

Ritchie and Murphy Fight Draw Battle

Earl Ritchie fought himself back into the good graces of Klamath fandom at Scandinavian hall Saturday night when he stood up and traded blow for blow with Frankie Murphy of New Orleans in 10 torrid rounds. The draw decision was well received, even by those who have been rapping the local Goliath and his pugilistic aspirations.

It was a far different Ritchie who squared away with the widely heralded Murphy. True, Murphy out-boxed the local man but when it came to fighting, Ritchie uncocked a flock of blows which had the lighter battler close to Queer street on a number of occasions. Only once, in the second round, was Ritchie damaged to any extent, but he weathered the storm and came out in the third and smothered Murphy with a barrage of lefts and rights.

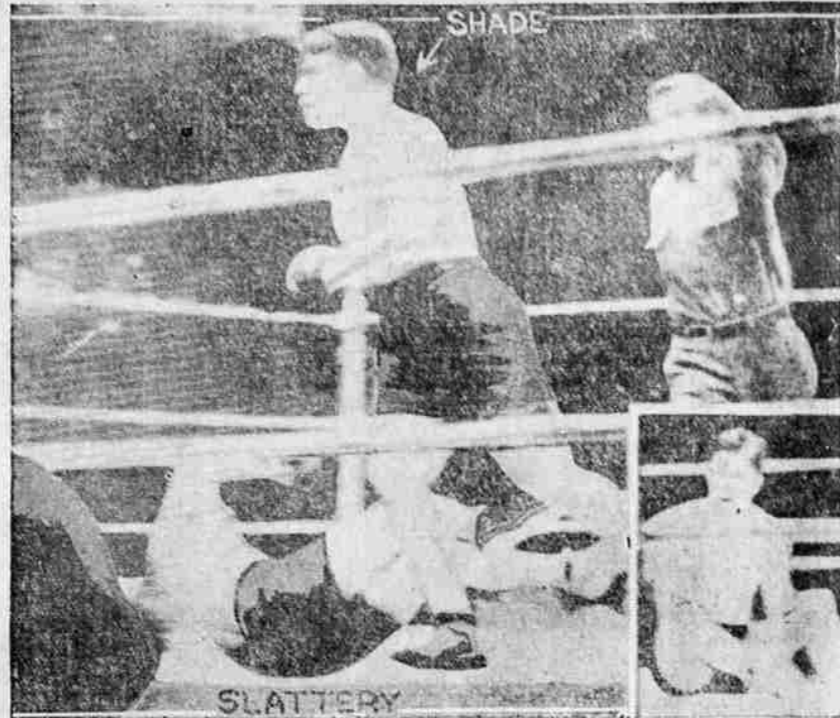

In the semi-windup, Kid Starkey of Chico out-sizzed Jimmie Carlson of Spokane and won the call with plenty to spare. Carlson was almost out on his feet in the final frame.

Joe Coffman and Wilbur Harrington boxed a tame four-round exhibition. Both boys appeared to be pulling their punches. The crowd was disappointing, and the first bout did not get under way until after 9 o'clock. To all outward appearances, boxing is on the wane here and unless it is given better support, it should be called off until the fall months.

Sport experts say the knockout means that Wills has proved himself a rightful contender for the heavyweight title. (NEA telephotograph.)

Klamath Falls Wins, 11 to 5

Trusty stick work by Arnold, Noel and McNealy, plus steady pitching by Mohler, were contributing factors to a victory for Klamath Falls over Grants Pass yesterday afternoon on Fairgrounds field. The score was 11 to 5.

Mohler had two bad innings, the seventh and eighth. Three hits and two walks brought in two runs for Grants Pass in the seventh and three more hits in eighth accounted for three more tallies.

Consistent hitting kept the game on ice for Klamath Falls. In the fourth McNealy opened up the fireworks with a home-run. A single by Noel, a double from Arnold's bat and another double by Hooper accounted largely for five runs before the dust settled.

With a nine-run lead the Pelicans settled down and only took up an active offensive again in the seventh when Booth and Matthews crashed through with successive bingles, and brought in two runs.

Aside from his two weak innings, the seventh and eighth, Mohler pitched his usual steady game, with nine strike-outs chalked up to his credit.

A medium sized and enthusiastic crowd were on hand at the exhibition game and were not disappointed for the Pelicans worked like a well-oiled machine.

At The LIBERTY

What is conceded to be one of the most spectacular thrills ever screened occurs in "Silent Sanderson," the latest production starring Harry Carey, which is now playing at the Liberty theater.

This is a wolf-attack on one lone man—so nicely executed that you actually see the wolves pounce on the hapless fellow and begin to tear him to pieces. It is incidents of this sort that place "Silent Sanderson" in a class far above the average "western." Harry Carey, who portrays the victim, declares that the sequence was almost too exciting to enact!

He continues that when the ornery wolves were let loose and asked to look pleasant for their "close-ups", it was very difficult to find anyone in the immediate vicinity who would with any enthusiasm second Director Scott R. Dunlap's eternal cry for "Realism!" Carey says it took more courage than he ever had occasion to summon up before to plough through this band of snarling, temperamental beasts—amidst reassurances that he would be rescued before any harm could be done. They kept their word—and all the wolves managed to get was his shirt.

The famous "western" star's fearlessness will be everlastingly established by this piece of work. In addition to this scene, there are many others of unusual daring, which make the picture highly dramatic and intensely gripping piece of screen drama.

At the PINE TREE

"The Dixie Handicap" which shows for the last time at the Pine Tree theater tonight, is an adaptation of Gerald Beaumont's story "Dixie" which appeared in the Red Book magazine. It's a story fraught with the romance of old Kentucky, with Claire Windsor as the beautiful southern girl who falls in love with the Dancer Kid, the man who has trained her father's race horse, Dixie, for the big sweepstakes. Frank Keenan appears as the father and Lloyd Hughes as the "kid." It's the last word in stirring race track pictures.

One of the most appealing and tragic stories ever filmed, with all of the director's delicate artistry at its best.

That is the verdict of "He Who Gets Slapped," which opens an engagement of two days at the Pine Tree theater Tuesday.

Adapted to the screen from the play by the noted Russian author, Leonid Andreyev, "He Who Gets Slapped" presents a tragic, intense story of an unhappy clown. The picture is set in the colorful locale of a European circus.

Lon Chaney gives many tugs at one's heart-strings in his portrayal of "He," the unfortunate clown, and easily surpasses his other great roles.

The story, in short, is of an obscure scientist, who slaves away for years on his theories, proves them, then, as his life work is stolen by his patron, and his wife deserts him, becomes "He Who Gets Slapped," a circus clown. His

Klamath Youth Is Now a "Devil Dog"

How it feels to tread the deck of a battleship afloat on the Pacific is rapidly becoming a familiar sensation to Ernest Leslie Polson of Klamath Falls, who is a member of the U. S. Marine detachment on the U. S. S. Idaho, according to the official list of marines serving aboard that vessel.

Although U. S. marines serve at many shore stations in the United States and in our possessions abroad, many of them prefer duty on battleships and cruisers, where they have an opportunity to travel from port to port and occasionally come ashore for recreation and sightseeing. In recent weeks the Idaho has been cruising about in the vicinity of the Hawaiian islands.

Ernest, who is a native of Klamath Falls, lived with his father, Walter Polson, rural route 1, before he joined the marine corps at Sacramento last November, and was assigned to duty at San Diego, Cal. Later he joined the U. S. marine detachment on the Idaho.

Employes Honor Departing Chief

Fred A. Baker, departing superintendent of the Klamath Indian Agency, was honored with a reception on Wednesday evening, when the Women's Club of the Agency were hostesses.

A musical program was given consisting of piano solos by the Misses Florence and Charles Elliott and vocal numbers by Miss Dorothy King and Mrs. Harry Dobbins.

James Howarth introduced the speakers of the evening including Rev. Weeks of Madoc Point, Leroy D. Arnold, and Mr. Baker. Following the program refreshments were served by the women of the club. Later dancing was enjoyed.

Mr. Arnold, formerly of Tualip, Washington, will succeed Mr. Baker and was given a hearty welcome by the people of the Agency. Much regret was expressed at the departure of Mr. Baker who has made many friends during his stay at the Agency.
