

The Evening Herald

Issued Daily, except Sunday, by The Herald Publishing Company, Office: 119 N. Eighth Street, Klamath Falls, Ore.

E. J. MURRAY Publisher
W. H. PERKINS News Editor

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Klamath Falls, Oregon, under act of March 3, 1879.

Member of the Associated Press

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use of republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published therein. All rights of republication of special dispatches herein are also reserved.

The Evening Herald is the official paper of Klamath County and the City of Klamath Falls.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

Delivered by Carrier		By Mail
One Year	$6.50	One Year	$5.00
Six Months	3.50	Six Months	2.75
Three Months	1.95	Three Months	1.50
One Month	.65	One Month	.55

TUESDAY, MAY 5, 1925

THE CHAIN GANG

It is to be hoped that the city will not put into effect the proposal to establish a chain gang and work city prisoners who are serving short sentences for drunkenness or other minor infractions of the law. If a chain gang is to be established it belongs properly with the county officials where men are serving from 30 days up for more serious offenses against society.

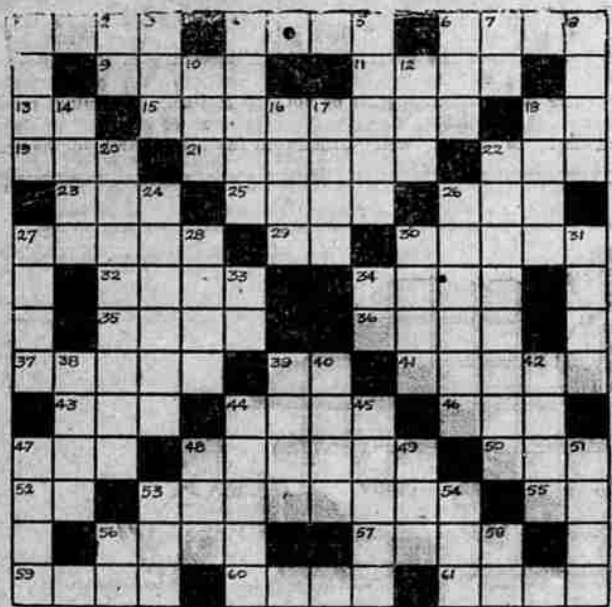

The city prisoner who is jailed for being drunk is in no physical condition to stand up under the street work. The street commissioner would be compelled to employ one or more extra guards to watch the prisoners, and the experiment undoubtedly would prove a costly one from every standpoint.

BETTER SANITATION

Mayor Goddard and County Health Officer Newsom are to be commended for taking the initiative toward procuring better sewage and sanitation for the Fairview district. Neither official desires to appear in the role of an alarmist, but conditions there are admittedly bad, and unless something is done Klamath Falls may possibly be faced with a typhoid epidemic of serious proportions.

Residents of the Fairview district are extremely anxious to better the present unsatisfactory and dangerous sanitary condition, and it behooves the city officials to throw every possible safeguard around the district and the people therein, to the end that lives will not be needlessly endangered through a typhoid epidemic which is preventable if proper action is speedily taken.

TODAY'S CROSS WORD PUZZLE

HORIZONTAL

- Repeat.
- One.
- Pos for sheep.
- City.
- To foray.
- Neuter pronoun.
- Weaving twigs.
- 2,1416.
- A convent worker.
- Straight.
- Fluid used for illumination.
- Legendary bird of prey.
- Opening that permits water to escape.
- To sunburn.
- To pry.
- Half an em.
- An entertainment at home.
- The plant spikenard.
- Moved smoothly.
- Group of three.
- To flog.
- The belief in God, but not in religion.
- Exclamation.
- Pertaining to sound.
- Lyric.
- Thin membrane or layer.
- To equip.
- Unit.
- To bind.
- To assist.
- Like.
- Vitiated.
- Yellow Hawaiian bird.
- Skin of fruit.
- To suppose.

VERTICAL

59. Ancient.
60. Oceans.
61. Small salamander.
- Principle, leading.
- Preposition of place.
- Humble.
- Up to.
- Prank.
- Small pear-shaped fruit.
7. Alleged power producing hypnotism.
8. A raised platform.
10. A small mass.
12. Small social insect.
14. To rotate.
16. Largest plant.
17. Meager.
18. To breathe hard.
20. Characteristic of noon.
22. A white flower (seen in man's button hole).
24. Vulgar.
26. Male dressmaker.
27. Covered by footwear.
28. Precede.
30. Plot of ground.
31. To sneeze.
33. To accomplish.
34. Point of compass.
35. Area.
38. Prolonged sound of "a."
40. Contrast.
42. Exchange premium.
43. Neglect.
45. Fixer.
47. Salmon raw.

ANOTHER HIBERNATING ANIMAL THAT GOES COO-COO IN SPRING

Stewart's Washington Letter

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—H.L. Mencken likes living in America. At least, so he says. He's so extremely unorthodox and the United States, these times, is so much the other way that it seems as if he wouldn't enjoy himself here. But talking with me at his home down in Baltimore recently, "I'd be very unhappy," he remarked, "in a community of people all just like myself. Of course, this observation lays him open to the comeback, "So would anybody else."

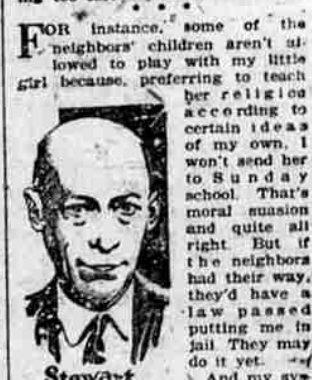

He continued, "In this land of conventions, by defining them all." This is the right way to look at it, no doubt. Forced to dwell here, as he is, for business reasons, the irrepressible Mr. Mencken shows sound sense in insisting on seeing the bright side of conditions he has to put up with anyway. Nevertheless, it has to be admitted that existence in this country is pretty Greek today, compared with what it was up to a dozen or 15 years ago. Before then, I myself liked it here as well as I liked any other place and even better than I liked some. But not now. At present I can't think of a single spot I ever visited on the whole globe where I wouldn't rather live than here in the United States.

THE real reason I live here is the same real reason that H.L. Mencken has for going so, too. I don't believe that story about his unhappiness among people more or less like himself. I notice he trains around with his own kind—that is, the nearest he can come to his own kind. His real reason is, "This is the easiest country in the world to make a living in." In a thoughtless moment he let this bit of information out. It's a good reason, too. A country it's pleasant to live in, nevertheless isn't very pleasant if you've nothing to live on.

MENTION the fact that you don't like the present-day United States and everybody assumes it's prohibition you don't like. Prohibition is one of the symptoms, true enough, but it isn't the disease. The disease is standardization—by law. The entire world is suffering from it but the United States has by far the worst case. Standardization is moral stagnation in legitimate but compulsory standardization is going too far.

FOR instance, some of the neighbors' children aren't allowed to play with my little girl because, preferring to teach her religious ideas of my own, I won't send her to Sunday school. That's moral stagnation and quite all right. But if the neighbors had their way, they'd have a law passed putting me in jail. They may do it yet.

BEING an American myself by a good many generations' descent—I could be a Son of the American Revolution if I wanted to. I'm eligible—I can say if I please, that I don't like this country the way it is now. I do please and I do say so. If I could, I'd live somewhere else. And if H.L. Mencken would own up, I'll bet he'd have to say the same thing.

HOME POINTER SUGGESTIONS

- (From O. A. C. School of Home Economics, Corvallis)
- Waxing the bottom of chair rockers when the floors are being done will prevent their scratching when pushed across the floor.
 - Peeling melted paraffin wax into the vacuities of loose furniture cast and allowing to stand for several hours, inserting the castors carefully, will prevent their slipping out.
 - Creasing the hands with cold cream before beginning rough work will protect the skin.
 - Paper that sticks to the table top may be removed by putting a few drops of oil on the paper and rubbing gently with a soft cloth.
 - The dust bag of a vacuum cleaner is emptied easily by placing the mouth in a large sack instead of shaking the dust into a newspaper.
 - Several tablespoons of peanut butter creamed with shortening give a novel and delicious flavor to cookies.
 - A stop-moving kitchen may be had by having a hook for everything

YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION

New York minister wants boys to stop playing marbles and we'll bet boys want him to stop talking. It takes all kinds of people to ruin a world.

Bibie Doesn't Mention Em

"My husband said my legs were a sin and it caused me great mental anguish," explains Ruth Marjory Pinet Burket, who is suing her husband, Flavius Burket, Los Angeles capitalist, for divorce. Ruth is known on the stage as Renee Pinet.

than one. In such a case, the first turn of the hem is made the depth of the hem rather than just a seam's width. In making side draperies which are often made of cretonne or a plain drapery fabric of about the same weight, measure from the top of the window frame to a point one inch below it. In sheer curtain materials, the hem is frequently made of two or three thicknesses of material rather than one. As soon as the chicks are well feathered they can be moved to the range house. The best Oregon ranges are those having trees and running water, reports the experiment station. Although range houses are provided it is a good practice to let the chicks roost in the trees. Chicks taught to roost early are less likely to overgrow, according to the O. A. C. experiment station. This can be accomplished by placing slatted roosts on the floor and gradually raising them until 12 to 14 inches from the floor. This allows a free circulation of fresh air under the chicks while roosting.

Shoe Repairs

Just like teeth repairs or any other kind of repairs are usually put off just as long as possible. But if you would only remember that the result would be 100% better, your shoe would have its comfortable shape, the soles would stay put and the whole job last longer if you mailed them in as soon as they were worn enough to need it

You would get more shoe for your money

But anyway we can fix them. Just as long as the hooks and eyelets are there, we can make you a good pair of shoes.

Mail in a pair

Goodyear Shoe Repair Shop

W. W. Connors - - Next door to Herald