Raising Community Funds

The community chest, one of the valuable inheritances left us by the war, is in the way of becoming a permanent American institution.

This systematic method of financing social and charitable agencies, which was almost unknown in pre-war days, appeared in martial guise during the war as a "war-chest," but unlike most things growing out of the war, it has developed, rather than declined, with the advent of peace.

The Civic Development department of the National chamber finds that of the 136 chests for which figures for 1924 have been obtained 70 reached their goals and 66 did not. In 1923, out of a total of 144, 70 reached their goals and 74 did not.

Comparative figures for the two years, so far as they are available, show a gradual increase in these community funds.

Fifty-six received an increased amount over that received in 1923; 34 received a decreased amount over that received in 1923.

Fifty-two increased their contributors in 1924; 32 decreased their contributors in 1924.

Twenty-five reported first campaigns in 1923; 20 reported first campaigns in 1924.

Texas by the Sea

To the many who still retain a vague idea that Texas is a region of staged plains there may be something startling in the announcement that the ship Lafayette, the largest passenger steamer that has ever put into Gulf waters, is sailing from the port of Houston with 250 Texans and a sprinkling of business men from adjacent states, to make a 26-day tour of the West Indies.

This is a method devised by the Houston Chamber of Commerce for bringing home to the rest of the world the fact that the waters of the Caribbean have been brought to lave the municipal doorstep, although Houston is fifty miles from the Gulf.

It is the second cruise of its kind. The first has already proven that it is only a short reach across the water to West Indian ports, from Texas by the Sea. This year the Texas gospel is to be spread not only in Cuba, Porto Rico and the West Indies, but in the Bahamas, Port de France, La Guaira and Caracas, Willemstad, Cartagena, the Panama Canal zone and British Honduras. The spreading is to be done by the passengers who need no stimulus to induce them to exploit the advantages of Houston. They have a good time and the project costs Houston nothing.

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Apr. 8. — "The Metamorphosis of Mellon" might well be the title of a character study of the slender, soft-spoken secretary of the treasury, dealing with him as he was when he came to Washington four years ago and as he is today.

Official life has brought Mellon "out of his shell." As a private capitalist and financier, Mellon led a life of seclusion. His detachment was well-nigh ironclad and impenetrable. Even in his home town of Pittsburg, he was more of a tradition than a flesh-and-blood human being. He frequented no clubs. He attended few functions. Secretaries and functionaries hedged him about with a wall of exclusiveness that made him well-nigh inaccessible.

As a member of the cabinet, Mellon's human contacts have broadened. Not only have his official duties brought him in direct touch with a greater number and a more varied range of individuals, but the social necessities of his position have assisted in the thawing out process.

Dinners, receptions, public and semi-public functions of many kinds have claimed his attendance. And while these are understood at first to have been the bane of his life, they are so no longer. Where he first endured them, he now actually enjoys them.

Friends who have watched this metamorphosis in Mellon declare that he is today a younger and happier man than he has been for years. The icy reserve of the private capitalist has melted. The hard exterior of the chilled-steel financier has mellowed. He is shedding his exclusiveness. He is mixing more with men. He is getting to like folks and affairs. And what in Mellon's case is regarded as final and conclusive proof of the change that has taken place in him

Work Wearing you out?

Klamath Falls Folks Find a Bad Back a Heavy Handicap.

Is your work wearing you out? Are you tortured with throbbing backache—feel tired, weak and discouraged? Then look to your kidneys! Many occupations tend to weaken the kidneys. Constant backache, headaches, dizziness and rheumatic pains are the results. You suffer annoying bladder irregularities; feel nervous, irritable and worn out. Don't wait! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Workers everywhere recommend Doan's. Here's a Klamath Falls case:

Mrs. Leo Cornish, 1429 Oregon Ave., says: "My kidneys were out of order and I suffered with dull, nagging backaches. My work tired me easily and I had frequent dizzy headaches. My kidneys didn't act right either, so I knew they were the cause of the trouble. Two boxes of Doan's Pills, however, relieved me of the aches and pains and put my kidneys in good order."

Anti-prohibitionists are up in arms over what they term "sacrilegious" changes made in the Holy Bible in a recent "shorter version" of the Holy Writ recently issued.

The effort, according to wet advocates, has been to make a Bible conform to what a prohibitionist thinks the Bible should be, rather than to present the true teachings of the biblical sages.

"Undoubtedly," says Stayton, "it is the plan of the dries to replace the Holy Bible in the home with the censored Bible. But if that is true the dries are doomed, for the original Bible says in the last chapter of Revelations: If any man take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the Book of Life."

AT THE LIBERTY

Once in a long time there comes to the screen a photoplay of such magnitude, such general excellence and such stirring appeal as to lift it high above all others and establish it as a new high standard for attainment. Such a photoplay is "The Sea Hawk", which closes at the Liberty theatre tonight.

AT THE PINE TREE

"The Price of Pleasure," written especially for screen production by Elizabeth Holding and Marlon Orth, who have written some outstanding screen successes, is Virginia Valli and Norman Kerry's next vehicle. It has its first local showing at the Pine Tree Theater next Thursday and Friday.

Let's Go to California

Every day some tired, prosperous or otherwise travel-inclined man says to his wife, "Let's go to California." And such is the power of advertising that, although neither of them may ever have been there before, they know just how to go, approximately what it will cost, and where they will want to stay.

The same with anything you may need or want. You always know all about it, by whom it is made, what it costs, and where it is for sale. Advertising is the modern intelligencer. It keeps you informed, advises you of new things, suggests new uses for articles you already own, and prepares you today for wise and useful purchases tomorrow.

It does all this for you, almost unconsciously, during the half-hour or so you spend each day with your newspaper. Little by little—the best and surest way to learn—advertising makes you informed of what is going on in the world that is useful to you.

Read the advertisements. Get ready for tomorrow
