THE MERRILL MEETING

Stunned by the result of the meeting of the residents of the Tule lake valley, held last Sunday, those seeking to bottle up Klamath county in the interest of the Southern Pacific are going to hold a meeting in Merrill next Thursday evening. The basis of argument will be that if they can get a main line, they will be satisfied with a branch.

The Herald realizes the great necessity for a railroad into the Merrill-Malin country. If it thought that a main line was not almost a certainty it would not be urging the people of that section of the county to get back of the Hill lines. The record of the Southern Pacific speaks for itself. For nearly fifteen years it has been paying taxes on a right of way from this city to the Merrill valley. President Sproule himself made a personal inspection of the Merrill and Malin country less than two years ago and he stated it would not pay to build a line into that section. President Sproule, according to a statement made by Mr. Robert E. Strahorn, stated that Klamath county would never amount to much as an agricultural section, because "it was a mile high."

Two years ago, and again about a year ago, The Herald presented a plan to an official of the Southern Pacific, that if that company would finish the work and operate the line, it would go out and get the line graded and the ties laid. The proposition was presented to Chief Engineer Boschke and was turned down, with the statement that the Modoc Northern would not be built, but that the line around Mt. Shasta to Dietz would be constructed instead.

Last winter a contract was entered into with the Utah Construction company for the building of the line from Grass Lake to Dietz, and it would be under construction now had it not been for the announcement of the coming of the Hill lines. The reason for this move was the unalterable opposition of the Southern Pacific officials to the Modoc Northern. The construction of the Modoc Northern means a division of traffic with the Union Pacific at Odgen.

The purpose back of the Merrill meeting is to divide the county so that the Southern Pacific can go to the Interstate Commerce Commission with a reasonable argument that the people of Klamath county are satisfied with the service it is now getting. It is not a question of whether you want a branch line or not, but it is a question of whether you want the Hill lines to come to Klamath county. Any resolution that may be adopted should clearly emphasize that point. It should also demand the construction of the Modoc Northern as a main line connection east, as was provided for at the time of the settlement of the Central Pacific-Southern Pacific controversy, or that the Hill lines be permitted to carry out that provision of the stipulation by building a line through Klamath county and Northern California to a connection with the Western Pacific.

Klamath county is not espousing the cause of the Hill lines just because they are the Hill lines. It is backing them for it sees through them the one big opportunity for almost unlimited development and it is this fact that the people of Merrill should keep always before them whenever representatives of either side come forward and ask to use them as a cat's paw to pull chestnuts.

The Evening Herald again reiterates its stand for an honest and intelligent enforcement of the prohibition laws, but it protests against the apparent waste of public money under the method which is being pursued by the acting district attorney. Our observation is that the real enforcement is being done by the city police and sheriff's deputies. The pseudo-officers acting under orders from the acting district attorney are more of a hindrance than anything else.

"Madam T" smacks of mystery and intrigue. We wonder if she is a ravishing beauty with soft, seductive voice, whose name, if known, would bring a gasp of astonishment to citizens of the county.

Or, is she a hard-boiled type of woman detective, with rubber heels and a variety of disguises? Frankly, we are curious. So, too, is the public. "Madam T" is shrouded in deep, impregnable mystery; except, of course, on the first of each month when the affidavit of the acting district attorney says she is entitled to $100 per month for salary.

What does she do? Where does she operate? What liquor conquests are hers? Does she deliver the goods? Were it not for the fact that the very thought of "Madame T" suggests something sinister, we would be inclined to laugh.

Roland Hicks Wins First Rodeo Prize

First prize in the bucking contest at the Chiloquin rodeo Sunday was taken by Roland Hicks. Alvin Willis took second place. Several snappy horse races, including saddle horse, pony and blooded stock entries were enjoyed by a large crowd.

One of the features of the event was the unloading of Boss Richardson, famous for his riding throughout the county, by the horse Slippery Dan.

Another rodeo will be given next Sunday at which bucking horses to the number of 30 will do their stuff.

George Washington loved to follow the hounds in fox hunts.
