

Rejected

Because her sweetheart, George Henry Clay, was serving with the United States navy in Chinese waters, Miss Jackie Yan Diver, 22, of Louisville, Ky., went to Cincinnati clad in men's clothes and tried to enlist as a sailor. When her sex was discovered recruiting officers took up a collection to send her back home.

Chic Is Added to the Spring Ensemble

Dorothy Mackaill Selects Her Accessories With a Discerning Eye for the Unusual

Gloves for Spring! Parasols for the sunny days! Handkerchiefs for color and daintiness—and, for the boyish mode, the belt! These are but a few of the things which go towards completing a costume of chic for the street ensemble.

For evening, the list of accessories is equally long and quite as difficult to select with true distinction. There are, for instance, the newest stockings with delicate embroidery to select from, as well as the daintiest of handkerchiefs with silver lace to make them formal and ostrich fans for staidness as well as jeweled ornaments of all types.

Dorothy Mackaill, in selecting her wardrobe for "Chickie," a First National film, prepared a long and interesting list of accessories with which to add the necessary chic to her costumes.

Gloves just now are notable for their smart cuffs and come in all matching and interesting shades, which may also contrast with the street ensemble.

The parasol is growing shorter and shorter and its stubby little handle serves only as a handy stub for its loop with which to hang it over the arm. Colors continue vivid in the newer styles. And the parasol which will be worn in late spring and summer is remarkable for its varied colors done frequently in batik. Painted chiffons and embroidered silks are much the vogue, too, and will make merry a season destined to be gorgeously colorful.

Handkerchiefs lead the mode in variety. Colors from the most delicate pastels to the most flaming shades come in embroidered and even jeweled models. The monogram is passing into a shadowy past, while the flower design in contrasting color is frequently embroidered.

Jewels continue to glitter and bracelets, earrings, handbags and necklaces vie in favor. Sets which are really beautiful come to make milady suitable for the most formal of occasions.

Belts may be wide to the point of a sash girdle, or narrow to the extreme, but they are decidedly with us when a sweater or sports blouse is used. They also form an important bit of color in the one-piece sports frock.

Colors and material vary, but the leather belt, with its smart addition of gold or silver at the sides, is a distinct novelty—and a very fetching one. The wide belt is often of ribbon, and is sometimes made in the roman striped ribbon. The snakeskin belt is a novelty which is new and very chic.

Jeweled buckles continue a favored accompaniment to the gilt kid slipper, and when the jewels come in all colors they are indeed smart. Stockings with jeweled motifs are quite the latest thing for the evening ensemble.

The pocketbook, of course, continues an important accessory. But here the choice is so varied that no particular style may be singled out for the newest mode.

Kills Husband

MARY SKIBO (ABOVE), AND HER MOTHER, MRS. MARY SKIBO.

Mrs. Mary Skibo, 39, has confessed that she killed her husband, Frank Skibo, at Michigan City, Ind., by beating him with a crow bar as he lay in a drunken stupor. She is held on a charge of murder.

But before confessing, she tried to fasten the blame on her daughter, Mary, 19, who she said had quarreled with Skibo over a loan of $5.

The girl professed her innocence, however, and police finally got Mrs. Skibo to admit the killing. She murdered Skibo, she said, because he drank, squandered his money and made her take boarders.

After keeping his body in her room for 24 hours, Mrs. Skibo laid it in an alley, where passersby found it.

Film Star From Vienna

Evening Wrap From Paris

TRIANGULAR Jabots of plain silver cloth trim the skirt and sleeves of this coat of embroidered tulle that is collared with black fox. This is the type of wrap Paris prefers for evening instead of the more voluminous cape or full coat.

Scopes, Awaiting Trial, Is Keeping Cool

John T. Scopes is going on trial in Dayton, Tenn., on July 10 for teaching evolution, but meanwhile he isn't worrying greatly about it. Here he's shown taking a dip in the old swimming pool near Dayton. And he doesn't have to swim alone, either, you'll note.

TOWN SCINTILLATES WHEN OXFORD BOYS DOLL UP OXFORD, Eng. — For several years past Oxford men of adventurous character have been experimenting with new fashions in evening clothes. They have tried coats without tails, and coats with white lapels, and double breasted coats with knee breeches, but always in vain.

At last a new style has been accepted. Young Oxford men of means and spirit now go out of an evening in silk stockings, light silk knee breeches, blue or purple velvet jackets, and cream silk shirts much frilled at the throat and the cuffs.

While the fashion is not greatly suitable for subway or rainy evening wear it is declared by its proponents to be certainly more picturesque and a vast deal more pleasing than the "foul dress" which what they characterize as the dullness of last centuries, has decreed should encase mankind when he steps out for a bit of an evening.

REGULATIONS FOR LIFE SAVING

LONDON.—(AP)—New board of trade regulations relating to life-saving apparatus to be carried by ships become effective July 1. A motor-boat or boats fitted with wireless apparatus and searchlights must be carried in vessels with more than 15 life-boats. If the vessel does not carry a motor-boat, but has more than 10 lifeboats, one of these must be fitted with wireless. Life-boats in all foreign-going ships will be required to carry one pound of condensed milk for each person, in addition to the water and biscuits required by the present rules.

Many Entertainments in Vienna VIENNA.—(AP)—Denying that Vienna is dead socially, Herr Breitenner, city councillor, declares there were 7,129 entertainments in the city between January 1 and March 20. All paid amusement taxes despite the economic crisis through which Austria is passing.

There are many ways of doing things. The best way to go to sleep is by trying to stay awake.

Gets $50,000

It took a job, just one hour and fifteen minutes to decide that Mrs. Blanche Geller, divorced wife of a Toledo auto dealer, was entitled to $50,000 from his second wife for alienation of his affections. She married Geller in 1908 and the divorce was granted in 1923, two years after Geller met the woman who later became wife No. 2.
