"Nothing Wrong" Says Campbell In Polished Talk at White Pelican

Tells Chamber of Commerce His "Investigation" Here Has Failed to Alter His Previous Opinion—Says More Settlers Needed But Fails to Advise How They Can Escape Starvation on Tule Lake Lands With Charges Loaded by Reclamation Service to $90 an Acre.

On the evening of Saturday, April 11, Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, made the public statement at a banquet in his honor that what the government reclamation project in Klamath is sadly in need of, is cooperation, not an investigation.

On Friday evening, May 29, after a more intensive study of the Klamath project than his superior, Thomas E. Campbell, ex-governor of Arizona and chairman of the board of Survey and Adjustment, disposed of the trials and tribulations of the Reclamation projects by the same general statement.

Reclamation of Souls

"Before there can be more Reclamation of land in Klamath, there must first be a Reclamation of Souls," he thundered to an applauding audience at the chamber of commerce banquet in the White Pelican hotel last night.

"True it is that this is an empire awakening. But may I interpose one word. Let it be not only an awakening to the physical advantages and opportunities of the country, but also an awakening to the need of cooperation."

"Unless there is a better understanding between those who are now in charge of the project and those who are in charge in Washington, there can be no progress on your project. There must be a better understanding between the two administrations—one in Klamath and one in Washington—or else your project cannot go ahead."

Favors O. & M.

"The sensible way to conduct government projects is to allow farmers to have charge of their own Operation and Maintenance. But may I bring one warning, a warning that has its source by the experience on my own home project."

"When the Operation and Maintenance is turned over to the water users of Klamath, there will be the same political entanglement as was experienced on the Salt River project of Arizona. In other words there will be a movement, a political expression as it were, by people on the project who are incompetent to run the project."

Politicians Will Come

"That is what happened on our project. These politician farmers, through their original initiative ran the project, for the first two years and almost ran it into the ground. (Continued On Page Six)

Chinese Students Riot In Shanghai; Police Slay Four

SHANGHAI, May 29. (A.P.)—Sixth police armed with carbine rifles rifled into a mob of 3,000 Chinese students attempting to storm the Louza police sub-station on the Nan-King road today, killing four and injuring six. The police station is in the center of Shanghai's business district.

The demonstration was attempted as a protest against conviction of Chinese strikers who left their employment in Japanese cotton mills.

The decision which precipitated the disturbance was handed down by a mixed court. The command to fire one volley was given when the students began to rush the gates which open into the station compound. The disturbance took place in the heart of Shanghai's business district.

While the action of the police in firing on the students stemmed the disorder temporarily, an uprising is feared tonight. The Shanghai volunteer corps, light artillery and 12 armored cars were ordered out to aid in restoring order. Fifty students have been arrested.

The Louza district, where the disturbances centered is thickly populated department store area and the shooting created intense excitement.

THE STORY OF THE DAY

EX-GOVERNOR OF WASHINGTON OUT ON $3,000 BAIL

TACOMA, Wash., May 29.—(A.P.)—Former Governor Louis F. Hart of Washington state is at liberty today under $3000 bail.

EX-GOVERNOR OF WASHINGTON OUT ON $3,000 BAIL

Hart was arrested in Olympia yesterday evening charged with soliciting a bribe from Guy E. Kelly and Forbes P. Haskell Jr., out of the trust fund created from the assets of the defunct Scandinavian American Bank of Tacoma.

He was arrested two hours after prosecuting Attorney Seidon had sworn out a warrant before Judge W. O. Chapman in superior court here.

The offense charged against Hart is a felony and is punishable by a maximum fine of $5000 or 10 years in the state penitentiary or both. No minimum is prescribed in the statutes.

The warrant was placed in the hands of Sheriff Thomas Desmond, who notified Sheriff Charles Jackson of Thurston county that he held the warrant for Hart's arrest and requested him to locate the ex-governor immediately.

The former chief executive was arrested by the Thurston sheriff and with his attorney, Hance Clelland, posted a surety bond of $3000 to gain his release on bail.

The defendant will be arraigned before Judge Governor Treats early next week, according to Prosecutor Seidon, who is ready to proceed with the trial of the case immediately.

The information accuses Hart of "violating his official duty; that he did unlawfully, feloniously and defiantly ask from Guy E. Kelly and Forbes P. Haskell Jr. that they pay him a certain sum of money from the assets of the Scandinavian American bank of Tacoma."

State Banking Head Fined $50 for Contempt

Bramwell Files Notice of Appeal to High Court

SALEM, Ore., May 29.—Frank C. Bramwell, state superintendent of banks, was fined $50 for contempt of court yesterday by Judge L. H. McMahan. The contempt proceeding was filed against Bramwell when he refused to appear in court and give his reasons for filing an affidavit of prejudice against McMahan in the case of Putnam against Bramwell. The latter is an injunction proceeding in which George Putnam, publisher of the Capital Journal, seeks to compel Bramwell to return the state banking department to Salem from Portland.

Upon imposition of the $50 fine, Bramwell at once filed notice of appeal to the supreme court from the order of the lower court holding Bramwell guilty of contempt. The case will test the constitutionality of the law that allows the filing of affidavits of prejudice against judges.

"No Fraud," Campbell View Of Evidence As Presented by Ranchers

Government Representative Follows Cue of Superiors and Tells Farmers They Are Without Redress—Board of Survey Engaged in Making Report on Findings Here.

The final session of the Board of Survey and Adjustment which has been conducting hearings here during the past week for the purpose of reaching a basis of settlement of the controversies between the Reclamation Service and the farmers was held yesterday, final adjournment being taken about five o'clock. The Board is in executive session today for the purpose of reaching an understanding about the character of report to be made.

Immediately after lunch, J. H. Carnahan, attorney for the district, presented the final documents to support the magnificent presentation of facts going to prove gross fraud in the sale of the Ankeny and Keno canals and the Leavitt power sites and the efforts of the Reclamation Service to give free use of the water of Klamath lake to the California Oregon Power company.

At the close of Mr. Carnahan's presentation, Mr. Goodwin, who is on the Board as the representative of the interior department, and whose every effort throughout was to shield, cover up and defend the department in all of its acts, asked the attorney for the farmers to point out in any of the documents submitted where the Ankeny canal was charged up against the project. The resulting passage at arms was so decidedly in favor of Carnahan that the departmental representative for a moment lost the restraint under which he had held himself throughout the hearing and the arrogance of the bureaucrat, filled with resentment at the damning array of facts laid bare by Mr. Carnahan, donned the habiliments of Washington officialdom, and "demanded" that he answer his question direct. And Carnahan did.

Nations Join in Honor to Soldier Dead

Senator Miller Speaks to Crowd of 500 Hearers

Before an audience of five hundred at the Pine Tree theater this morning, State Senator Edward Miller of Grants Pass, delivered a Memorial Day address in which he reminded his audience that today was the day set aside for remembering and honoring the heroes of past wars that had given their lives for the United States in order that the honor of the nation be upheld in war as in peace.

But Senator Miller, also pointed out that all heroes were not those that wore uniforms. He recalled the strides toward progress and prosperity made by great men of peace times.

Under the auspices of Herbert Applegate Camp No. 25, Memorial Day exercises opened this morning at 7:45 o'clock with an assembly by the trumpeter at the base of the Memorial Flag Staff in the city cemetery. At 8 o'clock the flag was raised to full staff and the Spanish American War Veterans Memorial Day Ritualistic Service was given by officers of the camp.

At 8:30 o'clock the flag was lowered to half mast in honor of the nation's dead and 'taps' sounded by the trumpeter.

From 8:30 to 9 o'clock graves of Civil war and Spanish American war veterans were decorated by the local Spanish American veterans and the auxiliary of the veterans.

At 9:15 o'clock the Memorial day parade starting at Link River bridge proceeded up Main street and terminated at the Pine Tree theater where the memorial address was given.
