THE KLAMATH KID
(Still a coral)

Chapter Six

Tired out from his long drive, the Klamath Kid started in search of a bootlegger as soon as he and his bride reached Fort Klamath.

"Say," he asked one of the townsmen, "do you know where a fellow can get a pint of MOON up around here?"

"Yeah, there's a guy makes some pretty good WHITE mule down the road a piece," was the fellow's answer, so the Kid and his bride went over and got a pint.

"Whew! that stuff sure BURNS," he cried as he took a healthy swallow.

"WATT did you say?" asked the bride.

"I said it HOYT," he replied. "It's a fine BUNCH of moonshiners they have up around here. Somebody ought to WISE all these SMART guys up and tell them either to learn to make the stuff right or LEEVER alone."

"It looks to me that if we TERRY around here much longer you're liable to go blind," said the bride. "My advice is for you to SAUBER up or I'll have to PAGE the undertaker."

"All right, DARLING," he replied. "If you'll promise not to UTTER another word of criticism I'll agree to turn over a new PAGE in the book of life and quit all my SAVAGE ways, and thus ease your AIKIN heart."

Then with a WANN smile, he planted a kiss on her lips as they crawled back into their Ford and started for home to take up their married life out where the WEST begins. (The End)

THE HALL OF SHAME

Uncensored Observations has the honor and pleasure of announcing that P. J. Zissos, proprietor of The Chocolate Shop, won by an overwhelming majority as today's candidate for the Hall of Shame. At this time we wish to extend our hearty congratulations to Mr. Zissos for this achievement, and desire right now to assure him that he can reach us here at the office between the hours of 4 a. m. and 5 p. m. For petetic reasons alone we had to refer to his fudge, but if he desires to offer any other variety of his sweets, we will join in saying that all is forgiven. Hoy, howdy!

Please listen to me, Mister Zissos, I am in mighty bad with the missus; So if you won't begrudge Me a nice box of fudge I will win back her love—plus some kisses.

When Tom Dellell went south to Los Angeles for his vacation, few of his friends worried much about Tom, he loved his single blessedness too well, but when he stayed, and stayed some more, they became worried and wondered if he had strayed from the straight and narrow and taken unto himself a wife. In fact, his friends were so worried that they planned on wiring him if he didn't come home within the coming 48 hours. However Tom turned up, bright and smiling, fair and warmer, unscathed from the hook of matrimony which had not grazed his dark head. Tom can be himself once more and look man, woman and child in the face with the clear conscience of one who has returned to the Old Gang as one of them.

Factional strife among the prisoners in the county jail has led to a temporary upset of jail political life, it was learned today. Whether or not recent elections of officials of the Kangaroo administration had anything to do with it was not known. Several days ago, Foster Barkley was elected judge of the Kangaroo court and Billy Huff, Chiloquin pugilist, sheriff. County Jailer Jo Kinsey predicts that an era of lawlessness within the jail doors will soon bring about a re-organization and a movement toward law and order.

What's Wrong? (Birmingham Age-Herald)

Estimates are that it will cost $40,000 to put the Birmingham-Montgomery bride in proper condition.

Wonder if the city council will apologize tonight to the landlady of the Glenn hotel?

SCHOOL LAW ARGUMENT IS MADE

Oregon Compulsory Education Bill Reaches U. S. Supreme Court Today

BOTH SIDES GIVEN

State Attorneys Seek Reversal—Defense Says It Is Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The compulsory education law of Oregon, requiring that after September of next year all children between the ages of 8 and 16, with a few exceptions, shall attend public schools, was reached in the supreme court today for oral argument in two cases brought by the state to have set aside the injunction of the federal district court against its enforcement.

Although it was thought the cases might not bring a sweeping opinion from the court on the constitutional right of states to control the education of children within their borders, the controversy has attracted wide attention in educational and religious circles.

An argument prepared for today counsel for the state pointed out that in the lower court the challenge of the law was based upon charter rights of schools incorporated by the state. Contending that the injunction has been based largely upon the assumption that the property rights of the parochial and private schools granted by the state would be impaired by the requirement that children should attend public schools, they took the position that the court in deciding

Former Merrill Sheep Rancher Dies in Blizzard

Word was received here today of the death of Hugh Dennehy, prominent Merrill sheepman, who was lost in an Alaskan blizzard the early part of March. He is the brother of John Dennehy and cousin to Dennis O'Connor and Hugh O'Connor, ranchers on the Merrill road.

Dennehy, who was interested in the sheep raising business all of his life, was a native of Ireland, where his parents now reside. He followed that work during his residence in Oregon and last August left for Alaska where he and several Portland capitalists, including Dr. Andrew C. Smith, had leased an island to raise sheep. On March 3, while caring for his sheep, Dennehy was lost in a blizzard and his body not found until last Friday, March 13. The body was shipped to Unalaska where his brother John Dennehy was wired in regard to the disposition of the remains. It will be brought to Klamath Falls where internment will be made.

Stanfield Will Aid Project For Federal Building in Klamath

United States Senator Robert N. Stanfield will introduce and work for a bill providing for a federal building in Klamath Falls.

This information is contained in a letter received today by Linn W. Nesmith of the federal building committee in response to a letter asking for an expression from Oregon's senior senator.

"It will be necessary, however, to have information concerning the location, value of it size of it, whether or not the community will present it or expect pay for it, and if they expect pay for it, how much, and following that, the estimated cost of a building along the line of government buildings that will serve the purpose of the government at Klamath Falls," wrote Senator Stanfield.

"The new plan is to provide map appropriations and authorize the treasury department and postoffice department to designate the buildings to be erected out of the available funds.

"I conceive it essential, however, to make every possible effort for the construction of individual buildings, that the need for such buildings may be brought the more forcibly to the attention of the powers that be."

Senator Stanfield further wrote that he expected to visit in Klamath Falls during the summer recess of congress and at that time would be glad to confer with the people of this county with reference to the federal building plans. In the meantime, he urges that all material facts be assembled and forwarded to him as quickly as possible.

Bank Account Of Fall Will Not Be Shown

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 16.—Evidence intended to reveal the secrets of the bank accounts of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, was barred from the record of the Teapot Dome lease annulment suit here today.

The ruling barring the evidence, handed down by Federal Judge Blake Kennedy, deprives the government of its only known means of attempting to prove an exchange of liberty bonds between Fall and Harry F. Sinclair, whose mammoth oil company was given the lease on the big Wyoming oil reserve.

Judge Kennedy in his decision referred to the matter in question as involving something of unusual importance to the case but that as the matter stands, it is manifestly incompetent and will be barred until such time as it is shown to be competent.

BIG POLICE RAID NETS LIQUOR

Police and Sheriff's Office Conduct Offensive Saturday Night

CHARGES ARE FILED

Many Released on Own Recognizance—Nuisance Complaint Is Filed

Three charges, one being against a woman and the other two against men, are the result to date of the offensive staged Saturday night by officers against the Glenn hotel and the notorious "Cabbage Patch" directly in the rear of the hotel.

Over 40 men and women were released Saturday night and Sunday after being questioned by the district attorney's office. When they had established beyond any doubt that they were not implicated in bootlegging activities or were not drunk, they were turned loose. Their names were turned over by Acting District Attorney W. J. Myers because they had not been arrested but were just identified by the investigation.

Mrs. S. A. Crowley pleaded not guilty this morning to maintaining a nuisance. A man named Hines pleaded not guilty to a possession of liquor and A. Kent pleaded not guilty to the same charge. Kent was released on $2500 bail. Mrs. Crowley was released under $500 bail.

Combine Forces

The raid on the Glenn hotel and the cabbage patch was conducted by the district attorney's office, the police department, the sheriff's office and Mayor F. R. Goddard. Surrounding the little city within a city namely the Glenn hotel and Cabbage Patch—the officers swept into the hotel and small houses at exactly 9 o'clock Saturday night. Everybody in the establishment was picked up and herded down Main street to the court house and city jail. Some of the women were taken in cars to the court house.

Raid Well Planned

The attack on the Glenn hotel and the cluster of houses behind was carefully planned before hand by the leaders of all law enforcement departments of the city. Shortly before 9:30 the officers—some 15 in number—were stationed at strategic points awaiting the tick of the watch that would bring the hand around to 9:30 p. m. No leak in the law enforcement departments warned the inmates of the hotel and small houses. The raid came as a complete surprise.

The Glenn hotel was one of the establishments which Chief of Police Loucks recommended should not be granted a license. The recommendation was disregarded by the city council.

Plan of Inquiry

Mr. Myers declined to disclose the steps of the state in regard to prosecutions, beyond mentioning several generalities. These included: 1. Steps to be taken toward an investigation of the Glenn hotel, which would lead to abatement proceedings against the hostelry and the eventual closing; 2. Careful investigation into facts concerning Mrs. Crowley, against whom more charges may be filed; 3. Pressing charges already filed against the two men and women; 4. Questioning of two women held in the city jail, Vivian Wilson and Minnie Acales, who were arrested during the raid.

Approximately three gallons of moonshine liquor were confiscated during the raid. Scores of empty bottles, smelling of moonshine, were found. Most of the moonshine taken was in small quantities.
