Mellowid

"In our mountains, Senora, in our high plantations, grow coffees of the rare flavor. But the true goodness, it must be refined, it must be developed by nature, before the roast.

"The richness, the character, can only come from aging in our tropic storehouses, two years, three years. Then when those rare flavors are emphasized by just a dash of the new coffee - Ah!

"Too bad, Senora - so few people can know the real coffee. So little coffee can remain here to mellow. The great demand for the coffee drink takes from our storehouses too soon.

"Ah! you say your S & W coffee is from our old mellowed supplies, with but the slight quantity of new to liven the rich mellowness? And is only the coffee from our mountains? Good! Then you know what the coffee superfine is, Senora!"

To bear the S & W label, S & W coffee must represent S & W quality - the best in its line the world can offer. Hence the pains and expense to secure the best coffees, the artistry used in their blending, the skill in roasting and packing!

"You'll order S & W today! Excellent! You'll appreciate its extraordinary qualities. Packed in the new key-can."
