BOY SCOUTS TO KEEP MUELLER

Cecil A. Cook to Come to Klamath Falls as Organizer, Not Scoutmaster

Contrary to published reports, Cecil A. Cook of Spokane, Washington, will not take office as scoutmaster for Klamath Falls boy scouts, but will come to this district as an organizer and superintendent of this district for a short visit. The scoutmaster, who is Julius Mueller, will be retained, as his appointment by former scoutmaster Rev. T. A. Meryweather was made in the past. Mueller has been decidedly successful with the boys, and his work has been deemed appreciative by those in which he has come in contact.

The meeting of the Crater Lake chapter of Scouts was held last night in the Presbyterian church with Herman Darley and George Massey passing the tenderfoot degree. Ten members are working hard on code and semaphore practice to qualify them for second class scouts. Three are qualifying for first class scout examinations.

CONDITION IS BETTER

LONDON, March 31.—A medical bulletin issued this morning says that the Earl of Ypres, whose condition yesterday was described as "disquieting" after his recent operation, passed a better night and his condition is improving.

AT THE LIBERTY

The popular song of a decade ago, "Waiting at the Church," aptly fits one of the powerful situations in "Husbands and Lovers," a First National picture, which was produced by Louis B. Mayer and directed by John M. Stahl, and which is showing at the Liberty theater tonight. Lew Cody is the "waiter" in this case. While he is waiting anxiously at the altar for his bride-to-be to appear and utter the customary "yes" she is eloping with another man. Even the fact that he escapes the inevitable shower of shoes and rice does not sweeten his temper, as he stalks out of the church without a bride on his arm.

"The Liberty Trio," namely Harold Bell, Frank Conner and Johnny Houston, will be an added attraction at the Liberty theater tonight and tomorrow night, so it's a good bet to crank up the old bus and get to the Liberty early as sitting room is bound to be scarce.

At the Pine Tree

When two women and a man become involved in circumstances that create suspicion, one naturally looks for the age-old triangle situation, but in "Straight Through," Universal Blue Streak Western starring William Desmond which will be shown at the Pine Tree Theater, today and tomorrow, this is not the case.

Go the contrary Good Deed O'Day, the character personated by Desmond, is in love with one of the women, who is the sister of his best friend, while the other woman is the wife of this friend, who married her in ignorance of her very unconventional past, a past with which O'Day is only too well acquainted.

The wife promises O'Day that she will "go straight," but he does not fully trust her and it is his efforts to protect his friend's name in the latter's absence that leads to the series of dramatic situations.

In the beginning, O'Day appears as a typical bad man of the mining camp, but through an unusual combination of circumstances he feels obliged to keep the joking promise he made to an evangelist to reform if he was ever caught in the wrong. It was a strange wrong in which he was caught and the greatest injury was to his pride but he kept his promise and from then on devoted his life to doing what he conceived was good in behalf of others.

"Straight Through" is a melodrama, the tension of which is relieved by numerous comedy situations, and also it contains some rapid action thrills in the way of a big fight and some reckless horsemanship.

STANFIELD WILL AID IN FEDERAL BUILDING

According to word received from U. S. Senator Robert N. Stanfield by the federal building committee, it appears that Klamath Falls will be included in the list for the location of federal building when the next congress convenes and the appropriation for new government bills arise.

Senator Stanfield is planning a visit to Klamath county in order to be in better condition to report the need of a federal building in this section. The federal committee is now amassing data to furnish Stanfield in order that no doubt be left in the minds of the congressmen on the need of this community for such a building.
