The next week will be full with high school and the grades picnics This week the state examinations are being taken.

CHILOQUIN

Mrs. Hedrick, Carlson, Buell, Lauritsen and Hessig attended the Mother's Day services at Klamath Agency Sunday afternoon. Rev. Weiss spoke on the "Home Builder" and was very interesting. Dr. Mallett and Mrs. Bert Thomas of Klamath Falls and Mrs. Dobbins of the Agency furnished the music.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Lauritsen were shopping in the city on Tuesday.

There was quite a bit of excitement on Tuesday morning as burglars had entered the Klamath Supply store and blown the safe.

When Mr. Hendrick arrived to open the store the door was already open. On entering the office which is in the rear of the store Mr. Hedrick found quite a wreck One door of the safe was completely demolished and the other one badly smashed. The soap and asbestos filling of the doors was plastered every where. The safe didn't succeed in opening the inside compartment so did not make very large haul. Up to late last night nothing was found missing but the money in the first compartment.

ASPGROVE

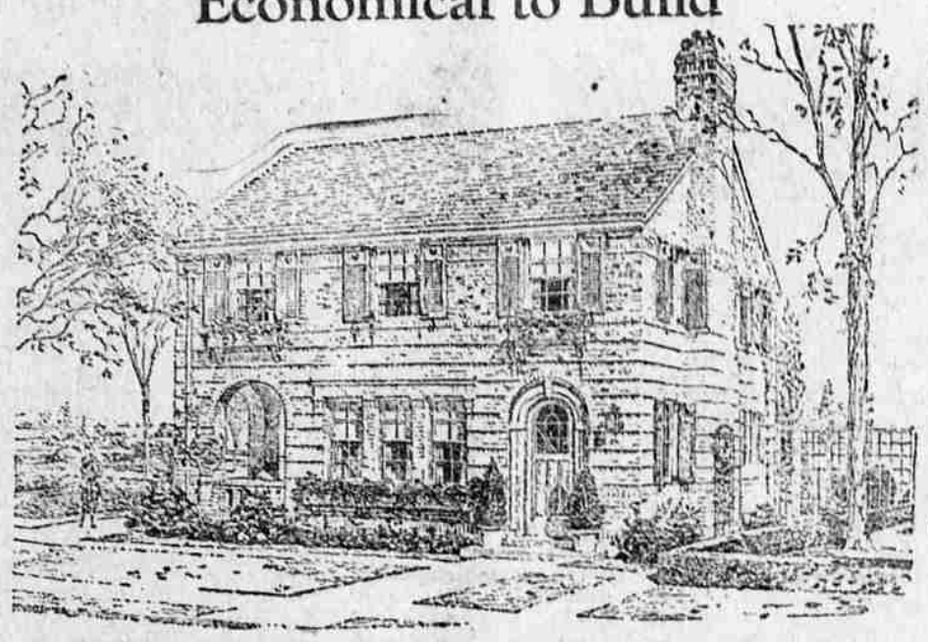
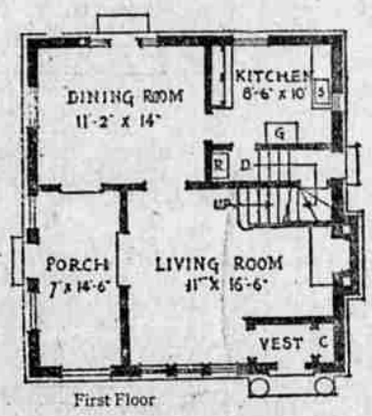
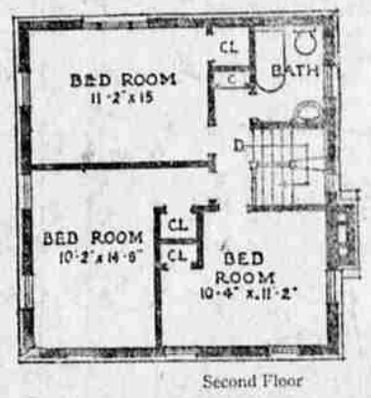
A Dignified Yet Interesting House Economical to Build





First Floor



Second Floor

House No. 115

Designed by Christian F. Rushery
Courtesy, American Face Brick Association

THIS house would attract attention in almost any setting. It is equally adaptable to a city street or the more open suburban country. The rectangular shape of the house, the gable roof and the entire absence of costly ornamentation make it an exceptionally economical house to build. It will give full value for every dollar expended upon it.

Note how symmetrical the front elevation is, without being the least stiff or formal. The balance between the entrance and porch opening and the placing of the windows give it a distinct character. The house has dignity without in any sense sacrificing interest and charm.

The design has here used face brick with a clear understanding of its artistic possibilities. The soldier course at the foundation, the rowlock courses at the window line of the first and second floors, the ornamental frieze under the cornice give a distinct touch, while the recessed horizontal courses accentuate the width of the house and tie it closer to the ground.

Throughout the exterior the architect has demonstrated that by the intelligent use of permanent materials the small house can be as beautiful and substantial as a pretentious mansion—and at the same time as economical to build.

The interior arrangement has the same directness as the exterior; there is no waste space. Everywhere the space has been utilized to the best advantage and with a thorough understanding of how to get the most in size, comfort and convenience at a minimum of expense.

The entrance to the house is directly into the living room, but an ample vestibule with a coat closet shuts off drafts in cold weather. The staircase starts from the living room, and with the vestibule, frames an angle nook about the fireplace that makes a very pleasant feature.

The entire first floor is arranged so that the house can be administered with the least amount of work. The arrangement of the kitchen will delight any housewife who likes a well-appointed kitchen in which she can do her work without needless steps.

Note the placing of the windows throughout the house. Each room has windows on two sides—except the living room where the French doors onto the porch serve as windows—thus assuring plenty of light and cross ventilation. This is but another example of the thoroughness with which the architect designed this house.

HEAVYWEIGHTS WILL FEATURE TUESDAY CARD

The versatile and comical Rocco Ztramaglia will again be seen in action in Klamath Falls, this time against Sammy Olson California gray, weight who hails from Los Angeles. The two big beef eaters will fight the ten round main event of a flashy card at the Scandinavian hall, next Tuesday night.

Rocco has fought in Klamath Falls once. In that one fight he rocked Earl Ritchie, local heavyweight, to sleep in the third round of their ten round go. Olson is a fast fighter with a heavy punch.

The semi-windup will be between Jack Crim, pride of the Modocs, and Joe Coffman of Baker, Ore. These two boys will be evenly matched according to the matchmaker. Coffman carries a mean hook in either hand and is a slashing, boring in mixer, with the capacity of taking and to give two. The bout will be a six round go.

Whether or not Wilbur Harrington, another Indian pugilist, will be able to solve the defense of Felix Torres of Weed, in the four rounds of their bout Tuesday night, is the question that is puzzling supporters of both fighters. Harrington is a fighter pure and simple. Torres is a boxer pure and simple. Which will win?

The curtain raiser will be a four round fight between two local boys.

Court Dismisses Charges Against 5 Western Mills

WASHINGTON, May 16. — Dismissal of complaints against five western lumber companies was announced last night by the federal trade commission. The complaints, naming the Coeur d'Alene Mill company, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho; Grande Ronde Lumber company, Perry, Ore.; McGoldrick Lumber company, Spokane, Wash.; Deer Park Lumber company, Deer Park, Wash., and Shevlin-Hixon company, Bend, Ore., had charged the companies with selling western pine as western white pine. The complaints were dismissed on the ground that before they were served on the respondents the complaints had been discontinued. Commissioners Thomas and Nugent dissented from the dismissals.

Warm enough now to use your vest to patch your trousers.

We predict a hot summer. We always do. It always is.

Gardens are good examples. If you make anything out of them you have to get out and dig.

Snoring is dangerous. It lets burglars know you are asleep.
