FRENCH PILOTS ANXIOUS TO TRY ATLANTIC TRIP

ed industries and A. G. Clark of the PARIS, July 10, (AP)—Paul Tarascon, French "ace" and pioneer in pre-war flying in Europe, has been bringing all the pressure he can to bear on M. Painleve at the war office and M. Laurent Eynac of the aeronautic department to enable him to make his proposed non-stop flight across the Atlantic this summer.

Tarascon, who lost a leg before the World War and had difficulty in getting into the service, will be accompanied by another skilled air pilot, if the flight is made, Francois Coli, a naval officer who accompanied Roget on his Franco-Rumania flight and on his "stunt trip" of crossing the Mediterranean twice in one day.

It is planned to start the flight toward the end of July, provided the necessary government authorization can be obtained, leaving from Le Bourget airdome, just outside of Paris, and making the jump to Mitchel Field on Long Island. The French air authorities are counselling the two pilots to take off from Ireland or nearer the French coast than Le Bourget, and to aim for Newtoundland as a first landing place. Tarascon and Coli, however, persist in maintaining the flight can be made without a landing and are demanding a fair chance to prove it.

The plane they intend to use is the Breguet "Paris-Tokyo" model made famous by Captain Pelletier D'Oisy on his flight a year ago. The engine will be either the Hispano-Suiza or the new Renault.

AKERS OF EUGENE

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Akers of Eugene are among the visitors in the city today, registering at the Hotel White Pelican.

"better bread"

Has come to be the standard of measurement for the quality of all the brea dmade in Klamath county.

The reason for this is simple. People have come to know that nothing goes into its making but the very best of ingredients and with the baking left to our new monster oven—it is by far the best product you can buy.

Industries Review Will Be Held Soon

PORTLAND, Ore., July 10.—An Oregon industries review to be held during the week of August 3 to 8 is planned by the Associated Industries of Oregon, the industries committee of the chamber of commerce and retail merchants of the city.

While the campaign will be held during the thirteenth annual buyers' week, it will not in any manner interfere with the buyers' week activities, but it is designed to call attention of buyers throughout Portland's trade territory to Oregon manufactured products.

A meeting of representatives of the three interested groups was held yesterday in the chamber. Discussions were led by Lee Schlesinger from the industries committee of the chamber; E. G. Titus of the associated industries and A. G. Calrk of the Greater Portland Association.

The plan finally adopted for the campaign provides for window displays and demonstrations of Oregon products, publicity and demonstrations and talks at civic luncheons and club meetings on the merits of Oregon products.

Prizes will be awarded to stores and to industries for the best displays. The associated industries and the Portland Telegram each volunteered contributions to the prize fund.
