FAITH AND GOOD WORKS

The American habit of coining slogans might be very commendable, but it is the opinion of Richard F. Grant, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States, that slogans without good deeds to back them up are nothing more than pretty pearls of wisdom.

"I am very much interested," he said to a recent convention of retail merchants, "in the keynote, 'better selling,' but any keynote or any slogan that you may adopt remains a slogan or a keynote unless you do something about it. We have a great habit in this country of passing resolutions and having slogans and deciding that some new pearl of wisdom has descended upon us and that everything will be all right. Better selling—you might just as well say behave yourself, and then go away and forget about it, unless you do something about it.

"Better selling, as I conceive it, does not mean selling more, not trying to crowd a market beyond the ability of a market to absorb not indulging in unfair practices in connection with those who are in business with you, but does comprehend a realization of the responsibility which a man in business owes to his fellowman and his community."

entatives of the Susanville district of northern California.

Prominent among these was E. G. Scanlon of the Red River Lumber company of Westwood.

Extension Urged

Mr. Scanlon assured the rail men that any move on their part to build from Klamath Falls to Susanville would have the full support of his and other companies.

He brought out the fact that such a connection would present little in the way of engineering difficulties and that a rail line such as outlined would tap not less than twenty billion feet of lumber, much of it owned by the company which he represented.

Interest Shown

President Donnelly and others of his party exhibited a lively interest in Mr. Scanlon's presentation, quickly taking up with him the matter of a possible route, the amount of timber tonnage that might be expected and the later agricultural possibilities of the section.

Following the meeting President Donnelly addressed the gathering for approximately ten minutes, text of his discourse being the fact that while the Northern lines were very much interested in the Susanville district, it was impossible at this time to promise or say anything definite, every effort at this time being concentrated on securing permission of the interstate commerce commission to extend the Oregon Trunk from Bend to Klamath Falls.

Leave Bend

BEND, Ore., June 22.—Completing an inspection trip through the central Oregon country through which they propose to extend their railroad lines, a large party of Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroad officials arrived in Bend last night from Klamath Falls and left an hour later by special train for Spokane.

While in Bend they met with a number of city officials and officials of the Bend commercial club.

MARTIAL LAW PENDING

SHANGHAI, June 22, (AP)—It was reported today that General Chang Shieh-Lang may declare martial law in the Chinese districts adjoining the foreign settlement.

STORM DOES BIG DAMAGE

LEWISTON, Idaho, June 22.—An electrical storm, accompanied by hail and cloudbursts, took a toll of two lives and wrecked damage to crops and farm buildings totaling several hundred thousand dollars in Asotin county Washington late yesterday advice received here indicated. The storm passed near this city but caused its heaviest damage to surrounding agricultural territory.

Two children, Dwane and Leota Morrow, were drowned while picnicking on the bank of the Asotin Creek at Clarkston, Washington, when a sudden flood of water rushed down the stream. Fifteen automobiles were left stranded by their owners in rivers when floods suddenly trapped them. All the motorists, however, escaped.

The Pacific Power and Light company reported the breaking of several stretches of its water supply facilities between Asotin, Washington and Clarkston. Telephone communication facilities were badly crippled by the storm.

FROM CHICO

Paul Comick of Chico, California, is attending to business matters here today, planning to return home late this afternoon.

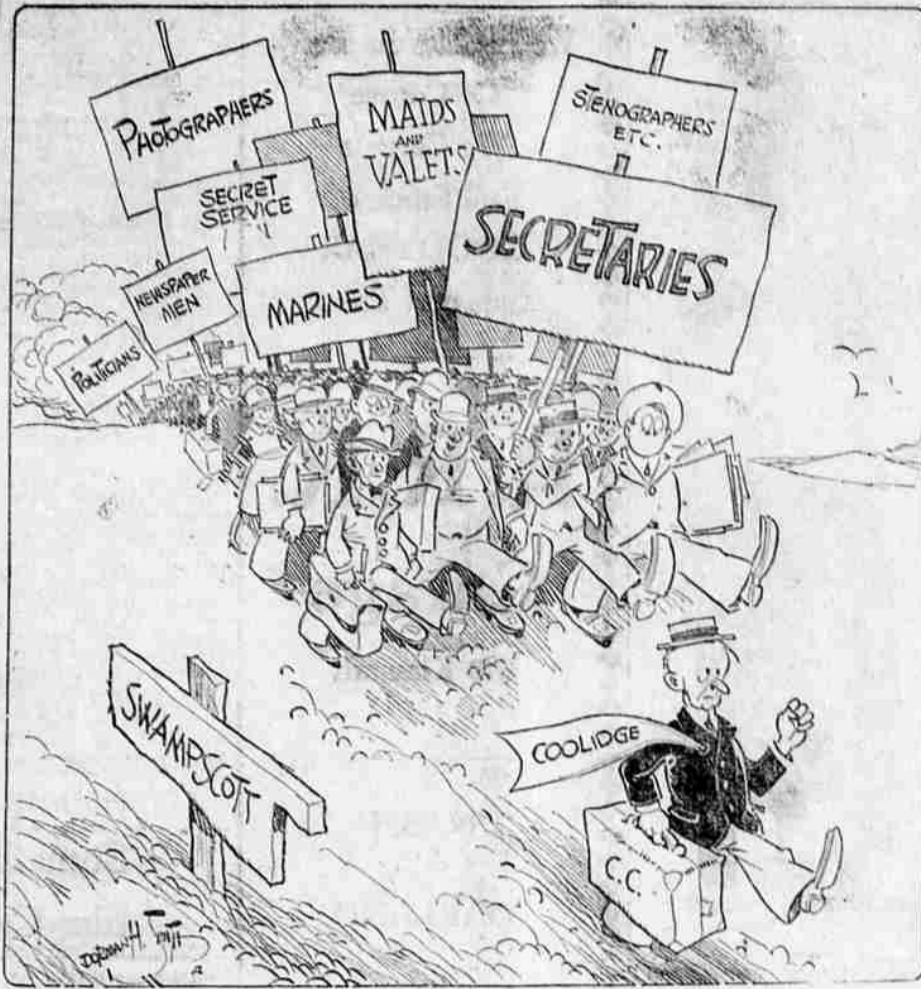

CALLED EAST BY ILLNESS

Local Matron Called to Chicago by Serious Illness of Mother. Mrs. H. E. Hauger left Saturday for Chicago where she was called by the serious illness of her mother. Mrs. Hauger motored to Ashland, where she took the train eastbound.

ECONOMY CAUSES GRIEF FOR AUTOIST

Because, it was charged, he took a 1922 Oregon truck license, battered out '2' and changed it to '5', then used it on a pleasure car, Cecil Conley was today fined $22.50 and ordered to buy a year's license. Officer R. E. Knowles, who made the arrest, said a perfect job was done and the incident would have escaped him had the car carried two plates. Noticing that but one was carried he stopped the car and while questioning Conley noticed the alteration. This is the first time a motorist has been caught here charged with this offense. The 1922 licenses and the ones in use this year are almost identical in color.

democracy." In a funeral sermon delivered by Dr. Albert Eustace Haydon, University of Chicago professor and pastor of the Unitarian church of Madison.

Fought for People

"His was the voice of humanism in politics," Dr. Haydon said. "Confronted with the tragedies of a soulless, material civilization, Robert M. LaFollette dedicated himself to the principle that government is the guardian and servant of the life of all the people, to the ideal that statecraft should be an intelligent instrument for social amelioration. He pointed the way to a cooperating democracy of intelligence and heart."

"He worked for the solution of the removal of injustices and his weapon was injurious, burning with a white light in analysis. Dedicated to this ideal he found himself consistently on the side of the people or of the workers, fighting the battle of those in whose faces the doors of opportunity were being closed in this once free land."

Always Leaders

"He was forced to challenge special privilege in every form and sphere. He became the champion of the weak against the arrogance of wealth and power. Fearless, incorruptible, his head above the muck and miasma of selfishness and greed, his feet firmly planted in the thickness of fact, he gave his life to making the government the servant of human values in a new and difficult age."

Herald Newsies Have Barbecue All Their Own

Langell Valley may have had a barbecue and it may have been a success, but it will have to take a back seat, in the opinion of eighteen Herald newsboys, to the barbecue of hot dogs they had yesterday afternoon. As early as 5:30—almost four hours before a start was made, some of the boys began arriving at the Herald office, for they knew that they were going to have the time of their young lives, and if the appearance of their waistbands and the expression of satisfaction were any indication, the picnic was all they anticipated. The boys are particularly indebted to the Chevrolet garage for the truck that was furnished for the occasion and to Walter P. Hannon for the splendid assistance he rendered in making the affair such a success.

The picnic was in charge of Miss Grace C. Conboy, circulation manager of the Herald.

The boys attending were: Embert Fossum, Kenneth Stokes, Edwin DeWitt, Travis Hatfield, Claude Puckett, George Eckman, James Mitchell, Axel Alto, J. C. Hamaker, Clarence Howie, Osgold Seim, Francis Alberts, John Lloyd, Dexter Knight, John Burke, Albert Beseler and Eugene Burnside. Four of the boys could not attend and it looks as if another picnic will have to be arranged to take them along.

Two Small Hats For Summer

TWO decidedly summer chapeaux are these that have resisted the impulse to widen the brim and become picturesque. The smaller model is of course straw in orchid color, trimmed with ribbon of the same shade. The larger model is of natural colored straw trimmed with white ribbon cartwheels. For summer sports they are highly desirable.

Hands That Rock Cradle Must Cook With Skill, If Marital Happiness Is To Be Maintained

DR. J. ALLEN PATTON

The health of the family is unquestionably the mother's responsibility and upon it depends in large measure the happiness and success of her husband and children. In the opinion of a physician whose chief interest is the improvement of life in the American home, "Happiness is largely dependent upon creature comforts," says Dr. J. Allen Patton, medical director of the Prudential Insurance Company. "There can be little happiness without health—health of the positive, vital sort. It gives to the possessor the capacity for the full enjoyment of all good things. It braces him against the inevitable hardships that men in every walk of life are bound to encounter. It the few basic requisites for health none takes precedence over proper food."

"Merely to provide food does not discharge a woman's obligations to her family. She must interpret their needs and supply them by well balanced meals representing the various food elements in proper proportions. The woman who acquires a working knowledge of relative food values and knows the basic elements different foods contain and their purpose in body building, soon develops a certain

"Sixth sense" regarding the well-balanced meal. It corresponds to an appreciation of harmony in music or symmetry in art. The perfectly balanced meal, consisting of a few dishes cooked to perfection, is the choice of the epicure."

While there has been a marked decrease in mortality according to the experience of insurance companies there is still a high percentage of the chronic degenerative diseases in early middle age. Dr. Patton believes such illness could be materially reduced were more consistent attention paid to diet. "The inability of the wife to make ends meet is the farthest note that disrupts the harmony of many a family," continued Dr. Patton. "There is no place where money can more easily dribble away than in the home commissary. The money that, in the form of waste food or careless preparation, are literally thrown into the garbage pail, may amount to many dollars in the course of the year. "Wrangling over money is a sordid thing that will chill the ardor of the most devoted couple. Were this cause of domestic contention removed there would be far greater happiness in the average family and the romance of marriage would last longer."

Save Lives With Ladder As Frame Building Burns

PORTLAND, Oregon, June 22.—Trapped upstairs in a burning frame building, six persons escaped by a ladder hurriedly thrown up by some men who had seen the blaze, when a restaurant operated by Joseph La Salle and J. D. Gilmore at 575 Sherlock avenue, burned early today.

The La Salle and Gilmore families were asleep above stairs when La Salle went into the restaurant to start a fire. Some grease caught fire and the blaze instantly leaped up the stairway.

Gilmore, Mrs. Gilmore, five year old Evelyn Gilmore, Mrs. La Salle and seven year old Lewis La Salle, all made their way down the ladder.
