

SOCIETY

On the calendar of society folks this week and even those who do not spend a great deal of their time in the hustle and bustle of parties and entertainments, the Elks' Western Nights featured largely on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The affair, a three-night celebration, brought the Western togs from the moth balls and new bands brightened up the huge Stetsons that sat jauntily atop the heads of the Elks. However, the joy of the entire festivity was manifest in the fact that crowds patronized the affair, more probably because it was a benefit to charity, the entire amount turned over to the Elks, after the expenses were a thing of the past, went into a fund for the provision of joy and happiness and material things for the needy. The Elks are hoping to surpass the mark of several thousand dollars spent last year in the temple.

AT THE PINE TREE

Most people say it is easier to forgive than it is to forget. Is there any real necessity for it?

There is plenty of food for thought along these lines in "Forgive and Forget," the new C. B. C. feature at the Pine Tree theater tonight. The husband forgave his wife—but whether or not he forgets is for the spectators to decide. It all makes one of the most gripping photoplays ever seen, acted by an excellent cast including Estelle Taylor, Pauline Garon, Wyndham Standing, Josef Swickard, Raymond McKee, Philo McCullough, Vernon Steele and Lionel Belmore. Howard M. Mitchell directed the picture, which Harry Cohn produced.

"A great picture made under great difficulties," was the comment of Sol Lesser, president of Principal Pictures corporation after the completion of production work on his film version of "The Mine With the Iron Door," Harold Bell Wright's newest and greatest popular novel, and which is announced as the feature picture for next Sunday at the Pine Tree theater.

For Mr. Wright, when he wrote his story, travelled into the Canada del Oro ("Canyon of Gold") in the Catalina mountains in Arizona, near Tucson, by horseback and over 10000 feet which is 10000 feet then boast even a trail. And Mr. Lesser, in order to transfer to the screen this story just as it had been written, arranged to photograph the pictures in exactly the same location and reproduce many of the exact scenes.

When all plans had been completed, John Jasper, production manager of Principal Pictures, was sent into the location site by Mr. Lesser to pave the way for the arrival of the company of players and technicians. When Mr. Lesser and the company arrived they found a newly built road across the desert, along a river bottom and in many instances through fissures of rock that had been blasted away to permit the passage of automobiles and trucks, by which the players and others were transported daily between the location site and their camping place on the Triangle "L" ranch miles distant.

AT THE LIBERTY

A speeding hand car with its burden of human life! An onrushing train, crashing through the night, about to write history on the tablet of death. Then, like a miracle, the skill of a brainy man, and a tragedy is averted. This is one of the many thrill moments in "The No-Gun Man" starring Lefty Flynn at the Liberty theater tonight.

Back to the screen after a long enforced layoff due to a broken leg which he sustained in one of his daring stunts before the camera, Fred Thomson appears in his new picture, "That Devil Quemado," at the Liberty theater on Sunday. The star and his four-legged co-star, Silver King, are the outstanding features of this border story.
