fort Klamath basketball team nosed out the Pelican Bay quintet in an exciting game last night on the floor of the Pelican Bay community club.

In point of pure and unadulterated excitement, the basketball game last night has no peer for this season. Led by the saw mill boys up to the last 50 seconds of play, the Fort Klamath five staged a sudden and devastating rally that ended with a neat basket that gave them the victory. A few seconds later, Timekeeper E. H. Pike shot off the final gun and the fracas was over. The game started out with a rush, each team netting a basket each and scoring on free throws. Suddenly Pelican Bay jumped into the lead, due principally to some very long baskets by Griswold. The Pelican Bay boys held tenaciously to their lead throughout the remainder of the first half and up until the latter part of the second half.

The break in the game came with the dismissal of Pelican Bay's ace player, Griswold, from the floor when four personal fouls had been chalked up against him. Angered by the departure of their star, the Pelican Bay team by the sheer fury of their attack netted two more baskets. But Griswold's absence was soon felt and the boys from the Fort steadily dropped in baskets until they were just one point behind Pelican Bay. A wild flurry of passes, and a dark sweated forward from Fort Klamath picked out a fast pass and relayed it into the basket, winning the game.

A crowd of several hundred witnessed the game.

Masked Marvel Says He Will Throw Ad Gustavo Twice Within One Hour

"The Masked Marvel pulled the old black sock off his blonde head this morning and announced himself as Antonio Stecher, brother of Joe Stecher, of scissors hold fame. "Wrestling with a mask on is too tough altogether," he grieved. "But if Ad Gustavo wants to meet me again without the mask, I'll guarantee to throw him twice in an hour or not take a cent for my work."

This ought to make an interesting bout if Ad will only step forward and agree to take on the "Unmasked Marvel."

FINE WRESTLING CARD IS GIVEN

Henry Burke, local middleweight wrestler, went to a draw with Charley Deabenderfer of Dunsmuir, and Ad Gustavo won in two straight falls from the "Masked Marvel" in an interesting double main event wrestling card at Moece hall last night.

Burke forced Deabenderfer to hold the distress signal with a double wristlock after 35 minutes of bone-crushing activities, while the Dunsmuir heavyweight slipped over a head scissor and arm lock on the local man 18 minutes later.

With his usual cunning and careful work, Gustavo was not hard put to get his masked opponent in position for a punishing half-Nelson which he clamped on after 30 minutes of tumbling. He gained the second and deciding fall six minutes later with a double arm scissor. A crowd of 200 people witnessed the bouts, which were crowded with interest from start to finish. Joe Schaeber was the third man in the ring.

ROMANOFF ROW IS NOW AIRED

Grand Duke Cyril Silent in Coburg Villa on Rights to Russian Throne

COBURG, Germany, Mar. 12.—Mysticism and the alleged manifestations of Heaven figure so extensively in the communiques of rival claimants for the Russian throne, a throne which no longer exists, that central and western Europe generally regard the family row of the Romanoffs as an uncanny and useless performance.

Since his original manifesto declaring himself the rightful czar of all the Russians, Grand Duke Cyril has remained silent in his Coburg villa, and there are indications that he and his supporters will keep the Russian court and its doings well under cover because of the Communist efforts to have the self-styled czar expelled from republican Germany.

There is something so fatalistic and Asiatic in all the actions of the Romanoffs that liberal-minded people of the west cannot take them seriously. Even the aged Marie Feodorovna, mother of the murdered Czar Nicholas, Danish princess though she be and sister of Alexandra, England's queen dowager, sounds this same note. She has never believed her son is dead and, in denying the claims of all successors, especially of Grand Duke Cyril, she talks of the divine right of rulers as if the world were plunged back into the Middle Ages.

It is the "hand of God" which moved Cyril to proclaim himself the ruler of all the Russians, if one is to believe the statements of this Romanoff, whose manifesto sounds no more modern than the documents of Ivan the Terrible. His supporters, of whom his wife, who has recently been in the United States, seems to be far the most active, would have one believe it was divine providence which saved Cyril from drowning when his ship was destroyed in Pacific waters during the Russo-Japanese war that he might eventually take over the Russian throne.

But the monarchists among the Russian exiles who are supporting the claim of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaevitch, are not at all inclined to admit that divine providence ever had anything to do with Cyril, and adduce scores of reasons in their brochures why nobody should pay any attention to such a pretender. On the other hand they have proofs which are entirely satisfying to them that Heaven has designated Nicholas Nicolaevitch to sit upon the throne which nearly everybody in the world, except the old Russian monarchists, has forgotten.

The old officials about the czar's court, and the fragments of Russian royalty, find it difficult to divorce themselves from the idea of Imperial Russia, and a few of them find their way to Grand Duke Cyril to talk things over.

Cyril lives in a villa just across the street from the house that shelters ex-King Ferdinand of Bulgaria. In an old-fashioned market square in the center of the provincial town of 30,000, which is still living back in prewar days and is apparently in almost complete oblivion to the changes the world has undergone in the last 11 years, stands a statue of Prince Albert, the husband of the late Queen Victoria, whose marriage to the English queen resulted in Saxe-Coburg-Gotha becoming aligned with prac-

There is reaction in the air at Coburg. Wagner is played at the opera and films from the Wagner operas are shown at the moving picture house. It is an ideal place for Cyril and Ferdinand and the rest of the dislodged royalty which has taken refuge here. There are few industries and consequently little to upset the medieval quiet of the well-improved village about which hovers the Coburg Veate, a magnificent Gothic fortified castle which houses marvellous collections

Simple Way to End Night Coughing

No matter how long you have been troubled with exasperating coughing at night, robbing you of valuable sleep and thereby weakening your system and laying you open to dangerous infections, it can usually be stopped at once by a very simple treatment. Most people have found that they can sleep the whole night through undisturbed often the first time they try it.

Parisfal would be quite at home in Coburg, if it were possible for the young knight to take on human form. There is a make-believe atmosphere about the place. It is unreal to visitors from centers where the modern spirit prevails. The big motor cars of ex-King Ferdinand and Grand Duke Cyril are the most discordant note. These men should ride on armored horses if they wish to fit into the picture and keep in harmony with the spirit which they are endeavoring to perpetuate.
