Think West Coast Tools Soon Found

Casing Now Being Run Past Cave-in Formation

Tools at the West Coast Oil and Gas company well, for which a fishing job has been in progress since March 26, will in all probability be recovered within the next week or ten days, was declared today. Casing is now being lowered past a caving formation which has hindered the fishing job and once this is accomplished it is believed the tools will quickly be recovered. Drilling has been resumed at the Yonna Valley well, under the supervision of J. D. Hartley. Casing is being pulled at the Siemens well in the belief that one joint has collapsed.

New District To Get Water Soon

Water will be turned into the laterals of the Shasta View Irrigation district about July 1, according to present indications. Farmers residing near Malin, in the vicinity of the new ditch, have their ground prepared for the water and a limited number will be able to take advantage of it this year. The Shasta View school yard, formerly a drifting sand hill, is now being leveled and seeded and with irrigation it will be possible to beautify the yard, school board officials said this morning.

Survey Across Tule Lake Begun

Relocation of the old Modoc Northern survey across Tule lake to connect with the Klamath Falls-Malin line began today by a party of Southern Pacific engineers. Officials of the O. C. & E. railroad here said the new survey was made necessary by the drying up of the lake. The old route skirted the lake shore. The new route takes a direct course across the dry lake bed. About 100,000 acres of rich land in the lake bed, hitherto isolated by lack of rail facilities, surround the new line of survey. S. P. officials refused to make any comment when asked if the sudden activity on this long-delayed road was not brought about simply because of the threat that the Northern lines were to invade this territory.

Building Soaked In Water, Object Of Firebug Try

An arsonist is suspected of having started the blaze which last night partially burned the old Cantrell ice house, situated at the lower end of Klamath lake. The ice house stands in nearly a foot of water. Firemen responding to a call at 10 o'clock found in the center of the blaze a pile of brush and waste material, evidently placed there by the person who desired to burn the building. Finding water in and around the building, the firemen wasted no time in running a line of hose, choosing instead to put the flames out with buckets. Little damages resulted to the building, according to Fire Chief Keith Ambrose.

CONWAY'S CAR STOLEN Chevrolet Taken from Sixth and High Last Evening

J. D. Conway of the First National bank reported to the police this morning that his Chevrolet touring car, which he left parked in front of his home on Sixth and High last evening about eleven o'clock, was stolen. The license number of the car, which is practically new was 171955. Late this afternoon no report of the finding of the car had been made.

"STOP FOREST FIRES" Local Chamber Gets Word From Secretary of State

The Oregon State Chamber of Commerce which is sponsoring the "Stop Forest Fires" week, is expecting the Governor to issue a proclamation in a few days, which will set aside June 29th to July 4th as Oregon week. It is the intention of the chamber of get the week over before so many people get into the woods.

Training Camp At Fort Worden Open To Local Youths

Ten young men from Klamath county can attend the annual training camp for the coast artillery reserve forces at Camp Worden, Wash., according to a telegram received last night by Francis R. Olds from Colonel C. A. Kessler at Camp Worden. Youths between the ages of 17 and 25 are eligible. The camp starts June 20 and continues for one month. Regular army pay will be allowed those attending the camp. Young men who desire to take up the coast artillery branch of the service are asked to get in touch with Mr. Olds or Dr. G. S. Newsom, county health officer.

CHINESE FIGHT IN CITY LIMITS

CANTON, June 10.—(A.P.)—Efforts of the Canton chamber of commerce to induce rival Chinese leaders, now fighting for possession of Canton, to move the seat of warfare outside the business district failed today. The commander of the Yunnanese troops is unwilling to leave his present position, because he is drawing a large income from gambling, opium sales and various other sources. The Yunnanese troops are apparently preparing for a long siege, having brought field guns to the street approaches leading directly to the river front. The Yunnanese are searching to find further supplies of ammunition. With the approach of the Kwangtung troops, the Yunnanese troops, who hold Canton, were entrenching themselves. Both the attacking and defending troops claim the advantage in the fighting thus far.

Four Bolshevik Russians, attempting to gain admittance into the foreign concession today were refused entrance by the British authorities. The city police force has been disarmed. Chinese newspapers have suspended publication. All the foreigners have been evacuated from the danger zone. Heavy fighting has been in progress between Cantonese and Yunnanese forces at Canton. Dispatches yesterday said four Americans, including two women, who attempted to escape from the fighting zone in a boat flying the American flag were fired upon by Yunnanese gunners. A woman, Mrs. Frank Crampton, was wounded in the arm.

MATTE FINED

Steve Matte, discovered early Sunday in the vicinity of a number of bottles of moonshine on Pine street, was this morning fined $200 and costs by Justice Hussaker in a trial held at the latter's home. The arrest was made by officers Snyder and Burke.

RENOVATING STORE

Veteran Of Modoc Indian War Visits In Klamath Falls

Civil war veteran, Modoc Indian war veteran, and one of the old-time "Sourdoughs" of Alaska is J. C. Gibbs, of Portland and Alaska, who is a visitor in Klamath Falls today, looking after property interests here.

"When I first came here back in 1873, there were just six houses on this side of Link river," said the 76-year-old veteran. "I remember the Reames, Martin, Hedrick, Judge Smith and Wes Manning families, who were here at that time."

This is Mr. Gibbs' first visit here in nearly a quarter of a century and he was amazed at the growth of the city.

"I have been reading a lot lately about how Klamath Falls is starting to grow, but I never had any idea it was as big as it is," he ventured.

Mr. Gibbs was 13 years old when he enlisted in the Union army in the Civil war and fought along with his father. Later he came west and took part in the Modoc Indian war. He went to Alaska in 1897 and now has extensive interests there. He spends most of his time in Alaska but returns to the states for a month or two each year to renew old friendships on the coast.
