At the PINE TREE

New husbands for old! Is that the modern cry, or is it only the habit of a few extreme women of today, tired of staying at home, and having too much money, time and nervous energy to be contented.

Especially when the husband himself has lost interest in the woman!

This is the idea woven around "The Marriage Circle," that marvelous production of the famed Ernest Lubitsch, which we have been fortunate to procure for a showing here. At the Pine Tree Sunday and Monday.

In "A Self-Made Failure," at the Pine Tree Theater tonight, J. K. McDonald again scores a clean knockout.

Those who saw his "Penrod and Sam" and "Boy of Mine" may be prepared to see even a better picture in "A Self-Made Failure."

The production has everything essential to a picture success—story, direction, cast, acting, sets and photography.

But most of all, and best of all, it has human appeal without which no picture can impress an audience.

Being a farce-comedy it naturally has humor and more than a bit of slapstick. These had been considered outside this producer's realm, but a study of "A Self-Made Failure" convinces that McDonald has added more territory to his already vast domain of artistic ability.

At The LIBERTY

A "motion picture" cowboy, all dolled up in circus clothes and "lookin' for trouble"—an ex-gun-fighting sheriff—the leader of a bandit gang—a mob of lynch law maniacs—the daughter of a lonely homesteader—a husky, mannish woman—a wizened, under-the-thumb husband—action—drama—thrills—comedy! At the Liberty Saturday.

The big race scene in Tom Mix's new William Fox production, "Oh, You Tony!" which will open at the Liberty Theater Sunday for a two day run, is punctuated with thrills and excitement. Tom is entered with his wonder horse Tony for the race, the winner of which gets $25,000. Due to the plotting of Earle Foxe and Dolores Rousse, villain and assistant respectively, Tom is delayed in arriving until the last minute. It is only because of a number of false starts that he succeeds in arriving at all.

BOY DIES TO AID MOTHER

NEW YORK, July 11.—Thomas J. Daly, Jr., 5-year-old son of Patrolman Thomas J. Daly of the special service squad, died yesterday in Union Hospital, the Bronx, of burns received trying to beat out the flames in his mother's dress, which had caught fire from the kitchen stove in their home, 2302 Valentine avenue, the Bronx.

Mrs. Daly is in Fordham Hospital in a serious condition. Her husband and daughter, Rita, 3, were painfully burned on the face and hands.

Daly was asleep in a front room of the apartment, Mrs. Daly and the children were supervising the cooking of a chicken, which was to furnish chicken sandwiches for a picnic later in the day. On a rack above the gas stove hung the wash.

A sudden scream awakened the father. He ran out and saw his wife's cotton dress blazing and his older child frantically beating at the flames with tiny hands. The kitchen was in flames.

Daly put out the fire in Mrs. Daly's and Tommy's clothes and picked up the children, one under each arm. He ran with them down four flights of stairs and through the street two blocks to Union Hospital. Neighbors rushed in and took care of Mrs. Daly and extinguished the fire.

Patrolman Daly was a flight sergeant in the A. E. F. and served sixteen months in France. He became a member of the Police department soon after his discharge from service.

Stray Cats And Dogs Seek Homes

NEW YORK, July 10.—Four little yellow cats, living in a cage in the department for strays at the Elin Prince Speyer hospital for animals, at 350 Lafayette street, are hoping that some kind persons are in need of four excellent mousers with beautifully marked coats. So at least one may interpret the wistful look in their big eyes. They are male kittens, only eight weeks old, but house broken and well behaved.

They were born in the hospital. Their mother died, but Old Mother, a feline attendant who earns her catnip and chopped beef by the devotion with which she nurses every litter of orphaned kittens that happens along, brought them up. They are now ready for adoption.

A number of other fine cats, as well as some attractive dogs, are anxiously waiting for homes. Among the dogs is a handsome black collie that was picked up on lower Broadway some days ago. It is thought that he was lost from some wagon or automobile from the country, but his owner has not appeared. He would make a nice pet for some one in the suburbs.

LEONARD HALL IS BACK TO KLAMATH FREE ONCE AGAIN

With the threat of the heavy arm of justice removed and with nobody but friends to greet him back to Klamath, Leonard Hall returned this morning, a free man.

Through the intervention of friends and the indefatigable work of the Moose lodge, he was released from the Michigan State reformatory without serving out his complete time.

When Hall was 15 years of age he escaped from the reformatory, where he was serving a sentence for attempted robbery. With the vow to go straight, he wandered to Klamath Falls, and since coming here has secured a job, married and now is the father of a baby son.

Last spring, through the local police department, he was apprehended and returned to Michigan to serve out the remainder of his sentence. Successful pleas of his friends and a letter from Governor Pierce resulted in his dismissal.

SCOPES TRIAL HALTED TODAY

or not Scopes taught that man descended from a lower form of animal.

The administration of the oath to the jury Monday, followed by the reading of the indictment and the arraignment of the defendant, will bring the opposing contestants together.

Symptoms of such a clash were revealed several times yesterday in the objections of Mr. Stewart to the manner of questioning pursued by Clarence Darrow in examining prospective jurors. Mr. Stewart, both at a brief exchange of views of opposing attorneys and during the selection of the jury, objected strenuously to the injection into the trial of anything which would indicate that it would develop into an attempt to reconcile the theory of evolution with the Bible.

Case Outlined In a statement to the Associated Press last night he said: "Since the defense has made known its position concerning the competency of the proposed evidence of scientists tending to show that there is no conflict between evolution and the Bible, I think it but right that our position should also be definitely stated and that it might be understood that we intend to back our program as vigorously as we know how."

Continuing, he said it was his understanding that Scopes would not deny he taught the high school students that man descended from a lower order of animal.

Law Violated "If this be true," he said, he is guilty of the violation of the law and all the evidence of the scientists within his reach cannot save him. The law itself says that it shall not be taught to the students in the public schools that man descended from a lower order of animal."

Whether or not scientists might be brought into court to expound the belief that man descended from a lower order of animal by the process of God's creation, he felt would make no difference, declaring the law says such cannot be taught.

Production of expert witnesses by both sides, he said, would lead to a "never-ending proposition and would in the end be but a babble of tongues."

CAUTION The thin, extremely flexible balloon casing, repaired by the old methods, leaves a hard, stiff section which throws the tire off balance and quickly ruins it.
