

WEATHER BUREAU WILL WORK WITH FOREST SERVICE

Warning to be Given of Lightning Storms, High Winds, Low Humidity

A special fire weather warning service will be maintained during the forest fire season by the Weather Bureau in cooperation with the various forest protective agencies of the Northwest, according to announcement just sent out by the United States Forest Service, Portland, Oregon. This service was started in 1924, and proved to be of practical value to the organizations most vitally interested in forest fire control and suppression.

According to forest fire experts the fire hazard varies greatly under differing atmospheric conditions. Roughly, there are three outstanding types of fire-weather: (a) hot, dry periods, with a low relative humidity, favorable for the starting and spread of all types of fires; (b) periods of high winds and gales, favorable for the rapid spread of existing fires; and (c) lightning storms, which themselves start fires. There also may be combinations of two or all of these conditions.

The Weather Bureau plans to give to the forest protective agencies advance information of impending changes in the weather which will affect the forest fire hazard, usually covering a period of thirty-six hours. The warnings will be sent out by telephone and telegraph. General forest fire weather information will also be broadcast by radio.

Weather Bureau officials point out that the fact that a period of danger is forecast cannot of itself prevent fires. But this information enables those agencies interested to operate and co-operate in such a manner that the danger may be minimized. They state that during these periods loggers should exercise greater caution, and even cease operations over the worst period; railroad rights-of-way should be intensively patrolled; fire wardens guided in the distribution of their forces and equipment; restrictions on campers and tourists in danger zones should be enforced; and the general public warned, through press and radio, of the fact that extraordinary precautions to prevent fires are mandatory. The farmer may profitably utilize the forecasts in planning his work, a period of high or acute fire hazard, with its low humidity, being ideal haying weather.

The Weather Bureau has assigned two investigators, one at Portland and one at Seattle, to make a survey of meteorological conditions affecting the fire hazard. Federal, State, and private forest agencies, as well as many lumber companies are cooperating in these studies.

The forecasts will be issued in plain language, indicating the period for which issued, the nature of the weather, wind direction and force, and expected changes in the fire hazard.

CALIFORNIA ITEMS

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., June 2.—The Yuba River Lumber company has been formed by residents of Marysville. It is capitalized for $50,000 to operate a mill at Challenge, Yuba county. There is good timber available and the mill is to have a capacity of 25,000 feet a day.

In Butte county, 7000 acres of forest land were cleared of slashings by the State Forest Service during the months of March and April and several thousand acres are still being burned over. It is stated that, to date, there is more humidity than in 1924.

The Hotchkiss Redwood company, timber owners of Del Norte county, has offered $1,000,000 first mortgage six per cent gold bonds, dated May 1, 1925. The bonds are a closed mortgage on 19,350 acres of timber land in Del Norte county, having a stand of 1,162,178,632 feet of redwood.

"Cannonball Barker" McCullom narrowly escaped death at eleven-thirty last night when he fired at a sound in the room which he supposed to be a burglar. Lighting a lamp, Cannonball discovered that he had shot his trousers, which were hanging on a chair, full of holes. McCullom owes this miraculous escape from death to the fact that he removed his trousers before going to bed.

IN FROM TOPY

Joe Bramhall was in town from the Topsy Lumber company's camp near Dorris, Monday.

Honor Famous Twirler

Dazzy Vance, famous Brooklyn twirler, presented with $1000 in gold and a medal emblematic of the National League for the 1924-25 season, celebration at Ebbets Field the night of the bag of gold. Vance, president of the Baseball Writers' Association.

Milling Around

NOAH'S BIOGRAPHY

Whatever troubles Noah had, And they weren't few, that's clear, He didn't find on Ararat The sign, "No Parking Here."

Another thing old Noah missed That might have roused his ire— He never had to stop the ark And change a blooming tire.

Old Noah really played in luck With the ark, but didn't know it; It never lacked for gasoline And no one had to tow it.

Yea, Noah's was a wise old hunch— Building a sea-going back, For nary a female in his bunch E'en tried to hoof it back.

NEW OATH

Since "What Price Glory" has enjoyed its famous deleted popularity, native New Yorkers have acquired the habit of calling each other, "Sons of Baboons."

There was a man in our town, And he was not so wise, He bought a pair of glasses, And wore them on his eyes.

But when he found he could not see, The leg shows quite so well, He took the glasses off his eyes, And broke them all to hell.

THAT AND ME

"What do you think counts most in the world?" "Well, there's the adding machine."

"Goosey, goosey, gander, where did you wander?"

"Upstairs; downstairs . . . in my lady's chamber . . . There I met her hubby, who took me in his arms . . . First—he socked me in the kisser; then he kicked me down the stairs!"

ANOTHER SCANDAL

Softly she crept down the stairs, Breathlessly she stole through the open door. Now she was in the street. The cool spring air blew about her soft, white, nude body as tenderly as a caress. For weeks she had watched for this opportunity. She had longed to walk naked through the streets of Hollywood, naked and unashamed.

The sun beat down upon her young body. It was good to be alive! She was untrammelled. She was free. Occasionally folks stopped to stare at her: open-mouthed in astonishment at the picture she presented. Another Hollywood scandal!

And now from down the street came a frightful commotion. Some one was yelling and shouting frantically, but she paid no attention. Child of nature that she was, what cared she for the fact that her appearance was shocking?

The next moment she was seized by two strong arms and a breathless voice said, "You naughty child, to run away just when mother was getting some nice, warm milk to drink after your bath!"

The member of the younger generation placed a pudgy thumb in her mouth and cooed with glee.

A business girl is one who gets engaged to two men in case one of them should back out.

Experience proves that a tree can stop a car better than four wheel brakes.

As Fine Feathers—

—Come from fine birds so must fine clothes come from a fine store. Sugarman's store has gone through a process of house-cleaning in the past couple of weeks. The entire inside has been renovated and repainted, giving you a cleaner and more cheerful atmosphere to do your purchasing in.

Our Windows Come—

—In for their share of cleaning as well. The front of the store, floors, walls, ceiling, arcade, all has been repainted. A nice clean front to pick your tie, shirts or suit from, to say nothing about those dandy Florsheim shoes.

Meet Mr. Catron—

—An addition to the Sugarman force in the furnishing goods department. Mr. Catron is recently from Portland and says he is ready to give the same good service that you would expect from the largest and finest city stores. "Gene" Catron will meet you at the door and help you in every way possible.

New Ad and Display Man

—Thousands of people know Mr. Barth through his ads, for over 2 1/2 years with Moes. Mr. Barth will have complete charge of advertising, display and card work of Sugarman's store in the future. After one week Mr. Barth will journey to San Francisco, Oakland and other southern points in search of improved service methods as well as to buy fixtures and other equipment for the store.

Taken All in All—

—Sugarman's Store looks for one of the best years it has experienced in years gone by. New stocks are coming in every day, a greater and better variety throughout the store will greet you. It will be a greater pleasure for you to trade here and always have the satisfaction of knowing you are right up to snuff on your wearing apparel.

SONG OF THE ROAD

As sweet Lizette, the Hoosierette, Along the road was walking, A city gink tossed her a wink, And soon they got to talking.

He coaxed her in his piece of tin, Then whisked her to the city— Another country girl has gone, Oh, isn't it a pity!

RAZZBERRIES

The smaller the bottle The fewer the brew The smaller the hooch The fewer the stew The smaller the Scotch The fewer the sprees The smaller they all The fewer D. T'S.

An educated chorus girl is one who can tell the difference between a greenback and a yellowback while feeling them in the dark.
