"DON'T TAKE SIDES"

"Don't take sides" is the cry you will hear emanating from the ranks of the camp-followers of the Southern Pacific railroad. "Just sit tight and don't antagonize any railroad!" It sounds nice, but it is a seductive argument. It is one that we do not agree with. There are two sides to this railroad question and the people of the county must of necessity occupy one or the other. They can't sit on the fence. This is no time for neutrality. It is no time for pussy-footing. It is time for saying whether you want Klamath Falls to be what you have been prating about for years, what the publicity literature for years blazoned to the world—"The Spokane of Oregon,"—or have it remain a whistling post on the main line of one railroad.

You hear the cry of "An Empire Awakening." Awakening to what? Here is its opportunity to secure the entrance of one of the greatest rail road systems in the world. Yet you see men who have been posing as the leaders of the commercial advancement of this community placing their fingers to their lips and whispering "Sh-h-h, don't take sides. You will hurt the feelings of what you already have and you may not get what you are going after!" That is not the talk of "An Empire Awakening." It is not the act of a leader, it is the motion of the time-server, the sycophant, of the man who boasts of having been kicked by the boot of a lord.

No man possessed of ordinary intelligence can fail to see the immense advantage to be gained by having another railroad come into Klamath county. It means development, new people, wider markets, greater demands for farm land and consequently higher prices. Every meeting that may be held should unequivocally state that the people here want the Hill lines; that there is an urgent necessity for them, that they will create enough new tonnage to justify their construction; that the development of the county is dependent upon their coming. They should further demand the construction of the Modoc Northern, or some other line that will give us a direct eastern outlet without going through Lakeview.

This is no time for sh-h-ing around. It is time for open, emphatic action. And we believe the people of Klamath county are going to take it.

At the LIBERTY

With all the melodrama of such a picture as "Those Who Dance," and all the mystery and charm of "Cornered," "Midnight Molly" bids fair to be one of the outstanding movie successes of the year. The third Evelyn Brent production shows the star to great advantage; and the dual role in which she is cast gives her exceptional opportunity to display the skill in characterization which has made her the best actress on the screen in crook-drama roles. "Midnight Molly," which is from the pen of Fred Kennedy Myton, is the story of a girl who by an unusual twist of fate is called upon to take the part of the wife of a prominent attorney, running for governor. Her resemblance to the real wife makes this substitution possible; and the complications that arise are numerous and exciting. Director Lloyd Ingraham has brought out all the fine points of a truly thrilling melodrama. The picture comes to the Liberty theatre tonight.

At the PINE TREE

Elmer Smith, "The Last Man on Earth," who makes his appearance at the Pine Tree tonight in a picture by that title, has a great deal in common with the well-known Rip

Van Winkle. True, Rip slept for 20 years, while Elmer only lost touch with the world for 10, but the changes which took place during Elmer's comparative short absence more than offset the difference in time.

Rip returned to the village of Sleepy Hollow, which had purchased its accustomed way without any startling changes. The youths he had known had grown old. But Rip had grown old, too, and he soon adjusted himself to the new order.

But consider Elmer Smith's bewilderment when he returned to find that there was not another man alive on earth! Imagine his astonishment at discovering a world ruled by women. A world without battleships or bigamy. A world without babies, barbers or bootleggers. With the abolishment of men, the Volstead law automatically became unnecessary.

A strange world! But the film goes on to show how Elmer's re-entrance into it changed things considerably. He had left it to become a hermit when Hattie Brown had told him she wouldn't marry him if he were the last man on earth. And he eventually did become the last man on earth when a strange disease called masculitis ravaged the country and swept away the entire male population.

Needless to say "The Last Man on Earth" is a fantastic and highly imaginative film classic and it is well worth seeing.

Work Wearing you out?

Klamath Falls Folks Find a Bad Back a Heavy Handicap.

Is your work wearing you out? Are you tortured with throbbing backache—feel tired, weak and discouraged? Then look to your kidneys! Many occupations tend to weaken the kidneys. Constant backache, headaches, dizziness and rheumatic pains are the results. You suffer annoying bladder irregularities; feel nervous, irritable and worn out. Don't wait! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Workers everywhere recommend Doan's. Here's a Klamath Falls case:

Mrs. Lee Cornish, 1429 Oregon Ave., says: "My kidneys were out of order and I suffered with dull, nagging backaches. My work tired me awfully and I had frequent dizzy headaches. My kidneys didn't get right either, so I knew they were the cause of the trouble. Two boxes of Doan's Pills, however, relieved me of the aches and pains and put my kidneys in good order."
