SANITATION IN KLAMATH COUNTY DECLARED GOOD

Dr. Hugo Muench of State Board of Health Submits Report of Work

"I have been in many rapidly expanding lumber communities, particularly in the south, but I have yet to see the town of this type that can compare favorably with Klamath Falls with regard to health and sanitation."

This is the opinion of Dr. Hugo Muench Jr. after a two-day inspection of the health conditions in Klamath Falls and outlying rural communities. Dr. Muench is connected with the state department, with the county health units of Oregon under his charge.

"County Health Officer Newsom and I have gone over Klamath Falls inspected the water system, the sewer system and other matters of less importance," Dr. Muench said.

"When one considers the type of city Klamath Falls is, how fast it is growing and how it is primarily a lumber city, the health and sanitation facilities and the response of the people to the admonitions of the health department is remarkable."

Water System O. K.
The health officer was favorably impressed with the water system of Klamath Falls, established on the east side of Klamath Falls.

"The wells are so deep that they are free from surface contamination," he pointed out. "If there was any seepage of water from Lila river into the wells, or any contamination whatsoever, it would show in the semi-monthly analysis made of the water."

"You have something of a problem in the northern part of town, where I understand a sewer system is to be built next year. There you have a populous little community, with no adequate sanitation facilities. It would be hardly right to ask those people to stand the expense of establishing cess pools, when they are assured of relief in the near future. It is a problem which we must handle and at this time Dr. Newsom has several plans in mind which will probably handle the situation."

Visit Merrill
County Health Doctor Newsom and Dr. Muench together visited Merrill following several complaints that were made to the county unit office concerning sanitation facilities of the community. Dr. Muench declined to comment on his findings.

Dr. Muench leaves today for the northern part of the state. This is his first visit to Klamath county and he plans to make regular visits at monthly intervals.

EMPLOYEES ORGANIZE INTO SOCIAL CLUB

Hereafter the members of the personnel of the First National bank will be known as the First National Hi-Jinklers. It was announced today following a meeting of the bank employees at which they formed a social club.

The first social event will be a dance at the White Pelican hotel on the evening of May 6. Later is planned to give a banquet and other social activities to which the friends of the bank employees will be invited, are planned.

OREGON WINS ITS FIRST BALL GAME

EUGENE, Ore., April 25.—The University of Oregon opened its baseball season here yesterday, afternoon by winning from Pacific University, 19 to 3. The outstanding feature of the game was the hitting of Howard Hobson, Oregon second sacker, who tripled twice, knocked out one double and one single out of his four times at bat.

EX-COP CONVICTED

PORTLAND, Ore., April 24.—Frank E. Lowe, ex-constable of Milwaukie, Ore., charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, was found guilty of conspiracy and possession of two bottles of moonshine by a federal court jury today.

RAILROADS PLAN EXTENSION HERE

"If it appears the Oregon Trunk can be extended southward, it is our belief business would be stimulated there and further development would follow. There would be more business for all interests concerned."

"The status of the road as mapped from Bend South was that the surveys made there had conflicted with the Natron cut-off of the Southern Pacific company. There were places where the surveys used the same ground and the roads crossed."

"In 1919 and 1911 joint surveys were made so that the lines would not interfere with each other so there is no particular interference there now. There is an unfinished project that I think should be taken up and pushed through and it will not interfere with other lines."

Must Have Support
"The people of Oregon know very well that money invested in railroads must be supported, both as to capital account and operating expense, if the lines are to succeed. There has been some unnecessary duplication and needless expense in the line as built south from the Columbia river to Bend."

"It will be our aim, when we go south from Bend, to avoid duplication and expense and to do with every dollar the most that can be done with it, so as to get the most traffic for all interests concerned. The territory from Bend to Klamath Falls can be served economically and well when the time comes and we hope to treat it around the table in the manner that has been suggested by Mr. Dey and discuss it with business men of Portland, for such a method will be most important to us."

Ben Dey, counsel for the Southern Pacific company, in a proceeding talk said that Oregon would realize what it hoped in railroad building sooner by a policy of cooperation than by a program of litigation and antagonism. He advised business men to call upon railroad executives and learn their problems and said the public interest would be aided if the railroad heads were allowed to work out their plans in their own way.

Natron Work
Mr. Dey reported progress on the Eugene-Klamath Falls line. Forty-five miles of track had been laid and was in operation of the whole extension of 198 miles, and 83 miles had been graded.

Twenty-five miles remained to be completed and this was said to be substantially under way. The tunnel at the summit, more than 3000 feet long, was two-thirds bored and by July the track would be built through it, bringing the line from Kirk in the Klamath basin west of the Cascades. Completion of the new road was expected early next year.

Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific, made no reference at all to the Oregon rail situation, save in a most general way. He said that people were apt to want a thing very badly until they got it and then interest lapsed.

MERRILL TO BE HOST TO COUNTY

Opening of Community Club Will Be Staged on May 1—Plan Celebration

The Merrill Community club on the evening of May 1, will be the host to Klamath county at the official opening of the Community building, it was announced today.

Desirous of having citizens of other communities to join them in celebrating the official opening, the community club has extended invitations to all the community clubs of the county and the chamber of commerce, besides a general invitation to the public to join with them in the celebration.

While the civic center has been completed for some time and has been used on several occasions, the new building has not been officially opened.

Probably no Klamath rural community project was ever put over with such quickness and dispatch as the community club movement at Merrill. When the citizens of Merrill decided to build the structure, sufficient money was raised with ease, the site selected by a majority vote of the stockholders in the club without adverse comment and the building erected in a short time.

Committees are working on the program that will entertain visitors at the opening celebration.
