

Morley May Attend Canada Convention

Local State Agent Gets Special Invitation to Attend Police Meet

Fred Morley, veteran police officer, and now special state agent, has received an invitation to attend the annual convention of the International Association of Identification to be held at Windsor, Ontario, from August 26 to 29, and is now trying to arrange his affairs in order to make the trip.

The following letter was received by Mr. Morley from J. R. Wilkinson, superintendent of identification for the city of Windsor:

"This is a special invitation extended to you from the border cities comprising Windsor, Ford City, Walkerville, Riverside and Sandwich asking you to come to the I. A. I. held here August 26 to 29.

"No expense is being spared to make the program the best in the history of the organization. The educational sessions will be of great benefit to police identification work. The very best talent the profession has produced and made themselves distinguished will be there to deliver your message. You will not need a passport. Our boundary line is only an imaginary one to you."

Mr. Morley stands high in the councils of this international organization and is frequently called upon to assist members in investigation work in this section of the country.

Bar Association Is Now Organized

Final organization was perfected last night of the Klamath County Bar association in the county court room and C. M. O'Neil was elected president, William Marx, C. C. Brower, Edward B. Ashurst, vice presidents, W. A. West secretary-treasurer and J. C. Rutnic, assistant.

Constitution and by-laws were adopted and the regular meeting night is the last Tuesday in each month. The next meeting is July 28th.

This county has not had a bar association since 1915 and the members of the legal profession have now formed an active organization. There were 15 members present last night.

Local Post Office Is Now 1st Class

Without ostentation or ceremony of any kind, the Klamath Falls post office yesterday became a first-class office. The new rating was ordered by the postmaster, general because of the big increase in business. Postmaster John McCall has made application to the department for another clerk because of the congestion in the office. The incoming business, he said, is far greater than the outgoing business.

The auto has become the great American hobby horse.

CRATER LAKE

The Walker brothers, Alton and Hayes Jr., of Kansas City, Mo., passed through Klamath Falls Monday on their way to Crater Lake. The young men paused for awhile on their ten-thousand mile tour in a Ford to see the Klamath basin and Crater Lake.

They left Kansas City on June 2, visited parks and climbed mountains in Colorado, stopped at the Grand Canyon, at Santa Fe, spent some time exploring the relics of the Indian country around Toas, Arizona, thence on to California and Mexico. After visiting Crater Lake they will continue north as far as Vancouver, then east and south to their destination, visiting national parks as they go. The boys are proud of a record run they made of 440 miles between Grand Canyon and San Bernardino over desert roads in 26 hours. They plan to reach home August 5.

Herbert E. Newell, of the U. S. Reclamation Service, Klamath district, with a party of four motored to Crater Lake Monday.

Dr. Louis B. Bishop, wife and son Herbert, of New Haven, Conn., are now in the Klamath Basin for a stay of an indefinite number of days. Monday they drove from Klamath Falls to Crater Lake to study bird life in the park and Cascade region as well as to see the lake. Dr. Bishop, who is a retired physician, has been making a private collection of ornithological specimens over a period of more than 40 years.

The Bishops, who are making their temporary home in Pasadena, Calif., have planned to spend the entire summer traveling on the Pacific coast and Cascade regions. When they leave the Klamath region Dr. Bishop will continue his studies and collections north thru Oregon, Washington and into Canada, then passing down out farther east in these same states, concluding his research work for the season in northern California in the fall. Dr. Bishop is a Fellow of the American Ornithologist Union and is at present vice president of the Cooper Ornithologist Club of California.

Klamath Falls took advantage of the first Sunday of the Crater Lake park season, since twenty-nine of the sixty-six cars that registered at the south entrance were from that city. Likewise, more than one-third of all the persons visiting the lake from this entrance were from Klamath Falls.

It is believed that a still much larger group would have motored to the lake Sunday had it been generally known that the park was officially opened, and that cars would be able to go all the way to the rim. Nearly half of those arriving at the south entrance were merely out for a drive, but quickly decided to make the lake their goal when they were informed by the ranger that the road was open all the way to the lake.

The lodge at the crater is now open for service. By July 1 everything in the park should be running smoothly and in full swing, since a large crew of rangers and workmen are working overtime to handle the pressing demands caused by the rapidly melting snow, and to be ready to serve in the best manner possible the large number of visitors that will come to the park this season.

The following registering cars from Klamath Falls Sunday carried 87 persons to the lake:

R. E. Stinson, Haze Liscom, E. S. Yeatch, R. H. Schmidt, R. H. Cook, James Blair, L. L. Stein, George Griffin, Jack Lalley, J. A. Schubert, Roy Lane, Walter P. Hanson, Harold Nichols, Percy Evans, J. T. Melton, H. Hansen, Donald Smith, J. Hirvi, William Henderson, John Demby, R. Wingard, W. B. Bateman, R. E. Patterson, F. M. Anderson, George G. Tugnot, Morris Bruner, A. D. Lambert, C. F. Morgan, and Levant Pease.

Copco Dedication To Be Held Sunday

Dedication ceremonies at the new Copco plant No. 2 of the California Oregon Power company will be held Sunday, when officials of the corporation will be hosts at an all-day program at Copco.

The flag raising exercises will start promptly at 11:30 in the morning, with the formal dedication of the plant at noon. This will be followed by lunch at one o'clock, with an inspection of the plant by visitors from 2:30 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The company has extended invitations to friends and patrons throughout its territory to attend the dedication exercises, and there will be a delegation from this city present.

KENO

The Nims family spent last week at Diamond Lake fishing and camping.

The Keno delegates to Corvallis arrived home safely Saturday evening and although they fully enjoyed the past two weeks, all were glad to get home.

Ed Palms made a business trip to Dorris and the Oklatzma country Saturday.

Bud Blehn returned to his home in Klamath Falls late last week after an extended visit with his cousin Merle Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. George Turner of the Worden district were in Keno on pleasure and business Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McCormick visited in Keno one day last week before going on to Puckett logging camp where Mr. McCormick is employed.

Miss Opal Baker of Spencer Creek visited at the home of her aunt, Mrs. L. W. Anderson, Monday.

Mrs. C. J. Hartell and daughters were in this vicinity Sunday. One daughter, Reatha, will remain at the Nelson ranch during the summer to assist with the work.

Everett Puckett decided not to work the first of this week so spent his leisure hours at his home in Keno.

R. J. Kirkwood Is Visitor In City

R. J. Kirkwood, state legislator from Multnomah county, and one of the best known sportsmen of the state, is in the city en route home to Portland following a motor trip through Southern California. Mrs. Kirkwood is with him.

They left this afternoon for Crater Lake, but will leave via Medford tomorrow morning for home. Mr. Kirkwood is thinking seriously of locating permanently in this section of the state.

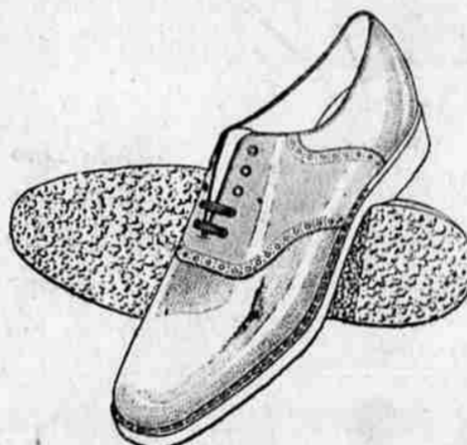

PARIS, July 2. (AP)—The French senate unanimously voted confidence today in the Painleve government's Moroccan policy.
