SOMEBODY BLUNDERED

Somebody blundered in a recent case dismissed in the court of Justice of the Peace Hunsaker, and as a result the taxpayers of Klamath county will be compelled to pay out a sum of money which could have been saved had the proper county officials been alert in safeguarding the interests of the public.

A man who formerly lived in Klamath Falls removed to Chico, Cal., and after his departure a brother-in-law swore out a complaint charging him with larceny. The complaint was given by the acting district attorney, who thereafter sanctioned the man's arrest.

An officer was sent at county expense to bring the man back from Chico. Upon the return of the prisoner the same acting district attorney who gave the complaint for the man's arrest and who sanctioned the return of the prisoner from Chico, appeared in justice court and asked that the complaint be dismissed because of insufficient evidence.

If there was sufficient evidence to warrant telegraphing for the arrest of the man and demanding his return to Klamath Falls, then surely there was sufficient evidence to demand prosecution.

It would seem to us that the prosecutor who has authority to issue complaints should at least make careful inquiry into the facts before permitting such steps to be taken. If there was not sufficient evidence to warrant prosecution, the acting district attorney should have known it before issuing the complaint.

As a result of this apparent negligence the record discloses that an innocent man has suffered the humiliation of arrest and returned from California as a fugitive, while the taxpayers must stand the needless expense of transporting the officer and prisoner to and from Chico.

It is apparent that somebody blundered—and the public must pay the bill.

THE BASEBALL TEAM

Being an ardent advocate of clean athletics of all kinds, The Evening Herald rejoices at the news that Klamath Falls is to have a baseball team this year, and pledges itself now to give the baseball team its unwavering support so long as it is conducted along clean, legitimate lines.

In our humble opinion it would have been far better had Klamath baseball enthusiasts made some effort to organize a league among the cities of southern and central Oregon, by reason of better transportation facilities and more publicity which could be obtained in Oregon newspapers. But the die has been cast and Klamath is to become affiliated with a California league. We sincerely trust that this decision will not prove unwise, and that the teams representing Klamath Falls in this league will be worthy of the city it represents.

We cannot refrain from giving a word of warning before any definite decision is made on the question of finances. It costs money—and lots of it—to support a good semi-professional baseball team. In our judgment this cannot be done unless the people of Klamath Falls give the team their whole-hearted financial and moral support.

The Klamath Falls team will enter the league under a financial handicap imposed by the California teams, and to offset this funds must be given liberally to get the team started on firm financial ground, and the home games must be patronized with enthusiasm and liberality.

OUT OF THE AIR

From the remarkable development of radio communication during the past winter are growing many new and interesting problems that must be met by the national radio conference according to department of commerce officials. Some of the outstanding tasks to be taken into consideration are:

- 1—Recommendations for comprehensive legislation that will remove the present uncertainty from development projects, and give industry and science an opportunity to proceed on established lines.
2—Suggestion as to the fixing of exclusive wave bands on which phonographs and motion pictures may be transmitted through the air.
3—Study of underground radio communication and recommendations as to whether separate wave bands should be provided for subterranean transmission.

Chief Radio Inspector Tyrell stated that the government is not much nearer to radio recommendations than it was last fall, but he said there is beginning to be some crystallization of views among the experts as the results of experience gained last winter.

It is not believed that Secretary Hoover will be able to recommend any hard and fast statute to govern radio until next fall or probably later. An improvement in the present bill is regarded essential.

Experiments in directional radio by both government and private radio companies offer possibilities for the congested problem. It will no doubt be possible for two powerful stations close together to operate at the same time without interference, on the same wave length.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Kites are making some people look up for the first time in months. Consider the busy flea and how he jumps around. And doesn't he go to the dogs? Nothing is more fattening than a few months in jail. The man who said figures didn't lie never paid an income tax. Opening an umbrella in the house or bumping a traffic cop with your car are signs of bad luck. An optimist is an automobile salesman in the spring. Chewing gum is all right in its place. Which isn't under a chair.

ATHLETIC NOTES OF KLAMATH HIGH

The Klamath Hi nine defeated the Merrill team on Medoc field in a seven-inning contest, with the final score of 14-0.

The Klamath boys played very good ball, only one error being made. The Merrill team was weak on the pitching staff. Klamath had very good pitching by all of the hurlers, Molatore, Stewart and Smith. Only two hits were allowed the Merrill team both hits in the early part of the game.

The feature of the game was the first home run by Bus Christy. It was one of the longest hits ever seen in a high school game in this town. The distance was about 140 yards. Later in the game he got a second one.

The lineup for Klamath was as follows: Captain, D. Heckley; pitchers, Molatore, Stewart, Smith; first base, Yancey; second base, Yarnes; short, J. Boyd; third, Kerwin; left field, Christy; center field, Stewart and Molatore; right field Newsom.

From the looks of the showing made Tuesday in the first game of the season Klamath should rank among first in the Southern Oregon Conference when the field is put into shape so that steady practice can be held.

Klamath Girls Beat Merrill The Klamath High Girls baseball team showed their ability at making hits. They knocked two Merrill pitchers out of the box in the five inning contest. Merrill was unable to stop the onslaught of Klamath. Only five runs were scored by Merrill against the 32 of Klamath.

Southern Oregon Schedule

One of the best schedules ever drawn up for the Klamath Hi Nine has been arranged for this season. Six games have been arranged with Ashland, Medford and Grants Pass. One at home and one at the towns of each team.

Following is the schedule: April 11, Medford at Klamath Falls; April 15, Medford at Medford; April 23 Grants Pass at Grants Pass; May 2 Ashland at Ashland; May 3 Grants Pass at Klamath Falls; May 16, Ashland at Klamath Falls.

THE ANNUAL

Our publication that you have heard so much about called the "Annual" is the high school year book. It contains the current history of the school, photos of some of the beautiful scenes of our wonderful county, a history of Klamath's most progressive business houses, beautifully illustrated, and many humorous stories and jokes.

This plan is especially adapted to the seniors, but for a slightly different motive. Every senior undoubtedly has many friends who are interested in them, hence the practice of exchanging annuals between chums. The senior year in high school is always the best. The annual being the only record kept of the events of that year, the book is quite a senior affair. It will always afford great pleasure to the graduates in later times to call to mind high school days by looking over their annuals.

The El Rodeo of 1925 will be of special interest, as it will contain the programs of the senior play, class play, and commencement, features omitted from previous issues. The publication of an annual entails a great amount of work, but the staff, usually a good-natured set, labor on without a grudge, because they know their work will be well repaid. Those of them who are seniors realize more fully, of course what the result is going to mean to them.

DESIRABILITY OF CITY HI SCHOOLS

Anyone who seriously considers the school situation in Klamath will see that a county high school is impractical. The great distances to certain sections prohibit students from attending here. Consequently these districts now have schools of their own and would oppose spending county tax money for an institution in Klamath Falls from which they would receive no direct benefit. Indeed, this is the answer most frequently received by those who inquire why a new county high school is not being built. We think since this is true, and since the students of Klamath Falls are the ones affected by the present inadequacy of equipment, that the proper solution of the problem is the construction of a city high school.

The city cares for its grade schools. At the present time there are four grammar schools in Klamath Falls and one more under construction, which will be sufficient for some time to come. Does it not seem reasonable that the city should afford at least one high school? Why is it that although a new grammar school is being built and the town has voted fifty thousand dollars for a new library, the task of carrying on the higher education of its young people should be left to the county most sections of which have their own high schools and are not interested in ours? It is plain that this course does not bring results. Our school is far below standard; no gymnasium and no place in which exercises can be held, for it is a matter of common knowledge that grave danger would result were a crowd to gather on the floor of the assembly.

Add to this the fact that the school was overcrowded five years ago and the number of students has increased each succeeding year, and if you are not convinced of the need of a new school, we invite you to attend this institution for a time so that you may become acquainted with numerous other inefficiencies and inconveniences. Please do not complain, however, if your classes are held on the roof, since that is the only additional space available.

Most communities of this size and many smaller have their own high schools. The district at Merrill, Malin, Bonanza and Keno furnish examples. They have buildings paid for by the people of their districts, have provided their own facilities for high school education and have not left it to the county to care for their needs. Can not Klamath Falls do as much? The county high school is now too small for the city high school students. No move is on foot to build a new one in the future. The best way to get a thing done is to do it. Let's start agitation for a city high school.

DEBATE PLANNED

Having won the district championship for Klamath and Lake counties in debate, Klamath High meets Ashland high (April 10) in an inter district debate. The winner of this probably goes to Eugene and is advanced another step toward the state championship at Salem.

Work for this event has been going steadily on under the direction of Mr. Darling and Mr. Chapman, and Klamath High will have some real representation at Ashland. The students participating in this event are Oliver Paynter, Warren Doremus and Bill Kuykendall. The Question is "Resolved that the Referendum is a desirable feature of representative government." Klamath defends the negative.

OPERETTA FOR FRIDAY

"In the Garden of the Shah," a comic opera in three acts is to be staged by the music classes Friday afternoon and night. The Shah has issued an invitation to everybody. Of the eight principals, five are seniors which shows that the seniors have the best talent on the stage.

The Question is "Resolved that the Referendum is a desirable feature of representative government." Klamath defends the negative.

WINS GIVEN

Wanda Kirkendall Given Prize Of $5 From Underwoods Miss Wanda Kirkendall, of 325 Walnut street, a student in the Eighth grade of Central school, was given the $5 prize from Underwoods' Pharmacy for guessing the correct list of names in a recent advertisement in the Evening Herald.

Typewriting can be taught by a new set of phonograph records, speed being indicated by tones not to music.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS NOTES

All classes here meetings Tuesday noon for the purpose of collecting the money and unsold tickets for the operetta.

Senior Notes At a meeting Monday morning, the class was addressed by Dr. Parsons from the School of Social Science at Portland, a branch of the University of Oregon.

"The Charn School" was definitely selected as the Senior Play. Work on which will begin immediately.

Wilda Stevens returned to school Tuesday after a week's illness. Mary Whitline was absent from school on Monday.

Junior Notes There was a meeting of the Junior vaudeville cast Tuesday afternoon. Those taking part are: Lydia Von Berthelsdorf, Venice Moore, Dorothy Wortley, John Morgan, Herbert Graybill, Bill Kuykendall, Hugh Curran, Martha Jones, Edna Dunbar, Marie Crystal, Albert Dollarhide, Marjorie Peyton, Jennie Graver, Bryant Williams, Elmer Buehling, Warren Doremus, Lena Lewis, Helen Abbey, Arthur Moore, Nahum McMullen, and George Condry.

The vaudeville will be presented at the Pine Tree Theatre on the 24th of April. This is the first play of this kind that has ever been given by any class and it promises to be a great success.

Freshman Notes At a Freshman meeting Tuesday afternoon a committee was appointed to select a number of styles for their class pennant.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

In the matter of granting a K to the yell leader, the Student Council decided that the precedent set by former councils should be followed, and no emblem granted until the year following decision of the student body to grant such an emblem.

Therefore, although the council recognizes the value of the work done by the present yell leader, and regrets that their actions seem to indicate lack of such recognition, no emblem will at present be granted Nahum McMullen. The Council joins with the student body in hoping that he will earn the coveted K next year.

Monday morning Dr. Parsons, Director of Social Science of University of Oregon talked to the students about their future education. This was of particular interest to the seniors.

All of the classes will be given a holiday at the same time for their picnics.

OUR DEBTS TO K. C. H. S.

We, the class of 1925, are greatly indebted to K. C. H. S. for the wonderful opportunities, the pleasures of school and the ideals of personal character which we have received. We go to high school to acquire knowledge assured that knowledge is sweet and powerful, that a good education emancipates the mind and makes us citizens of the world. Here enthusiasm waits to make heroes of those who can lead. Here pleasing manners, fine character, amiable temper, and scholarly ability find their full opportunity and inspire such friendships as are seldom made afterwards. We live by admiration, hope, and love; and our high school abounds in all three.

We have also learned here to realize to some degree our responsibilities and the importance of self-reliance and co-operation. During these four years new powers are developing, and the school environment gives them encouragement and exercise.

The high school exists but for our progress. Our ideals are set high, and we desire to cherish them forever. With sad regrets, we must soon be leaving our dear old school, our ever helpful teachers, and our many friends, but we shall never forget them, nor our pleasant gatherings and jolly times.
