

Some of Best Riders in U. S. Will Compete at Annual Rodeo to Be Staged Here Next Month

Some of the best riders in the west will compete here for the big purses offered by the Bly Rodeo association during the annual rodeo at the county fair grounds on July 2, 3 and 4, according to word received by officers of the association.

Included in some of the riders who plan to compete for prize money are:

Ty Stokes, colored rider from California, who besides being an expert rider is also adept at trick roping, bull dogging and clown riding.

Bob Hall of Los Angeles, bucking horse rider and bull dogger; known as Bronco Bob and rides at most of the western shows.

Buddy Sterling, bucking horse rider, who competes at Pendleton, Cheyenne, Sallinas and other round-ups.

"Montana Red" Tate, bucking horse rider, bareback rider, who is always on hand at the important shows.

Ray Bell, who has landed in the money at Pendleton, Cheyenne and New York.

Frank Smith, who won six prizes in succession, and who has ridden at Pendleton, Cheyenne, Calgary and other shows.

Perdy Ivory, who took first money at Pendleton in 1924, and who also rode at Cheyenne, Calgary, New York, London and all other big meets.

Jesse and Jack Coats, who have appeared at most of the big shows.

Others who will appear here are Jack Crim of Chiloquin; Jesse Pete, local rider; Ed McGilvory, local rider; Roland Jackson, local rider who always gets in the money; Bill Brown, local rider; Charley Hood, local rider; Dick Stevenson of Malin and many others from various parts of central Oregon and northern California.

The bucking horses owned by the Bly association are known by expert horsemen to be the best in the business. Some of the best riders who have appeared at Pendleton and elsewhere have even refused to mount some of the Bly horses.

Local riders are now getting themselves in trim for the three-day rodeo, and they expect to take some of the big prize money from a few of the riders with national and international reputations.

Members of the Klamath county health unit were in charge of the work. Mothers present were:

At the PINE TREE

The feature at the Pine Tree theater tonight will be the screen version of Harriet T. Comstock's book, "The Tenth Woman."

James Flood, who directed this picture, assembled as an all star cast including John Roche, Raymond McKibee, Charles "Buddy" Post, Gilbert Holmes, Alec Francis and Edith Yorke. June Marlowe and Beverly Bayne share the stellar honors. June Marlowe is Warner's newest screen star. Her first stellar role after she signed the Warner contract for an indefinite period was in "Find Your Man."

June Marlowe is a married flapper whose husband is not willing to keep up with her rapid pace. Always insistent on having her own way, always going the limit in every venture, she finally decides she can get along without her husband, but no sooner does she leave the house than she finds out how much she needs him. Beverly Bayne is a quiet, sympathetic person whose greatest pleasure is in pleasing the man she loves. There is a mix-up when Beverly believes the man she loves is in love with the other girl, but a splendid climax solves two problems and the picture is concluded to the satisfaction of every spectator.

Believing that the public is ready and eager for the realistic presentation of an American literary classic, Erich von Stroheim produced "Greed," his adaptation of Frank Norris' "McTeague," without an important deviation from this powerful story of American life. Theatergoers who know Norris' novel of the San Francisco dentist and his wife, will see "McTeague" brought literally to life. Only two changes have been made—the substitution of "Greed" as the screen title and partial modernizing of the background.

The entire picture was produced scene by scene in its actual settings in San Francisco, Oakland, Iowa Hill and Death Valley.

At the LIBERTY

If you have sailed the Seven Seas you will recall those tropical ports where men wait for ships bearing news that never comes. To those men who have missed too many boats, the word "home" is a torment that would turn to rapture if they could again set foot in their homeland. There is nothing more mournful than the wailing whistle of a departing steamer to a man who cannot return to his native shores; nothing more heart cheering than the triumphant blast of the siren when he is on board a vessel homeward bound. "Ports of Call," the William Fox picture to be shown at the Liberty theater tonight, deals with the adventures of a castaway who wins his way back to his hearthstone and into the heart of the woman he loves. Edmund Lowe is the star, the dramatic screen offering having been directed by Denison Clift. If you have never been across the blue Pacific, you will like this.

OSTEOPATHS ELECT

LONGVIEW, Wash., June 11.—Dr. S. L. Delapp of Roseburg was elected president of the Oregon Osteopathic association at a joint meeting of Oregon and Washington osteopaths here yesterday. Dr. Allen P. Howells, Albany, was elected vice president and Dr. Charles H. Beaumont, Portland attorney.

Film Star Sends Letter To Poole

H. W. Poole of the Pine Tree theater received the following letter in this morning's mail from the little star of the picture which he is showing today at the Pine Tree, which will be of interest to the many Klamath Falls residents who watched the filming of Miss Marlowe's first starring picture here last year:

"Hollywood, Cal., June 6, 1925"

"Dear Mr. Poole: I notice that you are playing my new picture, 'The Tenth Woman' at your Pine Tree theater next Thursday, and I hope you will like it.

"Your city has a warm place in my memory for I enjoyed every minute of my stay there last summer when we made 'Find Your Man.' I am sure you will be glad to know that the picture was a success and we have received a great many letters at the studio complimenting us on the wonderful scenery in that picture and asking about the location, so in one way we have expressed our appreciation of your kindness to us by advertising Klamath county.

"Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair and the other members of the company join me in sending best wishes to you and to all our Klamath friends.

"JUNE MARLOWE."

Thirteen Take Teachers Quiz

Klamath county will be short of teachers next year if superstition has any basis in fact, county school officials averred today. An even 13 teachers had registered up to noon for the state teachers examination in one or more subjects.

Many of the teachers are taking tests in order to get permanent certificates in one or more subjects. A grade of 90 or more in any subject exempts them from further tests in that subject as long as they remain steadily in teaching service.

Those registered are: Madama Mildred P. Schultz, Fred Peterson,

Earl McVay, Ada Clarno and G. S. Cleveland, Sisters M. Lilliosa and M. Gorgonia, Misses Winnie Grizzle, E. W. Jacobson, Agnes Lagesson, Helen M. Brophy, Augusta Packett and Henrietta Short.

29 STATES-Supplied by 32 Folger distributing Stations-Now enjoy these pioneer products of the Pacific

Seventy-five years ago the pioneer coffee and spice mill of the Pacific Coast was established in San Francisco by James A. Folger. It was a modest plant, for in those days most housewives bought green coffee and roasted it themselves. But James A. Folger was a far sighted pioneer. He quickly sensed that high quality coffee roasted evenly and uniformly in commercial quantities would have an instant appeal to the Western housewife. He was right.

The business expanded rapidly. It grew with the country. The plant at San Francisco was constantly increased to meet the demand for Folger's products from the Coast States. Then, in 1900, Folger's Coffee was introduced in the Middle-West and South-West—the first Pacific Coast Coffee to be sold East of the Rockies.

So today in our Diamond Jubilee year it requires three complete plants and thirty-two distributing stations to supply Folger's products to the retail trade in 29 states.

On the first package of Folger's roasted coffee was printed this slogan: "Our Success is Dependent upon Quality." On such a foundation has the Folger business grown to its Diamond Jubilee year. Quality has carried through these seventy-five years and must always be in the product before it is given a Folger label.

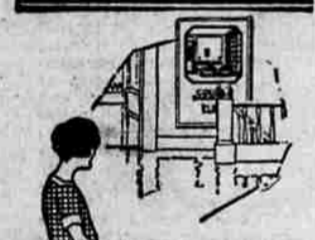

That is our assurance to the hundreds of thousands of loyal Folger customers.
