

Down in the old Cornfield

Across the carefully cultivated fields, the stately, rustling corn spreads row after row, ripening gradually under warm sun and wind! Just as the sweet, tender young ears of corn reach perfection, they are harvested for the TUBEROSE kitchens, and canned immediately.

All the natural, fresh, corn taste is kept for you—all the richness of flavor. You'll enjoy TUBEROSE Corn because it is "The Pick of the Pack," the finest of the country's crop!

More than 200 other vegetables, fruits and sea-foods carry the TUBEROSE label of superior quality. Yet you pay but a trifle more than for unknown, unadvertised brands!

AT THE PINE TREE

History came to life in all its vivid realism last night at the Pine Tree theater, when "The Thundering Herd" was shown to a large and very appreciative audience.

Those who are familiar with the story know that it is written around the winning of the west and deals with a particularly important and violent period of American history—the rush of the pioneers in 1876 from their farms in the east to the buffalo fields of the far west. The scenes showing the slaughter of the buffalo and the wild stampede of the maddened beasts are beyond description.

"The Thundering Herd" is not only excellent film entertainment, but it is an enduring tribute to that race of Americans too often forgotten in the hustle and bustle of this jazz age.

The final showing of this remarkable picture will be given tonight.

AT THE LIBERTY

Robert W. Service, whose name will live because of his great poem, "The Spell of the Yukon," bids fair to make it live doubly long as a result of turning novelist. He wrote "The Roughneck," which quickly became a best seller and has been made into a photodrama. The shark fight staged in this picture, in which a native Tahitian slays the monster after a terrific battle, is giving local photoplay fans a big thrill. This strange under-sea conflict is plainly the real thing. Killing sharks thus in hand-to-hand encounter is a popular sport off the shores of the South Sea Isles.

"The Roughneck" will be shown tonight for the last time at the Liberty theater.
