

The Evening Herald

Issued Daily, except Sunday, by The Herald Publishing Company, Office: 119 N. Eighth Street, Klamath Falls, Ore.

E. J. MURRAY Publisher
W. H. PERKINS News Editor

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Klamath Falls, Oregon, under act of March 3, 1879.

Member of the Associated Press

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use of republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published therein. All rights of republication of special dispatches herein are also reserved.

The Evening Herald is the official paper of Klamath County and the City of Klamath Falls.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

Delivered by Carrier		By Mail
One Year	$8.50	One Year	$5.00
Six Months	3.50	Six Months	2.75
Three Months	1.85	Three Months	1.50
One Month	.65	One Month	.45

SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1925

What Are the Results

What are the results accruing from the visit of the secretary of the interior? Nothing. Keen disappointment must be the portion of the people of the Klamath project. Looking forward with certainty to relief; confident in the belief that at last there was at the head of the department a man possessed of a feeling of humanity; one who, from experience, had personal knowledge of the trials, disappointments and sorrows of the people who for twenty years have made a valiant effort to crown the labors of the Reclamation Service with success, they had hope that he would right the wrongs and do justice. All hope of this faded last night, when before a dining room crowded with people filled with expectancy he told them he had no promises to make; that no injustice had been done them by reason of the theft of their water rights and power sites by crooked officials and that, so far as he was concerned, they had no apparent right to complain against the Power company:

Then, to add insult to injury, he added:

What you need here is more of the milk of human kindness; more real understanding; you don't get together around the table and adjust your differences. The road to wealth is work. You need men who will work with their hands to make a living and all work together on the same problems.

What will the farmer, who for twenty years has struggled day in and day out to carry the burden placed on his shoulders by the Reclamation Service think of this? What will those who were promised water at $20 an acre, with the assurance that the power development would wipe out this charge, think of it? The milk of human kindness for whom, for what? The men who stole water rights worth $300,000 a year, if they were paid for by the Power company at the same rate the farmer pays? Towards the recipient of stolen goods? Towards the men who have betrayed the confidence the people have reposed in their government?

What we need here are honest officials. Not only here, but in Washington. We need men who will see that the people who have been robbed will get justice and we want men to come here who will not have passed upon the case upon ex parte evidence.

For years we have been lulled to sleep by fulsome promises, only to awaken to a realization that we have been again betrayed. When the people have reached the end of endurance, they have been visited by some of the "higher ups" of the government, who have made vague promises and veiled suggestions. They then wanted for relief, only to find that none came. The visit of Secretary Work is another instance of this, but this time the people are awake to the scheme and will not be caught napping. They are not going to wait until it is too late. They are going to the United States senate and there demand what has always been refused—an investigation, with evidence taken under oath. They are going to continue the fight until they force the return of their property from the Power company and they are going to see that the justice for which they have been fighting for years will be accorded them.

They recognize the fact that the influence of the Power Trust is great, but they also know that the power of Truth and Justice is greater.

INDIAN CONVENTION DATE IS ANNOUNCED BY FRED HENDRICKS

Fred Hendricks, Klamath Indian delegate and tribal councilman, has announced that the first Klamath Indian convention will take place on the Klamath reservation from Wul-Kee June 22 to June 30, inclusive, 1925. Wul-Kee is located on The Dalles-California highway and provides ample camping ground for all. It also affords excellent boating, bathing and fishing on the shores of Agency lake. There will be an assembly of Indians from the various tribes coming from all parts of the United States, who will appear in their old-time costumes, some in buckskins and others in blankets, wearing feathered headgear. The delegates will bring up matters pertaining to the development of the American Indian. Old time sports, both on water and land, will be furnished for the benefit of the guests. A pageant will be featured for the benefit of their white brothers and Indians alike, depicting historical events of American history. Great interest is being taken in this convention according to the committee in charge, they having received a number of inquiries from a large number of people in the northwest.

CALIFORNIA WINS

Washington Babes Are Decisively Defeated By Freshman Rowing Team

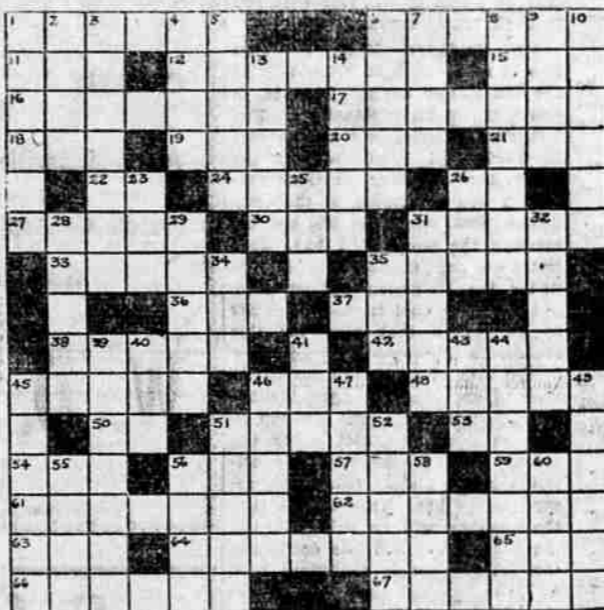

OAKLAND Estuary, Calif., April 11.—The California freshmen crew defeated the Washington Babes by 2 1/2 lengths over the three mile course here today.

Having to work is the only cure for those worries caused by not having to work.

LOOKS LIKE A "NO SALE" HERE

TODAY'S CROSS WORD PUZZLE

HORIZONTAL

- Sparse.
- Grave.
- Sea Eagle.
- Indisposition
- Owed.
- Remedy for all diseases.
- Female lion.
- A pair.
- Large deer.
- To mimic.
- Coarse string fence used in tennis.
- You.
- Officers in a college.
- Seventh not in scale.
- Christmas Carols.
- To free.
- The name of a story.
- To allow.
- Silver in ingots of various sizes.
- Epoch.
- Dandy.
- To hoist.
- Fertilized and ripened ovules.
- To emerge.
- Goddess of dawn.
- To nap.
- The mark that means "all right."

- Tree of genus Ulmus.
- To endeavor.
- Twitching.
- Curses.
- Utensil with wide meshes.
- Examples.
- A contract by which one conveys lands for a rental.
- Digit of the foot.
- Call for help at sea.
- A mystery.
- A sea diving bird.
- To court.
- High priest who trained Samuel.
- Disfigures.
- Baby.
- Sinned.
- One apparently indifferent to pain.
- Elapses.
- Harmonizes in color.
- Auctions.
- Acidity.
- A fortification.
- Ebb and flow of water as regulated by the moon.
- Secure.

YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION

STICK PAT LEVER
 ENNAVERAGE TONIC
 ENNA PESTIC UG
 ADDER RED STEETS
 TROMPES STEAM D
 TONYAR SOAR PIL
 TRE TROBIUM MEN
 DE SLAB TREK AD
 EAWED H SNOW L
 DE MUR BET STORE
 EL SIGRAWL OLE
 VERP ORAL SWEET
 AGE OUTSIDE NAL E
 WYDES THEN WORGE

TALENT MAN SUICIDE

MEDFORD, Ore., April 11.—Depressed by ill health, Wm. B. McClay, 65 years old, who came to Talent, near here, to live about 18 months ago, from Douglas county, where he had been a resident for 35 years, committed suicide late yesterday afternoon near his home by shooting himself through the head with a rifle.

A mad last June bridegroom tells us that instead of assisting him she is always insisting him.

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Apr. 11.—The greatest value of John Garibaldi Sargent to the Coolidge administration is not likely to be in his administration of the attorney general's office. That is said in full appreciation of the fact that Sargent may make a record of real achievement in that office.

Sargent's real value to the president, however, seems likely to lie in the fact that he brings into the administration picture a picturesque personality, with a knack of quaint anecdote and observation; that is likely to capture and hold popular imagination and goodwill. He brings human qualities that have been largely lacking in the Coolidge official family. He gives the cabinet a savor and flavor that has been lacking. He supplies a much-needed seasoning. Whether he supplies also elements of real nourishment, the fact will remain that the salt of his personality will make much more palatable and appetizing the administration menu. The leaven of his good humor, his frankness, his lack of pretense, will do much to relieve the heaviness with which the administration has been threatened.

Up to the time of the Sargent appointment such color as there was to the Coolidge administration picture was supplied almost wholly by the president himself. But even that was rather a lack of color. It was done mostly in sadder tones. The president's severity. His New England comeliness. His frugality. His caution. His common sense.

Nowhere in the cabinet—particularly after the withdrawal of Secretary Hughes—was there a personality flashing color or individuality. Not one of the entire cabinet offered a splash of brightness of contrast to relieve the oppressive hues in the picture's composition. Then along came Sargeant. He accentuates the New England tang provided by the president himself. But, he brings something besides an accession of Vermont economy and common sense.

He brings a sense of humor, which brings the gift of knowing how to turn a story with point and deflection. The cabinet has sadly needed. He Abraham Lincoln doubtless would have been a great man without his ability as a story teller, but it was his knack of pointing his decisions with an appropriate anecdote that popularized his greatness. Sargeant has something of the Lincolnian gift in this respect.

Imagine, if you can, Hoover or Mellon or Weeks appreciating the president, as Sargeant did the day of his arrival here, with the query: "Where is Daves?" "At the hotel, I suppose. Why?" answered Coolidge. "I want to look him up and give him a dinner."

"What do you want to give him a dinner for?" asked Cal, puzzled. "Well—didn't he get me the job?" said Sargeant.

Only one not overwhelmed with the sense of his own importance and having an irrepressible sense of the humorous would at that time have risked joking with the president about having won appointment to the cabinet because the vice president had been asleep on the job.

Again, on that same day, Sargeant admitted he was not a Solomon and didn't pose as one when, under a fire of questions by newspaper men he said:

"Don't ask me any more questions now, will you? Why, I don't even know where I'm going to sleep tonight."

Sargeant may turn out to be a good lawyer or a bad one. He may or may not measure up to the technical legal learning an attorney general is presumed to have. But whether he is a big lawyer or a mediocre one, whether he has administrative capacity and vision or has not, his value to the administration will be the human touch he brings it.

Mail your kodak finishing to STINSON
 737 Main

THROW AWAY Your Old Dictionary

It's now out of date, and here's a new one to take its place. No words that are out of use—no obsolete words—no "filler" words taken from technical glossaries—which naturally makes room in this enlarged vocabulary for the latest words of everyday use—of which there are thousands of new ones—expressive, forceful words, with which everybody should be familiar. The publishers abandoned their old printing plates, so let the babies play with that old dictionary now, and get your new one through this offer in

The Evening Herald

The Popular Coupon Plan Places It Within Easy Reach of Every Reader

KEEP UP WITH OLD FATHER TIME

In these days of lively sports, games, and amusements we are looked upon as back numbers if we don't know the language of Golf, Radio, Football, Aviation, Tennis, Baseball, Automobiling, Polo, Lacrosse, and other modern activities. You'll find dictionaries of each one of these, and many others, in this educational volume. So the older folks can keep up with the young folks—and the youngsters will be enabled to use the proper terms in their sporting endeavors—with this Dictionary of Dictionaries always at hand.

Clip Your Coupon and Get Yours Today

MONEY BACK IF NOT SATISFIED

Cross Word Puzzlers Need This Enlarged Dictionary

Even this little off of the top gives an idea of the size of this book.

TODAY'S COUPON ON PAGE 4

